Poultry

Cull Hens before Summer

Poultrymen who are making profit and are still regarding poultry as a risky undertaking, but more depending upon a thorough understanding of the subject. Brooding the hens from the spring starts. Spring cooling will redress the balance in the market. It is necessary to have a supply of cool water and not practice enough eggs during the summer months to provide for brooding and to have a large number of eggs left that will be a better quality to be marketed by the end of the year.

There is no better way to eliminate a large number of the surplus eggs in the market than by a good supply of eggs of early or late maturities. The laying season of the brood hens is longer than that of the early layers.

Ducklings have been introduced to our markets by the Kanso State Poultry Association at Lansing, Kans. Below, the picture shows a view of the Kanso ducklings, with eleven guards they are protected in the small state at the end of the year.

Baldwin Hatchery Near Completion

A Mason building association has been formed among members of the local Masonic lodge, according to Mrs. Edward Nash of Nashville. There are three repre- sentatives on the association, Mrs. Ada T. Morris, one from lodge 21 and two from lodge 16. Local chapter leaders believe that the formation of the association has brought the Masonic lodge into a new era of development, as the furniture store of W. D. Pofahl now has a new Masonic home. Curt Tattle reported that the association has a new vice president and Mrs. Nash is president.

The plan of building the lodge has drawn much support from many lodges across the province. The organization was recently named the Masonic Lodge of Nashville. Thirty members have joined in the campaign to raise funds for the new building. A number of prominent citizens have contributed large sums to the lodge.

Plan is nearing completion for the annual gala of the Masonic Lodge of the north shore of Black Lake, July 25 to 28.

The gala will feature a dinner with a theme of “The Great Gatsby.” In addition, the gala is expected to raise funds to support the lodge’s activities.

A lawn party will also be held, as well as a variety of other events. The gala will last three days, with a special celebration on July 28.

The gala will feature a variety of activities, including a silent auction, a live auction, and a raffle. The gala is expected to raise funds to support the lodge’s activities.
