To Our Readers

The same being the beginning of a series of articles intended to encourage the growth of community welfare in one of the best communities with which we are acquainted in the hope that all will learn to think as a community and not of a village surrounding by a number of outlying farms.

The village and surrounding farms have so much in common and are so dependent upon each other that we would that the one included the other as a political division and a school district with everything in common for the benefit of all.

Of course the home owners might still live were there no stores here but few of us would care to live in a community without stores nearby and homes both within and near to the village would be of little value were there no stores nearby; for these reasons this community should do all in its power to maintain successful stores in our midst just as the merchants are doing their best to serve the community and contribute to their welfare and happiness.

A careful survey of prices published from time to time in other communities convinces us that prices here are as low as elsewhere. Sometimes a special equals ours but more often ours are lower on standard goods.

While maintaining these low prices our merchants and professional men have spent over $600 this summer in furnishing us with free entertainment which is more than all outside interests and peddlers have done for us since the creation.

Crowds have enjoyed these free entertainments which were possible because our community trades at home and appreciates what our stores are to them.

Let us forget not these things and realize that you pay the price, in outside buying, either in gas, transportation or postage, that makes the difference between a prosperous community and a poor one.

School Notes

School is well under way for 1927-28. The enrollment in the first six grades is 95, in the Junior and Senior High School 106, making a total of 173. 37 of this number in the Junior and Senior departments are non-resident students.

At its last monthly meeting the Board of Education adopted the policy of approving text books for a five year period. This means that it will be impossible to change a text, after it has once been approved by the Board, for five years. It is thought that this will lighten the book costs for the parents.

The Board of Education has also ruled. "That all books shall be handled through the School Book Store, and that they shall be marked 15 per cent above wholesale to cover all handling expenses. Any surplus remaining in this fund is to be transferred to the Library fund and used for the purchase of books for the Library."

A new flag has been ordered for the school and will soon be flying from its commanding position.

All school patrons are cordially invited to visit school at any time. A short talk with the teacher may mean a lot to your boy or girl; we solicit your cooperation in this respect.

Did you know that the School Library has 1050 very readable books. They are all in first class condition, they have been cataloged according to the Dewey Decimal system and any book can be found rapidly. School patrons are cordially invited to make use of the School Library. Book lists will be published later for your convenience.

Bank Day tomorrow! The School Bank day will start tomorrow. The First State Bank has kindly arranged for new record cards to be used in keeping the necessary records. The student will have one card and the office one. Each bank day the deposit will be entered on both cards, also each deposit will be entered on a duplicate deposit slip. The total of the deposit slip will be checked against the total of the cards to make sure that no mistake has been made. The First State Bank has also provided the school with a file to keep these cards in. The student may take his card home or may leave it right at school. During the summer months the entire case will be removed to the Bank and the deposits handled there.

It is not a large deposit that counts so much as regular deposits every week. Our aim is a 100 per cent in every room every week. Help us make this goal. See First State Bank Advertisement in this paper. Ask a teacher or someone at the Bank for particulars.

The School Orchestra had its first meeting Monday after school. The following officers were elected: President, Max Brown; Secretary and Treasurer, Anita Stimpson; Librarian, Charles Smith. Other members of the Orchestra are: Lowell Oten, Edwin Foelsch, Faith Winters, James McGregor, Roy Wickman, Luther Howard, Vernon Wise, Corlan Cummings, William Clement and Ronald White. The orchestra will meet each Monday and Wednesday night after school at four o'clock.

Obituary

Geraldine Barbara Allen, daughter of William and Clarissa Allen was born in Gobles September 21, 1926 and passed away Tuesday, September 6, 1927, aged 11 months and 15 days.

Geraldine was born with an affliction of the spine and was a great sufferer until the time she was taken to her Heavenly Home. Besides her father and mother, she leaves one sister, Bertha May and one brother, Raymond, her grand parents and a number of other relatives.

A precious one from us has gone, A voice we loved is stilled, A place is vacant in our home Which never can be filled.

God, in His mercy, has removed The boon His love had given And though the body slumbers here The soul is safe in Heaven.

MICHIGAN SEVENTH IN ONION INDUSTRY

Michigan's record-breaking onion crop of 1926, which filled 1,284,000 bushel baskets as compared with 713,000 in 1925, was distributed to 232 cities in 32 states, as well as three cities in Canada, according to R. H. Shoemaker in his report on the 1926 onion deal. Five hundred and five of the 2,193-carload crop were retained for the state's own consumption. New York accounted for 334 cars and Pennsylvania 222, although more cities in the Quaker state received Wolverine shipments than in the Empire state.

The Wolverine state moved up a place to seventh in national production as compared with eighth in 1925. Those surpassing Michigan were New York, Texas, Indiana, California, Massachusetts and Ohio. Michigan displaced Colorado, which was seventh in 1925.

Hooper, a shipping station in Allegan county, which is to the state's onion growing industry as Zealand is to the poultry business, was far in the lead in shipments with 796 cars. Martin of the same county was second with 321 cars, followed by Grant, Newaygo county, with 193; Hudsonville, Ottawa county, with 145, and Grand Rapids, Kent county, with 80.

Average yield was 375 bushels per acre against 266 bushels the previous year. The first car was shipped Aug. 20, 1926, although the real movement did not get under way until mid-September. The last car was forwarded April 23, 1927. Prices ranged from $1.25 per 100-pound sack on yellow varieties at the opening of the shipping season to $3.65 at the wind-up.

Beavers Trapped Alive Along Lake Superior Shore of Michigan

Vernon Bailey of the United States Biological Survey is trapping beavers alive along the Lake Superior shore of Michigan. Mr. Bailey has invented a very ingenious trap which captures the animals alive without in any way injuring them or spoiling the pelt. Mr. Bailey has caught many beavers in Pennsylvania, Maine, Michigan and other states, working in conjunction with the various conservation agencies in these states. He occasionally catches baby beavers for domestication.

The young beavers do not leave the house or bank den where born until a month or six weeks old, or some time in July. At that time, according to Mr. Bailey, they weigh three or four pounds and are easily caught in the water with a boat. They can be driven out of the house by shaking it or thrusting a slender stick into the nest cavity and rattling it about.

In some places they can be scooped up in wire mesh dip nets as they emerge from their home through their under-water canals, but they are more likely to be first seen swimming with heads just above water not far from the house.

In such cases, two people in a canoe, one in the stern to paddle and one in the bow to watch, can easily catch them. As they dive, the direction should be noted, the boat should be driven beyond the spot, and the water should be carefully watched on all sides for the next appearance.

Young beavers will not remain under water very long, rarely over two or three minutes, and after several swims under water they become tired and are readily approached and picked up by the tail as they come to the surface and pause for breath. They do not attempt to bite, and if carefully handled are gentle and quiet from the first.

It is usually possible to locate young beavers in a house by listening to their baby-like cries, as they habitually cry a great deal, especially when hungry or disturbed. When old enough to come out regularly for food, they can be seen before dark swimming around near their house or a little way out in the water. If the baby beavers are taken quite young it may be necessary to feed them from a bottle. They can be raised on cow's milk and take eagerly to the nursing bottle. In the early fur-trade days they were occasionally nursed by the Indian squaws and raised as household pets. They could probably be nursed by such foster mothers as sheep, goats, and possibly dogs. Undiluted cow's milk is apparently too rich for them, so it should be skimmed or separated and boiled. Powdered whole milk can be used if fresh milk is unobtainable, as is usually the case in the wilderness far from railroads or cattle.

Like young babies, the small beavers must be fed small quantities every four hours, night and day, to keep them quiet.

Railroad Farm Near Howard City Inspected

The demonstration farm of the Pennsylvania railroad at Howard City was inspected recently by 91 Newaygo county farmers who were interested in sand land farming problems. The delegation was accompanied by Harold Stinson, Newaygo county agricultural agent.

The system of sand land management as practiced at the demonstration farm and the features of the Keystone crop rotation worked by the railroad for use on light soils were explained by B. O. Hagerman of Grand Rapids, the railroad's agricultural agent.

August was a record month for the demonstration farm from the standpoint of visitors who have inspected its projects. Several hundred farmers visited the place during the month. Railroad officials interpret these visits to indicate a growing interest in the use of light agricultural soils.

Starts Muskrat Farm

Baraga county's first fur farm has been established in the King lake district, Covington township, by C. E. DeLene of Moline, Ill. One thousand acres of cutover land with two small lakes, a natural breeding place with excellent coverage and good feeding grounds, has been selected by Mr. DeLene. A number of muskrats have always made these lakes their homes. The lands are situated on the north side of the South Shore railroad and on M-28. He is building a cottage and roads and has had several men at work the past summer fencing in the property. There are a number of lakes in that district which are excellent places for fur-bearing animals. Mr. DeLene expects a shipment of 1,000 muskrats soon to stock the place.

Bee Inspector Finds Montcalm Infection

John Seidelman, inspector for the bee keepers of Ionia and Montcalm counties, says he has found a large number of colonies in Montcalm county infected with foul brood. These are condemned, the bees exterminated and the hives sent to the bonfire. The trouble in Ionia county has been corrected.

FARMERS ENJOY GOOD HARVEST SEASON

Michigan farmers have experienced a very satisfactory harvest season. Weather conditions were favorable in most sections and much grain has been cut and threshed without any rain during the time. The small grains are yielding well and the quality is generally good. Corn and beans are below the ten-year average in condition, but all other crops are up to or above the average. Drought is becoming acute over the lower peninsula except in the southeastern portion and all cultivated crops are being injured thereby. Frosts of sufficient severity to cause considerable damage to corn, beans, potatoes and the truck crops have occurred in various sections of the state, according to the monthly report issued by Herbert E. Powel, Commissioner of Agriculture, and Verne N. Church, U. S. Agricultural Statistician for Michigan.

Find Bass Have Many Enemies

Young fish of all kinds, especially bass, have little chance to reach maturity, according to discoveries made by Ole Clines, supervisor of Amber township.

Clines has a private bass nursery on his farm. He planted three large mouth bass in the pond last year. From spawn of the adult fish, he estimates 3,000 bass were hatched this spring. Enemies of the young fish have reduced the number to approximately 500, he says.

One large bird, commonly called a crane, but believed to be a heron, contained 16 young bass, 4 frogs and 2 tadpoles in its stomach. Clines shot a half dozen of these birds.

A large water snake contained eight young bass. Inside of a turtle he found three large baby bass. A large crane was killed near the Mason county bass pond a mile west of Scottville. No bass, but several young frogs were found in the bird.

After stealing a fish from a fisherman's basket on the south breakwater a large mink ate minnows from the hand of "Uncle Dan" Shoup, Mason county outdoorsman and Civil war veteran.

Shoup saw the mink as it emerged from the timbers of the superstructure and dive into the receptacle. When it left it carried a large perch. He began tossing minnows to the mink and soon had it eating from his hand on his knee.

New Trapping Law Sets Restrictions

Michigan has a new trapping law to protect fur bearing animals. For the first time since the game laws were established in this state there is to be a trappers' license setting a limit upon the number of traps any individual can operate. The restrictions thrown around the pursuit of the fur bearing animals calls for the payment of one dollar to the state for the first 20 traps used and for each additional one above the number, 10 cents each. No more than 100 traps are allowed.

The state will furnish to each applicant a sufficient number of metal identification tags which must be attached to the trap or trap chain. Without these the equipment is subject to confiscation. The law becomes effective November 15, this year.

A closed season will protect muskrats until March 1, 1929, until which date no muskrats can legally be caught or shot.

Van Buren County Fair Sept. 27 to Oct. 1

The dates for the annual Van Buren county fair at Hartford have been set for September 27 to October 1, and the advertising matter for that big exposition is now distributed. The fair association plans to have day and night exhibits this year with the racing every afternoon as the big feature. The Kolkowski orchestra of Muskegon will again be in the grandstand, and there will be the usual number of free attractions, as well as fine exhibits of livestock, vegetables, fruit, flowers, canned goods and fancy work.

Loeb Farms, One of North's Showplaces, To Be Discontinued

The Loeb farms, managed near Charlevoix by Ernest G. Loeb of Chicago, will discontinue operation this fall, it has been announced, due to the fact that business demands Loeb's presence in Chicago.

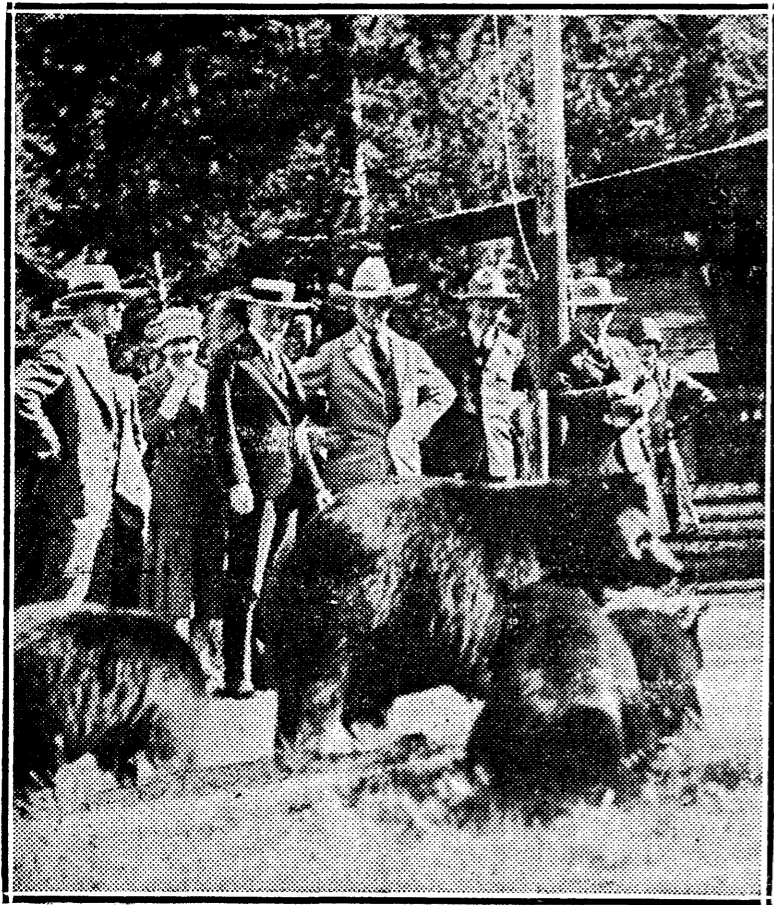

The estate, which has a frontage of four miles on Lake Charlevoix, will be opened to development and the stock of thoroughbred Holstein cattle, Belgian horses and Duroc Jersey hogs will be sold at public auction.

The farms have been considered one of the showplaces of northern Michigan.

Progress Made in T. B. Eradication

A summary of tuberculosis-eradication work conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture in co-operation with various states shows excellent results during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1927. An outstanding achievement was the large increase in the number of entire counties which have completed the tuberculin testing of all cattle within their boundaries.

The summary of progress shows 347 such counties distributed among 27 states. Thus, more than half of the states have one or more such tuberculosis-free counties. The three leading states in this respect are North Carolina with 82 counties on the modified-accredited list, Michigan with 42, and Iowa with 30 such counties.

On July 1 a total of 17,600,380 cattle in the United States were under supervision for the eradication of bovine tuberculosis. Besides this number considerably more than 4 million cattle are on waiting lists and will be tested as soon as the federal, state and county veterinary complete other work for those owners who signed up earlier for tuberculin testing.

The total number of cattle in herds fully accredited as free from tuberculosis exceeds 1,885,000. The work of tuberculosis eradication is going forward systematically in all states. During the last month of the fiscal year the inspectors engaged in tuberculin testing applied the test to more than 800,000 cattle, of which approximately 24,000 were found to be affected with the disease. The removal of such reactors from contact with healthy cattle, followed by the slaughter of diseased animals under federal inspection, is gradually reducing the extent of bovine tuberculosis throughout the country and benefiting both the livestock industry and public health.

California's Garden Gold

We know very little about the botanist, Escholtz, or whoever it was that wore the name and attached it to one of the most beautiful of the California natives, the California poppies. But the name will be perpetuated in the Escholtzia, the scientific name of this gorgeous bit of California gold that spreads over our gardens and which in addition to its original gold now comes in creams and crimsons and oranges and scarlet.

The California poppy is a hot weather grower and like most plants of this type doesn't mind a late start in life providing it has the heat to speed it on its way. Like most of the poppy tribe it is difficult to transplant successfully so should be sown where it is to spend its life and thinned so that the survivors will have plenty of time to develop and send out their sprawling branches spangled with the brilliantly colored cups. The finely-cut gray-green foliage is ornamental in itself.

The orange types are the most brilliant for masses in the garden enlivened with occasional splashes of the scarlet and crimson varieties. In combination with blue cornflower the yellow California poppies make beautiful bowls for table decorations and are one of the finest of the midsummer annuals for cutting. The poppies have a habit of closing at night but the closed flower, which often has a different coloring on the outside of the petal, is attractive.

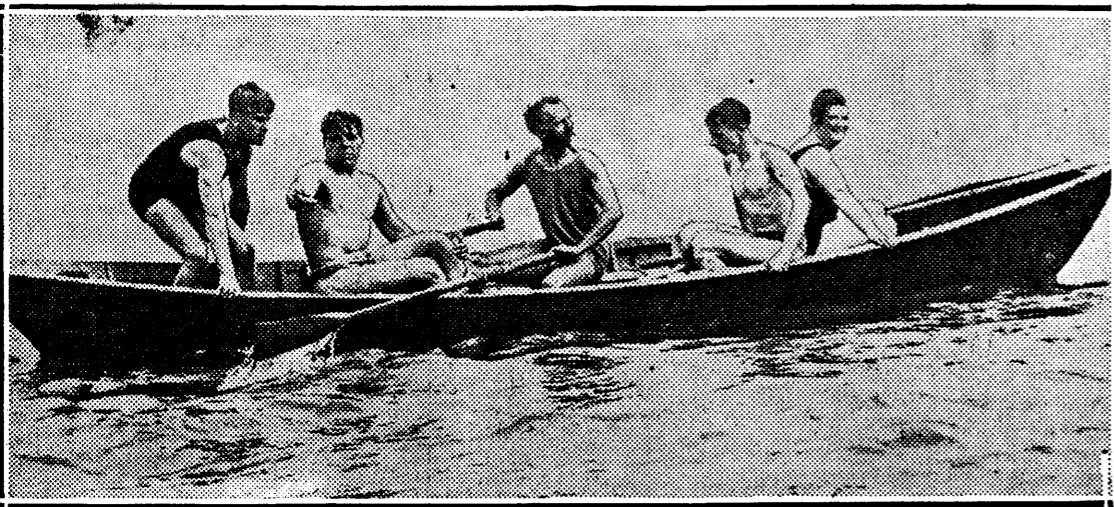

The California poppy has the advantage of flourishing in hot dry situations that are too much for many of the more tender annuals and shares with the portulaca the reputation of being something of a salamander among plants.

"MIDDLE NORTH" IS SUGGESTED AS NEW STATE TITLE

A particularly fine suggestion has been made by Lawrence H. Conrad, Ann Arbor novelist of the Michigan automobile industry, in a recent issue of the "Michigan Library Bulletin." It comes to us through Arnold Mulder, editor of the Holland Sentinel. Mr. Conrad's suggestion is this "We have permitted our state to get lost among the corn states by a popular phrase. Ours is the only state, aside from Florida, that is clearly marked on every map in the world. Certainly it ought not to be difficult to set it apart from the surrounding states. I am suggesting the term "Middle North" without having his mind led straight to the circle of lakes and the pleasant peninsula which is Michigan. Its use may tend to define more closely a region that is increasing in economic importance and that could well become the center of a healthy literary activity.

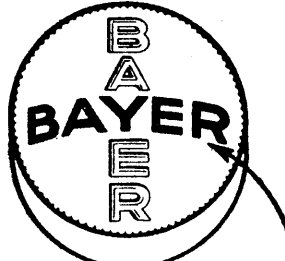

What a fine idea it would be to have Michigan known as the Middle North, and to use that name in referring to the place in which you spent your vacation when you are back home in the fall. It carries a wonderful impression of cool summer days and pine scented woods. It is individual and refreshing and holds its invitation for more visits in the free and bracing North. Michigan is very clearly defined on the map, and its necklace of pearls, the lakes give the air entrancing odors which are individual and primarily peculiar to Michigan. Perhaps some day the state may become a gathering place for winter sports similar to Lake Champlain in New York. Committees have already been selected to look into the possibilities of the matter. When the plan materializes the Middle North will be even more appropriate and well chosen. Spread the idea to every loyal Michigan resident.

The Industrial Revolution the World Really Needs

SHIPPING ON LAKES INCREASED

Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of engineers, has just returned from an inspection trip of harbors on Lakes Michigan and Huron. During the trip he visited over 30 harbors of varying size and function. He stated that he found government work progressing satisfactorily and that the benefits of water transportation are much in evidence in the lakes region. The last river and harbor act authorized an examination and survey of connecting channels and harbors of the great lakes. Before making his recommendations for new work to be undertaken by the government, General Jadwin desires to visit personally as many of the harbors as possible. The various members of the board of engineers for rivers and harbors will, under present plans, make trips on lake freighters in order to familiarize themselves with existing conditions on this important highway of water-borne commerce.

Will Argue House of David Case Late in September

Briefs and final arguments in the state's suit to dissolve the House of David colony at Benton Harbor, testimony in which was completed recently, will be made when Judge Louis Fead returns to Berrien county on Sept. 26. It is expected that it will require about three days to complete the hearing in this case and that Judge Fead will render his decision some time in November. This case has been one of the longest and most sensational ever heard in Berrien county, starting in May and closing testimony about the middle of August, after 230 witnesses had been called and the depositions of many other witnesses were read into the testimony. The testimony heard before Judge Fead filled more than 12,000 typewritten pages and the depositions, it is said, will make at least 2,500 pages more that the judge will have to ponder over before he arrives at an opinion as to whether or not the cult must be dissolved.

New Ford Is Heavier And Lincoln-Like

Information regarding the new Ford car continues to "trickle" out, although formal announcement is lacking. Reports indicate that, while actual production is being pushed as rapidly as possible, the first appearance is still some weeks off. The delays necessary in getting into rapid production and the task of supplying some 10,000 Ford dealers with display models before retail demand can be taken care of indicate that few of the public will be riding in the new Ford before the latter part of the year. Model "A" will be the name of the new vehicle, which is designed to replace the famous Model "T." While exhaustive tests of the new motor have been completed, no cars in final form have been completed. The new bodies have been approved and construction is under way. The rear axle and steering gear assemblies, however, have not been officially approved in whole, although the majority of parts have been O. K.'ed and are being produced in quantity. Production is going ahead slowly. The task of training the production force in the manufacture of new parts, however, is nearing completion. The final assembly line at the Highland Park plant, which has been viewed by thousands of visitors from all parts of the world, has been moved to Fordson.

Increased weight and resultant sturdiness will feature the new Ford. A new four-bearing crankshaft, weighing 38 pounds, will replace the former 19-pound shaft. The new front axle is five pounds heavier, weighing 19½ pounds. The radiator shell will be nicked and will weight eight pounds, an increase of over two pounds. One-piece fenders will also be of heavier steel.

The front of the car will have the appearance of a miniature Lincoln, with the Ford name, in familiar script, embossed in an oval with blue enamel background on the radiator. It is understood that consideration is being given to the addition of a cabriolet roadster to the line of passenger cars, which would make six body types.

Allot Last Supply Of War Explosives

The final echoes of the motive power prepared for the engines of death in the World War will resound in Michigan during the next few months, according to the announcement of F. L. Livingston, specialist in agricultural engineering at Michigan State College.

The final allotment of war surplus explosives for Michigan has been received and will be distributed through the county agricultural agents of the state. The allotment is small and the early orders are expected to exhaust the available supply.

Farmers of Michigan have used 5,500,000 pounds of war surplus explosives. An equal amount of comparable commercial explosives would have added $750,000 to the expenses of the farmers in blowing out stray stumps, in land clearing, and in blasting boulders, according to M. S. C. estimates.

HOLLAND NEW CONVENTION CITY

Holland is rapidly gaining a reputation as a convention city. Five conventions and conferences already have been listed within the next year and others are expected to follow.

The Women's Christian Temperance union of Ottawa county will hold its forty-eighth annual convention here. Sessions will be held in the Women's Literary club house. The program will be featured with an address by Judge Burton S. Shaw of Pentwater. Another feature will be a health play to be staged under direction of Miss Nina Daugherty.

The Ottawa County Sunday School association will hold its annual convention in Holland Oct. 4. Day sessions will be held in First Reformed church and the evening session in Carnegie hall will be featured with an address by Dr. Rice of Detroit and a pageant directed by Miss Henrietta Warnshuis of Holland. Speakers will include Rev. John E. Kuizenga, president of Western Theological seminary; Rev. William Masselink of Holland, Rev. J. C. Willits, former president of the Michigan State Sunday School association, and department conferences.

The Chicago synodical conference representing 130 churches in the Reformed church in America, will convene in Winants chapel, Hope college, Oct. 11 and 12. Dr. W. W. White of New York will conduct devotions at each session and several speakers connected with the Chicago synod are listed. The general subject will be: "The Holy Spirit and the Truth."

The particular synod of Chicago is scheduled to meet in Holland in May, 1928, in First Reformed church, for its third session in four years. Rev. John A. Dykstra of Grand Rapids is president of the synod and Rev. Thomas E. Welmers of Hope college is stated clerk.

The general synod of the Christian Reformed church in America will convene in Holland next June. The denomination represents 255 congregations and nearly 50,000 communicant members.

Failed Allegan Bank Pays First Dividend

J. Garvey Bly, receiver for the failed First National bank, received the checks from the comptroller of the currency at Washington to pay the first dividend of 10 per cent to depositors. The amount of the 1,441 checks to be paid out is $51,142.17.

The county of Allegan is one of the largest creditors and County Treasurer Vida Congdon states her office will receive about $4,000 on approximately $40,000 due the county.

Receiver Bly announces another dividend may be paid before Jan. 1, 1928, providing collections can be made to warrant it.

Industrial Canal For Saginaw

The state administrative board recently diverted the routing of a roadway at Saginaw to make way for an industrial canal. The particular waterway which is to be developed is that of General Motors Company, for the purpose of leading to a blast furnace at Saginaw in connection with its extensive foundries. It is stated that General Motors Corporation proposes to bring iron ore from the upper lakes into Saginaw bay to be converted into iron for the use of these foundries. The quantity of iron which can be consumed in the automobile industry is, no doubt, very great, although we doubt whether it will take all of the capacity of an economically large blast furnace.

The fact that the plan is suggested at all is an indication of the still growing diversity of Michigan industry. Saginaw was the home of the lumber trade. Recently it was told how the old industry, lumber, meets the new, oil, which is the most recent product of the underground resources of that territory. Now it is to serve an already growing established industry of iron founding. A blast furnace is to be erected in what was formerly the seat of the lumber industry.

Ten years ago this would not have been thought of, because iron ore, once aboard ship, seemed to be predestined to go to iron centers to be refined and turned out as pig iron. Now a single industry needs sufficient supply to warrant establishment of a blast furnace.

The valley is to be congratulated on this acquisition of a new industry, because it opens up a new line of possibilities in manufacturing which have not been dreamed of before. It may be that later on, with improvements in reducing iron ore, that many other same industries may be localized in many other places. The low grade iron ores in Michigan are attracting a great deal of attention toward their reduction, and some simple processes have already been suggested, which do not involve the use of coke in their first stages, but the reduction of iron ore into a matter carrying a heavy percentage of iron which may later be treated in the blast furnaces. It is not impossible that the development of these processes may lead to the establishment of furnaces in many places heretofore considered unavailable, because of the heavy freight of coke into them.

Grand Ledge Is Sued by Property Holders

The city of Grand Ledge and its treasurer, Roy Kirkpatrick, are named defendants in a chancery case filed in circuit court by Attorney Rex Spafford for Walter Merrill, Ella DePuy, Blanche and Floyd Bair, William Schavey, A. O. and Bessie Halsted. The plaintiffs own property in a special assessment district created in connection with the paving last year of East Main and East Front streets, between Bridge and Greenwood streets, in Grand Ledge, 50 per cent of the cost to be assessed to the abutting property.

It is alleged the assessments were illegal for the reason that the majority of the persons assessed did not petition the council for the construction of pavement, that the council did not give sufficient notice, etc., that the proceedings of the council and special assessors were irregular, without authority of law and not in accordance with the provisions of the city charter.

Cadillac Plays Host to Foresters of Michigan

Bay City was chosen as the place of meeting next June at a business session at Cadillac of the twenty-ninth annual assembly of the Independent Order of Foresters, which convened as guests of Court Logan lodge. The following officers were chosen: President, Rose Abbott of Battle Creek; vice president, Bessie Buys of Traverse City; secretary, Emma Nielson of Cadillac; treasurer, Ida Riebo of Grand Rapids. Court Logan officers entertained the visiting delegates at a banquet and ball at The Park-of-the-Lakes Thursday evening.

LANSING ASSISTS AIRPORT PROGRAM

The state will continue to assist in putting the airport at Lansing in good condition, it was indicated when Frank F. Rogers, highway commissioner, had told the state board that a preliminary appropriation of $2,500 had been exhausted, the road committee instructed him to continue work. The highway department has been engaged in grading the field and laying out smooth runways. Mayor Troyer of Lansing instructed the state to draw on the municipality for amounts up to $1,000, a sum diverted by the city council from the civic advertising fund.

Muskegon's Airport Cost $125,000

Muskegon, another of the half-dozen Michigan cities which have done anything worthy of mention in regard to airport development, is indebted to the Continental Motor company for being placed on the air map of Michigan. This airport was established at a cost of $125,000, is 2,250 feet east and west, and 1,190 feet north and south, this site being expanded by the clearing of additional land. The equipment offered company pilots is hangar capacity for one large three-motor ship or three small ships, rest rooms, fueling service, water supply, air cones for wind direction, and the conventional large circle for guide markings. This circle is 100 feet in diameter. Repair service is available and telephonic communication is provided. At present the field is used for interplant air service between Detroit and Muskegon, the ships carrying passengers, mail and freight as is necessary. Operations on the field are supervised by the officials of the Continental Motors Corporation.

KENT MUSEUM ACQUIRES ANTIQUES

Curios revealing bits of ancient history are exhibited in the collection of oriental antiques recently acquired by the Kent Scientific museum, Grand Rapids. One of the most interesting pieces is the long silken rope of imperial Chinese yellow, which was a part of the one kept by the late empress-dowager of China to present to undesirable officials near her throne. The presentation was significant of her command to the individual to commit suicide.

The imperial hanging rope which Henry L. Ward, museum director, secured from Edward Barrett, who got the famous curio from the imperial palaces in Peking in 1925, is about 50 feet long and only five-eighths of an inch thick.

A bronze Buddha, eight and one-half inches thick, used by the monks on one of the altars of a small shrine along the great wall of China near Ching Ling Chau in north China is also on display. According to Mrs. Barrett the monks claim the image dates from the Sung dynasty, about 900 A. D.

A Korean wooden carrier taken directly from one of the Hoodyas or burden-carriers on the streets of Keijo, the capital of Korea, in 1925, is another of the relics. The carrier, which enables a man to carry about 200 pounds, resembles an ordinary chair with the front legs sawed off and the chair back resting against the man's spine.

The collection includes a Mongolian conch horn secured by Mr. Barrett in 1924 at the palace of the "Living Buddha," the spiritual ruler of Mongolia.

Children of Professor Complete Quartet Tour

Pupils of Leopold Auer, famous instructor of violinists and of Felix Salmond, the great cellist, were heard by students of 16 teachers' colleges of the middle west when the Powers string quartet made its second annual summer concert tour through Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota and the Dakotas. Members of the Powers quartet are the four oldest children of Prof. J. Harold Powers, head of the music department at Central State Teachers' college, Mt. Pleasant, and the originator of the Michigan state high school music contest.

A surprise awaited Dudley Powers 17, second oldest member of the quartet, upon his return home. A telegram was there bringing the news that he had won a second scholarship at the Juilliard Musical foundation at New York. This means that Dudley will return to New York for his second year in the graduation school to continue studying under the tutelage of Felix Salmond, noted cellist. His sister, Dorothea, 19, also will return to New York for a third year's study under Leopold Auer. The two younger boys of the quartet, Arthur and Harold, both of grammar school age, will join their brother and sister in New York this winter for special quartet instruction.

Cedar Chests Do Not Make Clothes Immune From Moth Damage

Experiments conducted by the bureau of entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture on the storage of clothing in chests made of the East Indian woods known as "kamfer" and "lagan," to protect it from clothes moth damage were completed in March with negative results. Chests made of the heartwood of red cedar, however, killed the newly hatched or young larvae of clothes moths when tightly constructed. They could not be depended upon to kill the moths or millers, or their eggs, or the worms after they were one-half to full grown, or after they were three or four months old. Neither did the cedar chests kill all the pupae or chrysalids.

Cedar chests are recommended as protectors of clothing from moth attack only when fabrics put in them are thoroughly cleaned, brushed or beaten just before they are placed in the chests, so that all stages of the insect that the chest will not kill are removed beforehand.

Songs of a Housewife

A HOUSEWIFE'S LUXURIES
It is my pleasure every day
To set the table leisurely.
With china patterned bright and gay,
With silver and fine napery.

My fingers and my eyes delight
To place pink roses in a bowl,
Arranging them exactly right,
A treat for any artist's soul.

How I enjoy the evening hours
When twilight lies across the lawn,
Puttering with my shrubs and flowers
Before the last pale light is gone.

Bright moments in the every-day,
These pleasures of a busy wife
Make up for many an hour of gray—
The daily luxuries of a life.

Ionia Women's Literary Club Opens Year Sept. 24

The thirty-sixth annual program of the Woman's Literary club is out. The club year will open Sept. 24 and as has been the custom the event will be in the nature of a reception for the city school teachers. It will be held at the Ionia Country club.

The club officers for the 1927-28 year are: President, Mrs. Claude M. Faude; vice president, Mrs. Richard L. Benedict; recording secretary, Mrs. Fred D. Keister, Sr.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Foss O. Eldred; treasurer, Mrs. Jean Templeton.

Mrs. William F. McKnight, Grand Rapids, will be on the opening program with a travelogue.

They're Tailored Or Frilled

Whether you have a masculine complexion and prefer your clothing strictly tailored or like extremely feminine and frilly things, you can be suited in the negligee of the mode. At the left is a pajama ensemble with coat which has a ripple effect in beige and three tones of French blue georgette—the tailored type. A lacy robe (right) is made of rose colored chiffon over silver cloth and trimmed with silver lace. A tassel or ribbon and silver beads finishes the girdle.

Women Having Own Campaign for President.

Who will be the new president of the General Federation of Women's clubs? This question is being asked by the more than 2,000,000 members of this organization, and the fact that the election is almost a year away does not detract in the least from the interest. The federation will hold its biennial convention in San Antonio, Tex., May 29-June 6, 1928, with Mrs. John Dickinson Sherman, the present incumbent, presiding.

To date two women have announced their candidacy, Mrs. John F. Sippel of Baltimore, Maryland, and Mrs. Edward Franklin White of Indianapolis, Ind. Mrs. Sippel has the endorsement of the Maryland federation which she served as president for four years, and which she now represents as director in the general federation. The Delaware federation also has endorsed Mrs. Sippel. She is chairman of the finance committee of the general federation and vice chairman of the house committee. She was regent of the Baltimore chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution for five years, during the world war period. Her family consists of husband, married daughter and little grandson.

"Continued growth and increased usefulness of the general federation are largely dependent upon three vital activities in our federation program," said Mrs. Sippel. "They are junior membership, club institutes and rural clubs, and they constitute my greatest interest in club work. The future of the woman's club marches forward on the feet of its junior members; club leadership offers the greatest adventure in life; rural women bring us the fresh and untrammelled viewpoint which we need, and we owe them a share of everything which, as city women, our lives have given us."

May Admit Non-Members to G. A. R.

Civil war veterans who are not members of existing posts would be given an equal footing with post members in a proposed amendment to the organic law of the Grand Army of the Republic to be introduced during the convention this month at Grand Rapids by Past National Commander W. W. Willets of Tama, Ia., and Assistant Adjutant General J. R. Risley of Des Moines. The change would involve the forming of a post-at-large, creation of which would be possible only by changing the G. A. R. constitution.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT

For those who like to try experiments the dish of chicken and macaroni and tomato sauce—a typical Italian dish—will appeal. Interest in meal getting always revives when something is to be tried.

Chicken

Macaroni with tomato Sauce
Fresh Vegetable Salad Bran Muffins
Green Olives, Celery and Radishes
Sliced Peaches Dark Cake
Black Coffee Milk

Today's Recipes

Macaroni and Tomato Sauce—Dress chicken. Cut into small pieces and fry till brown. One-third cup of fat will be sufficient. Put in one large can of tomatoes and one small can of Italian sauce. Boil this for two hours and keep adding water to the stew and season.

Cook two pounds of macaroni in boiling salted water till tender, then drain. Place macaroni in large platter. Have grated one cup of Italian cheese and use alternately some cheese and tomato sauce, mixing well. Use remaining cheese and tomatoes for top and garnish with chopped parsley.

Vegetable Salad—Chop all together, four small carrots, one small cucumber, four stalks of celery, one green pepper and one-fourth cup of salad dressing. Cut six hard-boiled eggs in rounded slices and about 36 asparagus tips, previously boiled. Arrange on individual green salad plates topped with a deep yellow dressing.

SUGGESTIONS

Washing the Spinach

A housewife gives her method of washing spinach. She says: "I think people would have spinach more often if it wasn't for the job of washing it. I think my method is somewhat easier than that of most cooks.

When I bring home my spinach, I tear open the bag, and taking each stalk, I shake off the dirt, cut off the roots and spoiled leaves, then put it in my largest pan, cover with cold water and sprinkle some salt on it. Let it stand until time to cook it, when I add a quart of warm water and after sousing it up and down in the water find that very little is necessary to remove the dirt as it has mostly settled to the bottom of the pan."

Makes Waterproof.

To make a comfortable pair of shoes waterproof for outdoor use, melt together a dressing of two parts of beeswax to one part of mutton fat. Apply at night and in the morning wipe well with a piece of flannel.

A cloth moistened with vaseline or kerosene will aid in keeping the stove looking well groomed.

WITH WOMEN of TODAY

Next year—1928—the republic of Czechoslovakia will celebrate its tenth birthday. The daughter of its president, Miss Alice Masaryk, intends to celebrate that anniversary in the United States visiting old friends.

Miss Masaryk was trained for social work under Miss Mary McDowell at the University of Chicago Settlement, Chicago. The friends she then made stood her in good stead during the World war, when she was imprisoned by the Austrian government and threatened with execution. Miss McDowell and Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, hearing of her plight, got scores of American women to write and wire the Austrian government pleading for her release.

Since the death of her mother Miss Masaryk has been "first lady" of Czechoslovakia. She is head of the Red Cross of her country and serves on its international committee.

Lindy's Life at Stake

The other day I stood beside a friend in an electrical shop as he dismantled a magnet. Step by step he named for me the different parts and explained their operation.

I expressed curiosity about the windings and he went into further detail. "The inner, or primary winding, of rather coarse wire, sets up a certain current," I was informed. "This outer or secondary winding, having a thousand times as many turns of wire, steps the voltage up a thousand times as high."

A thousand times! What kind of wire could be used?

He picked up a discarded core and cut through a part of the secondary winding, showing the bright filmy threads. But these were insulated! The wire itself was still tinier, and was completely and perfectly inclosed in the visible outer covering.

Hanging by a Thread

I couldn't help wondering "How much faith in such hair-like filaments of copper! What if—?"

"If one of those wires had broken," he interrupted me, "Lindbergh would have fallen into the Atlantic ocean." Yes, Lindy's life was hanging by a tiny thread of copper wire about as big as one of your hairs. And he didn't worry about it. It held him up—across the ocean, here and there, back to Grand Rapids. And still the Spirit of St. Louis flies on, and our autos whiz across continents; any tiny threads, and platinum points, and a dozen other tiny devices hold life itself in the balance.

Life's Windings
'Tis up to you to wind your life as carefully as any magnet ever built. Thread by thread, the tiny influences, the daily lessons in school, the surroundings in work and play, in home and church, are all combining to make the pattern.

Are you winding them on a well thought out plan, or just by chance? Are you surrounding the coarser, plainer strands with the finer, more powerful secondary windings? Will there be a short circuit or a broken wire when you try a difficult flight?

Did you ever work out a written life plan, or one, say, for the next ten years? If not, why not make one; it can be changed if needs be, but it will help you. Send me a copy of it; it will help others, too. Address to Creston Station, Grand Rapids, Mich. (All rights reserved)

LIVING AND LOVING

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

ASKS ADVICE—BUT

WILL SHE TAKE IT

"Convince a person against his will and he's of the opinion still," says the proverb, and "ain't it the truth?" People ask for advice when they know very well that they are not going to take it and when they are convinced that the course they are about to pursue will lead only to misery.

The following letter is from a young woman who asks "what shall she do?" But her last sentence indicates that she does not intend to do as I suggest:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl 18 and earn my own living in a small town. About two months ago I met and fell in love with a handsome man three years my senior. I think he cares a great deal about me.

"My problem is this: He is an ignorant and low class type of person, while I am respected and have many friends. My friends and parents look down on him and tell me he is a bum. I am ashamed to be seen with him and fear to lose my good reputation if I go with him.

"Please advise me. I can't give him up.

But Peggy, dear, if you are ashamed to be seen with him now, how can you possibly marry him and be with him all the time, giving up all your friends? Surely you would not feel like that if he were just having bad luck, and that is what makes him look like a bum. And think of this, my dear, would you be willing to give your children such a father? If you can't give him up, as you say, my advice will not do much good. If he is really a low character, you know that only misery can follow a marriage with such a person.

If the woman who signed her letter "Sad Eyes" but gave me no address, sees this letter, perhaps she will let me know what her name is and where she lives.

"I would like to get into communication with 'Sad Eyes,' whose letter you published. We have been trying to get some one to work for us who would appreciate a good home.

"M. T. Z."

Young people seem to have a lot of trouble with parents. Following is a letter from a girl whose parents "can't see" the young man she likes:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: There is a nice, handsome young man going with me now whom I think a lot of, but I have to keep it still from my father and mother because they don't like him or his people, but I think they are all right. My parents do not like any boy to go with me. What shall I do?" M. M."

Why don't you try to find out why your parents object to the young man? They may have very good reasons. You don't say how serious your friendship with him is, but marriage lasts a long, long time, my dear, and you can afford to be careful. And don't see him on the sly. Try to coax your parents to let him come to see you at your home.
