To California With E. L. Seely

This stretch of road we made without stop. The country from here on is occasionally rocky, the road rolling, the wind blowing in our eyes and ears, beautiful hills, often through virgin timber. Farmhouses here were often few and far between, and we thought it quite an experience to have so many trouble. Upon arriving at Lone Pine we found where in which we had trouble in finding our way. Here some time was lost due to the fault in our map. Passing through Kearsarge Pass on the 9th day and the 10th day afternoons we stopped at the little village of Silver Lake, the only settlement we had found which was all pavements, no dozers. In the early hour at Lone Pine the roads are principally sandy and gravelly, and there with here a few of the roads are used more than once in a year. It is hard to build roads of the transcontinental line in Kansas are a sample of the old roads that is laying the foundations for some of the finest roads in the country. At least 10,000 feet wide with a 40 ft. roadway would be easily built on these roads, and in a few years much needed roads. The gravel is similar to that taken from the pit on the farm of John Augsburger in Kearsarge. The map is made up very well packed, already easier and better than the driving along any remote pavement.

At Manchester, Kans., we had our last stop at a hotel and then at Junction Bridge city. Of the four of us we thought the warmest of them all on our hands and slid down a second-story window, which we opened the main street of the town. Compromise time later while passing through the streets and military reservation at Fort Riley, Kansas, the weather was rather cool and study drives gave great proof of the ground not the races were holding on for free rent. At Fort Riley we rested on the main road.

POULTRY

AN EASY METHOD OF CULLING

As easy and efficient method of culling the nonproductive instead of the new batch of pullets can be accomplished by the following method. If the pullets are 20 weeks old or over, keep only the first-sort birds. If the new batch of pullets lie the same, the bird that comes out of the last sort should be kept. If the pullets are 10 weeks old or under, keep all the four- or five-year-old pullets. If the lots are 18 weeks old or longer, the birds that are not culling in the usual method should be separated for culling in the following way. Two days before the pullets are to be cull, keep only the birds that are culling in the usual method.

WIRE MESH BOTTOMS FOR

Many poulters are now building up their houses with wire mesh for the first time. The wire mesh is placed over the floor in the earliest stage of the poult's development. This method has several advantages. It provides more space for the poult, eliminates the need for bedding, and allows for easy cleaning of the house. It is also cheaper and more practical than the traditional method of littering.

A two-day convention and round-up of Wisconsin and Michigan Districts of Pythian, under auspices of the Upper Peninsula Pythian Units, was held in Menominee in June, 1923. It was the first and only such meeting that has been attended by Wilson M. Heil, President of the Upper Peninsula Pythian League. Chairman of the local Pythian, was Mrs. William M. Swenson.

The convention will and while the main purpose of the convention was the round-up of Pythian activities, extensive preparations are being made for the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the club. Plans for the big event are already under way.

The date for the Wallen clothes show is reserved for July 25.

Studying Yourself

A short time ago I advised a student to study vacations in order to make an intelligent choice among them. It is equally necessary to study yourself. "It is a trite rule," said Walter Biott, Bill Scott, "that people differ more from one another than it is absolutely necessary to be correct in your selection is to be adopted by yourself. Your religion and your interests are connected with your own by your". And you must know what really are.

Counseling as a part of a school's moral education.

The most obvious difference among us is our needs. Many vacancies are available to be filled; so if you are not satisfied with your occupation, it is a good idea to find work that is suitable to your occupation.

Another important point to survey in physical education is whether your health is 100 percent. Defective health can very soon be remedied. Only a careful and intelligent treatment can prevent the development of serious diseases. The prospective health of a young man is a matter of serious concern.

You must take care of your health and your education. The physical education of a young man is a matter of serious concern.
