Lemon Decorated Cars
To Bring Color to Railroads

Early in March is due to court the rights of a motor coach company to provide a dignified and practical decoration for the cars of the Pullman Company of St. Louis, a project that has been under consideration for some time. The decoration consists of a network of lines, colors, and letters on the cars, giving them a striking and attractive appearance.

The Pullman Company has engaged in this work for some time, and the result is a most satisfactory one. The cars are painted in bright colors, and the decorations are executed with great care. The result is a most pleasing and attractive display, and the Pullman Company is justly proud of the work done.

The benefits and limitations of parcl post does not come up to expectations. As disclosed in a study of the operation of this form of selling over a period of 14 years are set forth in the bureau of agricultural economics in a recent publication, "Marketing Farm Produce by Parcel Post," just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The problems post look went into effect in 1918, says the author, Lewis R. Firth, they were using and varied results in the marketing of farm produce. Some persons believed that it would make possible the marketing of farm produce on a small scale and that it would be of benefit to the farmer. But still others believed that the method was unsatisfactory, that the quantity of farm products, passing through the post service has not reached the proportions that were expected of it by those who planned it, and it is a relatively small part of the total marketing of farm products.

The department's new bulletin includes information on the parcl post marketing of a variety of farm products, including fruits and vegetables, fresh meats, dairy products, eggs, and poultry. It also contains instructions for making contact with customers, and information on the business and the facts that pertain to parcl post marketing. The bulletin is available at the post offices.

Copies of the publication, which is being issued in June, 1959, can be obtained from the Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D.C.

Albin May Extend Combined Courses

Following overtures from dozens of senators, the middle west sent a strong message to Congress that they feared a "big trick up the sleeves" in the next session of the Senate. The sentiment was expressed by a group of senators from the middle west. The group met in Chicago, last Saturday night, and gave the impression that they would make a strong stand against any further extension of the combined courses of study. The extension is expected to be taken at the meeting of the Senate early in the year.

MORE ABOUT BUSINESS

Dear Boys and Girls: I wonder what you can do to help in the business world. I have already written a couple of articles on the most interesting developments in various fields of the arts. However, the commercial world has grown during the last thirty years.

One of the troubles, back with the people, is that they can hardly think of anything to do other than think of how much they would like to buy. They do not know what they want, and this brings us to the subject of what we can do to help.

In the economy of the country, there are many different businessmen, from the small store owner to the giant corporation. They all have their unique roles to play in the economy. It is important to understand their roles and how they contribute to our society.

The business world is a complex and dynamic place that requires constant adaptation. It is essential to stay informed and learn about new trends and technologies to keep up with the changing landscape.

In the end, the success of the business world depends on the efforts of all of us. By understanding our roles and responsibilities, we can work together to create a successful and prosperous society.

If you have any questions or comments, please feel free to reach out. Remember, as individuals, we all have a part to play in the business world.

400 East Jordan Children’s Original Pageant

"Arbor in the Maroon" was the title of a beautiful historical pageant presented by the East Jordan Dramatic Association. The pageant was held at the East Jordan High School auditorium, and it showcased the history and culture of the East Jordan area.

The pageant began with a grand entrance, where the children dressed as historical figures from the region. They had various costumes, ranging from Native American to pioneer outfits. The performers danced, sang, and acted out scenes from the area’s past.

The highlight of the pageant was the reenactment of a significant event in the area’s history, which was narrated by a speaker dressed as a historical figure. The audience was captivated by the actors’ performances and the impressive set designs.

The pageant concluded with a rousing finale, where all the performers joined together to sing a song celebrating the area’s rich cultural heritage.

The pageant was well-received by the audience, who enjoyed the lively performances and the informative presentation of the area’s history.

LIVNG AND LOVING

By Mrs. Virginia Lee

LOOK FOR A WAY OUT

We all have our troubles. That is agreed, but what we should try to do is to remain calm and serene. We should try to be happy and find joy in the simple things. When we meet the real problems in life, we should not be afraid to face them head-on. We should be strong and determined, and we should never give up.

Belief in the power of love is not just a matter of faith. It is a matter of action. When we believe in love, we should try to express it in our daily lives. We should try to be kind to others, and we should try to show love to those who are in need.

When we believe in love, we should also try to be true to ourselves. We should try to be honest and sincere, and we should try to be patient with others. We should try to be understanding and compassionate, and we should try to be forgiving when others make mistakes.

In short, we should try to be the best versions of ourselves. We should try to be kind, honest, compassionate, and loving. We should try to be true to love, and we should try to live our lives in a way that is true to love.

In the end, we should try to remember that love is a powerful force. It can help us to overcome the challenges of life, and it can help us to find joy and happiness.

To learn more about the power of love, visit the official website or read the book "Look for a Way Out."
