GOBLES, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1928

NO. 29

LOCAL BREVITIES

Mrs. Mertie Feely is home from Chicago.

Masonic regular tonight at seven. Third degree.

Mrs. Stockwell is able to sit up part of the time.

Frances Huff is home from Adrian this week.

Earl Newcomb has a position with Curtiss & Co.

Clyde Leverage is the new aid at the Mill warehouse.

Abbie and Paul Wilcox are home from Albion College this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Wood arrived home from the Sunny South Monday.

Joseph Brest of Otsego took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Stockwell.

Royal Arch Masons will confer the Mark Master's degree here April 12.

Roger Cole of Ferndale is spending the week with his mother and sister here.

Bert Woodhouse has purchased 10 acres near his farm, through Stanley Styles.

The Republican county convention will meet at Hartford next Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Messrs. Davis, Harrelson, Otis Lohrberg and McElheny were in Lansing Tuesday.

Easter dinner at the Baptist Church parlors next Saturday, April 7. 35 cents.

Gobles Masons are invited to Bloomingdale tomorrow night for a lodge of instructions.

Faul Bartolaine and family of Chicago were over Sunday guests at Herman Schow's.

The Democrat county convention will meet at Hartford next week Friday at 6 p. m.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Lewie Camfield, an eight lb. boy, Forest E. Camfield Jr., April third.

Messrs. Eldridge and White attended a meeting of John Deere dealers in Lansing, Monday.

Harold Wilcox of Ferndale and Whyte of Ohio Wesleyan are spending their vacation at home.

Virginia and Dorothy Chase of South Haven visited at the home of Mrs. Belle Bush on Saturday.

The council voted daylight savings time after May 1. The banker has started coming down early already.

Albert Rommel is here from Chicago and has started his new home at Brandywine lake. Glad to welcome him back.

Ed Mann has moved to the house vacated by Will Wormeth, and Mrs. Minnie Keller has moved to the one she recently purchased.

At the election Monday, the entire Republican ticket in Pine Grove was elected. In Bloomingdale, Clinton Cleland was the only democrat to survive.

Mrs. Andy Camfield passed away suddenly at the home of her daughter at Hammond, Ind., Sunday. Her funeral was held from the home here yesterday.

Be sure to look up the cast of characters for the Eastern Star play in another place in the paper. Don't forget the time and place, Gobles Opera House, Friday, April 13.

The late risers were awakened by the fire bell Sunday morning. Frank Thayer's house caught in the roof, but prompt aid by neighbors and the department put it out with little damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Curtiss have purchased Guy Graham's house. Another good proof that they are here to stay and have confidence enough in the home town to warrant their owning a home here. We trust they may never regret it.

The Wolverine Service Company have contracted for a fine new filling station on their lot at corner of State and Van Buren Streets, and Theisen Clemens will put in one for Dixie gas on the corner of State and Exchange streets, so looks like we would have plenty of gas.

B. C. Bruce has moved his business into the rear of Fay's shop.

Easter dinner at the Baptist Church parlors next Saturday, April 7. 35 cents.

Mrs. Niles entertained her Sunday school class last Friday afternoon. Of course the mothers were invited too and all had a jolly time.

Obituary

Jennie A. Smith, daughter of Mark T. and Eunice E. Smith, was born in North Ridgeville, Ohio, May 26, 1868.

When a young girl, she accepted Christ as her Savior, taking membership with a Methodist Church at Fields, near her home.

In December, 1883, she came with the family to Michigan, where they purchased a farm in Pine Grove Twp., Van Buren County.

Soon after coming to Kendall, she found employment at the Root home near Kalamazoo and other places until 1890.

When the Congregational Church was organized in 1888, she took membership with that Church, and during the lifetime of that Church, was ever a faithful attendant and an untiring worker.

She was united in marriage to Herbert L. Root of Oshtemo, March 26, 1890, making 38 years of married life, March 28, 1928.

They began housekeeping the next morning after their marriage and have lived continuously in the house which has so long been their home. To this union were born five children, Lillie M. Coulson, Otsego, Carl H. of Detroit, Alice M. Wood of Otsego, and Harry and Nelson who have established themselves on the old homestead.

In June 1923, she suffered a stroke of paralysis, partially recovering from this affliction, she was able to do some of her work for some time. She afterwards suffered other afflictions and became helpless, but always maintained a cheerful spirit. She was confined to her bed for the past four months, the last few days giving a decided change for the worse, it was evident the end was near. Her family was called to her bedside Thursday afternoon, and she departed this life at two o'clock a. m., March 23, 1928. The number of her years were 59 years, 9 months and 27 days.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, the five children, a sister in Plainwell, a brother in California, six grandchildren, and a large circle of other relatives and friends.

Services were held at the home, conducted by Rev. S. W. Hayes Interment at Kendall cemetery.

Card of Thanks

We wish to take this opportunity of expressing our deep gratitude to the many friends and neighbors who throughout the long weeks and months our beloved wife and mother lay ill, and on the occasion of her death and funeral, by the many kindly acts and by the extension of sympathy endeavored to lighten the burden of sorrow that lay so heavily upon us. In this connection we would mention especially the Rev. Hayes for his comforting words, the Austin family for the singing, the Sweet brothers for their autos, and all who brought flowers. May our God bless them all.

Herbert L. Root,

Lillie M. Coulson and family,

Carl H. Root,

Alice M. Wood and family,

Harry Root and wife

Nelson L. Root.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all who helped in any way to extinguish the fire at our home Sunday morning, especially William and James Clement who first saw the fire and rang the alarm.

Frank Thayer and Family

Card of Thanks

Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Stockwell wish to thank their friends for their many acts of kindness and the Community Church for flowers during Mrs. Stockwell's sickness.

Obituary

John Leeder was born in Hancock County, Ohio, March 24, 1861, and departed this life on March 27, 1928. He came to Allegan County, Michigan, with his parents, who were pioneers.

He has spent his entire life living in Allegan County, Grand Rapids, and Gobles, Michigan. He was president of the County Association of Odd Fellows, former president of the Village of Gobles, and a member of the local Board of Education.

Besides a host of friends, he is survived by his widow, a son, Joseph Leeder of Columbus, Ohio, his aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Leeder of Dor, Michigan, two sisters, Mrs. J. B. Bolmer of Niles, Ohio, and Mrs. Hugh Kennedy of Detroit, and a brother, Will Leeder of Carey, Ohio.

Funeral services were held at the home Wednesday, March 28, conducted by Rev. Hayes. Burial services were under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. Lodge at Robinson cemetery.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our appreciation to the many friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement; also Goble I. O. O. F. Lodge and Hazel Dell Rebekah Lodge.

Mrs. John Leeder, Prof. Joseph A. Leeder, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Leeder, Mrs. J. B. Bolmer, Mrs. Hugh Kennedy, Mr. Will Leeder, and Relatives.

Resolutions

Death, that messenger whom we cannot pass has entered our midst and Brother John Leeder has been called to the life immortal. He lived a life filled with practical goodness and usefulness, his long years of faithful service and unfaltering fidelity have contributed much to the success of our order.

Whereas, the All Seeing eye of Him who never sleeps, noted the usefulness of our brother and sent His fleet footed messenger to summon him to the Grand Lodge of the Great-Beyond, whose sessions never end and whose Noble Grand is God.

Resolved, That the members of Hazel Dell Rebekah Lodge No. 106 extend our deepest sympathy to his wife and son in this hour of sorrow and while they mourn the loss of a devoted husband and father, we mourn the loss of a faithful friend and brother;

Be it Further Resolved, That we drape our charter for a period of thirty days and a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of our lodge records and a copy be sent the bereaved family. "When hearts whose truth was proven, Like thine, are laid in earth, There should a wreath be woven To tell the world their worth." Committee.

Card of Thanks

We desire to thank the people who furnished autos and the business men for their cooperation at Mr. Leeder's funeral.

I. O. O. F. No. 393.

Resolutions

"Oddfellowship! Working in manhood's prime and ardent youth

In that sublimest most ennobling strife, To show for man, best Friendship, Love and Truth."

In Memory of Brother John Leeder who died March 26, 1928.

"So let him sleep that dreamless sleep, our sorrows clustering 'round his head: Be comforted, ye loved who weep, he lives with God—he is not dead."

Once again Death hath summoned a Brother Odd Fellow, and the golden gateway to the eternal City has opened to welcome him to his home. He has completed his work in the ministering to the wants of the afflicted, in shedding light into darkened souls and in bringing joy into the places of misery and as his reward has received the plaudit "well done" from the Supreme Master.

And Whereas, The all-wise and merciful Father has called our beloved and respected Brother home,

And Whereas, He having been a true and faithful brother of our Mystic Order therefore be it

Resolved, That Gobleville Lodge No. 393 I. O. O. F., Gobles, Mich. in testimony of her loss, tenders to the family of the deceased brother our sincere condolence in this deep affliction, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family.

Fay Osmon, J. Chas. Petty, George Neale, } Committee

OVERNIGHT AIR MAIL FOR DETROIT

National Air Transport will extend its overnight mail and express routes into Detroit as soon as the government can install the necessary lighting equipment. United States Department of Commerce men are on the ground making their survey, and it is confidently expected that operations may start over the extensions within three months. The service also will be extended into Tulsa, Okla.

The connection with Detroit will be made possible by making Toledo a regular stop on the New York-Cleveland-Chicago overnight mail and express flight. The Detroit connection, and the Tulsa one as well, will be exclusively a night route. The Tulsa line will be extended from Ponca City, Okla., which already is an important stop of the Chicago-Dallas overnight planes. Toledo is now building a modern airport.

The Detroit plane will leave in time to connect at Toledo with the east-bound overnight mail and express plane out of Chicago and the west-bound plane out of New York at 9:35 p. m., returning to Detroit with mail and express from both night planes. The run from Detroit can be made in slightly more than a half hour, which will give mailers in that city an airmail closing time later in the evening hours than most other cities enjoy.

Black Lake Carp Fishing Operations Discontinued

Carp fishing operations in Black lake have been discontinued. About 120 tons of carp have been lifted in the nets and part of the proceeds will be used for the building of fish hatcheries by the Holland Game and Fish Protective association, under supervision of the state.

The last two hauls brought less than a dozen carp and the operators decided it was time to quit. All the fish has been sold. The work was done by George Bender under supervision of P. A. Lievens.

Sea Gulls Clean Up Grounds of Ottawa County Hatcheries

Chick hatcheries in Ottawa county are attracting sea gulls by thousands. The reason is that the birds are finding ample food for their sustenance and it helps hatchery operators in keeping their places clean.

The birds seem to have learned the location of every hatchery in the county. They swoop down upon the ground and feed upon the spoiled eggs that are dumped there. The birds devour all they can find and the flocks are becoming larger.

One merchant happened to look in the direction of a hatchery recently and saw the grounds literally covered with birds. He made no attempt to count them, but said there must have been 1,000 or more in the flock.

The birds that usually stick to the water are known to have gone inland for miles just to get their fill on eggs.

ALLEGAN GETS PERMIT FOR DAM

Mayor Joseph F. Mosier of Allegan received word from Congressman John C. Ketcham at Washington stating the federal water power commission had granted a preliminary permit to the city of Allegan to construct a dam and hydro-electric power plant at the Calkins bridge site on the Kalamazoo river, six miles west of Allegan.

The estimated cost of the proposed plant and power line is $450,000. Several months ago the city voted to issue bonds to finance the project, but the action was halted by light and power companies of the district.

FIRE DESTROYS MACOMB COUNTY 'PEST-HOUSE'

Macomb county hospital, commonly called the "pest-house" on the Little road, was totally destroyed by fire of undetermined origin. The hospital, which contained 12 rooms, was valued at $5,000.

According to Poor Commissioner John Schelling, no one has been in the hospital for the past four years, and he knows no reason for the blaze, which started in the kitchen.

The "pest-house" is located about a half mile from the county poor house. It contained rooms just large enough for a single patient.

The Mt. Clemens fire department went out to the scene of the fire, but arrived too late to stop the blaze.

Beds, bedding, kitchen utensils and furniture were all destroyed in the fire.

Huron County Boy To Manage Five Factories in Australia

Bound for Australia to become manager of five automobile factories, Lee R. Wallace, Jr., 26 years old, a Huron county boy, called on friends in Bad Axe and his old home town, Port Austin, before leaving.

For the past year and a half Mr. Wallace has been manager of a General Motors factory in Port Elizabeth, Cape Colony, Africa. He left New York, Nov. 13, 1926, and on arriving in Africa took charge of the erection of a factory there. In a strange land and under adverse circumstances, the young man set about his task. The factory employed 600 men when completed. It makes automobile bodies and assembles parts for standard American cars.

Correcting a popular notion of Africa Mr. Wallace stated that Port Elizabeth is a modern city of 100,000 people, two-thirds of whom are white. There are plenty of industries there, including shoe, canning and other factories. There are motion picture shows too, but the pictures would seem a little old if shown in America now, he said.

An 18-hole golf course gives the city a distinct British as well as American atmosphere.

Despite the modern touches it was like living in a different world, Mr. Wallace said. Native Africans go barefooted in the streets and wear scant clothing. One can be hired for a few cents a day. Wages for whites are about the same as in America.

There are a million and a half white people in Union South Africa, a British possession, and 10 million blacks. While on a trip into the native country, Mr. Wallace wrapped a native black girl in a copy of the Huron County Tribune and took her picture. It was her only article of clothing and censorship prevents the picture being shown here.

The natives live in small huts. They wear no clothing and raise just enough food to satisfy their hunger. The women do the work while the man of the family lives in a square hut with his favorite wife, surrounded by the lesser huts of his other wives.

Mr. Wallace, a son of the late John E. Wallace, was born in Port Austin and was educated in the schools there. About five years ago he went to Detroit to work in an automobile factory. There he learned how cars are assembled and studied the auto industry. With his mechanical mind he soon mastered the art.

Following a trip to California with his mother, Mrs. Henrietta Wallace of Saginaw, Mr. Wallace will sail for Melbourne, Australia, to take over his new, responsible position.

Ships 3,782 Refrigerators

A solid train of 43 cars containing 3,782 Leonard refrigerators were shipped from Grand Rapids by the Leonard Refrigerator Company over the Pennsylvania railroad to dealers at various points throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico. According to J. E. Chamberlain, traffic manager at Leonard's, this is a record day's shipment for the company.

START DRILLING FOR OTTAWA OIL

Henry P. Zwemer of Holland, one of about thirty Holland, Grand Rapids and Muskegon men interested in the development of oil wells in Ottawa county, has driven the first stake on the Stone farm in North Olive and drilling operations will be started at once.

Three carloads of machinery have reached Holland from Lexington, O., and the drilling outfit has been conveyed by trucks to the territory where the work will be undertaken.

Twenty-five thousand acres of land have been leased in Blendon, Robinson, Olive and intermediate points and drilling operations will be in charge of Bolluck of Lexington, O. The concern has been organized under the name of the Ottawa Development Co. It is planned to drill to a depth of 1,500 to 1,800 feet.

This territory is only about 20 miles from Muskegon, where drilling operations have resulted successfully. Large oil concerns are interested in the development of the oil industry.

Ford Shows Taxicab

The new taxicab of the Ford Motor company, as designed by Edsel Ford, now is on display in metropolitan centers. It is known as the Luxford Taxicab and has low and rakish body lines. The lower part of the body is green with a belt of yellow and red striping running around the cab. There are red steel wire wheels. The side lights are miniature replicas of the two front headlights. On the cab roof are two signal lights. The interior seat is wide enough to accommodate three passengers and is upholstered in blue mohair. There is a single folding seat put in a recess well forward in order to give greater knee room to the passenger using this seat.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"
Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Day after day it becomes more apparent that the unrivaled popularity of the Bigger and Better Chevrolet is due to its basic elements of superiority.

And the greatest factor of all is the effortless driving it provides. It steers with the weight of the hand—for the worm and gear steering mechanism is fitted with ball bearings throughout... even at the front axle knuckles. The clutch is velvety smooth in action and the gear-shift lever responds to the lightest touch. Acceleration is swift and certain, while big non-locking four-wheel brakes assure perfect control under every condition of highway and traffic.

You'll never know what a great car it is until you sit at the wheel and drive! So come in today for a demonstration!

YPSILANTI EDUCATOR HEADS STATE GROUP

Dr. M. S. Pittman of the faculty of Michigan State Normal college was elected president of the Michigan Rural Education society at the meeting at Western State Teachers' college held recently. Dr. Pittman will succeed Dr. Ernest Burnham of Western State.

Dr. M. L. Smith of the faculty of Central Michigan State Teachers' college was elected vice president and Miss Isabelle Becker of the state department of public instruction was re-elected secretary.

Unequal distribution of the burden of taxation and unequal educational opportunities for boys and girls of the state are the two greatest problems that are confronting the state department of education, according to State Superintendent of Public Instruction Webster N. Pierce, speaker at the twenty-second annual rural Progress day observance at Western State Teachers' college.

"I wish some person would map out a plan of taxation that would provide that every person pay his just share of the cost of education and that some politician would arise who would put it across," said Supt. Pierce.

Other speakers on the program were Miss Helen Heffernan of the state department of education of California, who told of the California plan of improving rural schools; Dr. Nat T. Frame of West Virginia university, national secretary of the American Country Life association, and Dr. John F. Kolb of the University of Wisconsin.

Eaton's Oldest Native Is Near 91st Milestone

The oldest native of Eaton county, Charles Way of Bellevue, is about to celebrate his ninety-first birthday anniversary. Mr. Way was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Way and was born on a farm a half mile north of Bellevue.

Mr. Way has spent virtually all his life in Bellevue and vicinity. He has seen this section of the state grow from a wilderness to its present state of cultivation.

In 1862 he married Miss Charlotte Perry of Bellevue, who died in 1917. They had two children, Mrs. Lida Winans, who lives with and cares for her father, and Bert Way.

Mr. Way has been active all his life and until a year ago drove to his farm, three and a half miles south of Bellevue, with his horse and buggy. Since that time he has been confined to his home with rheumatism.

He is a member of the Old Men's club of Bellevue, the pioneer organization of its kind, so far as is known. Four years ago the business men of the village presented him with a gold-headed cane, recognizing him as the society's oldest member. At his death the cane will go to the next oldest member.

Mr. Way's anniversary will be observed in his home, the only guests being members of his immediate family.

Students Look Over C. S. T. C. Structure

Because of the impossibility of the scheduled speaker to be present at the regular assembly at Central State Teachers' college recently, President E. C. Warriner arranged with the construction superintendent of the new administration building to allow the student body and the faculty to inspect the nearly completed edifice.

The students met at the gymnasium, where they were divided into groups. The line of march started at the east front entrance. From there it proceeded through the first floor corridor to the auditorium, then to the second floor and up to the cafeteria on the third floor, down the third floor corridor and to the library on the floor below.

Missionaries Serve 5 1/2 Years; Get Furlough

Rev. and Mrs. John TerBorg, missionaries for the Reformed Church in America in Japan for five and one-half years, are expected to reach Vancouver, B. C., soon on the Empress of Russia on their first furlough from the Orient.

Mr. TerBorg is supported by Immanuel Reformed church of Grand Rapids and Mrs. TerBorg by Third Reformed Church of Holland. Mr. TerBorg is a graduate of Hope college and Western seminary.

Poems That Live

THE RAINBOW

My heart leaps up when I behold
A rainbow in the sky:
So was it when my life began;
So is it now I am a man;
So be it when I shall grow old,
Or let me die!
The Child is father of the Man;
And I could wish my days to be Bound each to each by natural piety.
—William Wordsworth, (1770-1850)

Make Letter Writing Business

Having had great success in writing home for money, writing love letters, etc., Miss Margaret Barton of Butler, Pa., left, and Miss Margaret Laun of Milwaukee, Wis., both students at Wellesley college, Wellesley, Mass., have gone into the business of letter writing. Their rates? They charge 25 cents for thank you letters, 50 cents for love letters, 75 cents for letters of condolence, and ask 5 per cent on letters to papa asking for money.

Courses in philosophy will be offered at Central State Teachers' college for the first time this summer. The instructor will be Dr. Clarence H. Hamilton, who was professor of philosophy at the university in Nanking, China, until the college faculty was driven out by Chinese.

Baked Potatoes Healthful

Baked potatoes are most desirable from a health standpoint because all of the minerals contained in the skins are preserved. When asked why baked potatoes are not more commonly served, the majority of housewives admit that they do not plan their meal far enough in advance to allow the potatoes sufficient time to bake. If other baking is planned for the same time, fuel cost is not prohibitive.

Select potatoes of uniform and medium size so they will bake in the same length of time. Select ones that are smooth skinned and unblemished so the baked skins can be eaten if desired. Scrub potatoes well and dry them. If crisp skin is desired, rub them over lightly with unsalted grease. Bake in a hot oven until tender, increasing heat during last half of time.

Variations—Cut baked potatoes lengthwise, scoop out contents, beat with well-beaten egg whites and season before putting back in the shell. Grated cheese, finely minced onion or peanut butter may be added, or beaten egg yolk and buttered crumbs. Refill shells and return to oven to brown.

Coat is Figured

If the dress isn't figured this season the coat is. This navy georgette coat is embroidered in white silk confetti dots with plain navy borders. It accompanies a gown of white georgette embroidered in white.

M. S. C. Report Shows the Value Of Club Work

That the boy or girl who completes a project in boys and girls' club work acquires lessons in self-discipline, comes in contact with the fundamental rules of business conduct, and goes a few steps toward the formation of the habit of success, is the summation made by M. S. C. state leader of boys and girls' clubs in his annual report.

Last year 17,913 Michigan boys and girls started club projects and 13,014 completed their work.

In recognition of the value of the training given to rural youngsters, club work has been actively assisted by business men's and women's clubs, by public and private rural organizations, by fair associations, by state and county bankers' organizations, by railway companies, by the Smith-Hughes agricultural teachers, and by many other groups and individuals.

A. G. Kettunen, Michigan state leader of boys and girls' clubs, believes that, although the primary purpose of the work is to show the possibility of success upon the farm, the training will be available to the boys and girls later in either city or rural life.

The 1928 plans for state club work include the organization of 1,900 clubs with 20,000 boys and girls enrolled, with club projects in 80 of the 83 counties in Michigan.

Holland Sea Scout Vessel First Given First-Class Rating

The Paul P. Harris, Holland Sea Scout ship, was the first in the organization to be rated a first-class vessel, according to word received at Holland. Two other ships, one in California and the other in New Jersey, have received this distinction.

The Holland ship was sponsored by the Rotary club and named Paul P. Harris, Ship 18, in honor of the national founder of Rotary. Chester L. Beach is chairman of the Rotary committee co-operating with the boys. Andrew Hyma is skipper and Charles Vos and Charles Ash are mates.

Leo Peters was the first boy to qualify as a first-class Sea Scout in the Ottawa-Allegan council. Other members of the crew are: James Van Landegend, Ted Wyma, Hendrick Noble, Nelson Bösman, Edward Dekker, Chester LeShagway, Herman Dekker, Lester Slekters, Earl Francomb and Fred Van Slooten.

Albion Students End Class Fights

Class scraps at Albion high school are a thing of the past. The doom of this form of rivalry was sounded recently when all classes, except freshmen, voted in favor of abolition of class fighting. Accidents arising from use of automobiles is given as the reason for abandoning the physical encounters that had become quite pronounced in recent years.

Interclass basketball will furnish most of the rivalry between groups hereafter, according to class officers.

Oceana Folk Pleased With U. S. Deed of Park

Much interest is manifested at Hart over the deed by the United States government to the state of Michigan, wherein 927.44 acres of land near Hart is conveyed.

The land borders on Lake Michigan and the consideration in the deed mainly is that the land be used for state park purposes. Should the land not be used for state park purposes it is to revert to the government.

REFORMED CHURCH NEEDS PASTORS

That a demand continues to exist for ministers in the Reformed Church in America is evidenced from figures tabulated from the annual yearbook. More than 100 pastorless churches are reported in the 40 classes, represented by 735 churches. Five classes report no vacancies, while in the others the vacancies range from one to ten.

Many churches are looking to the seminaries for prospective pastors and judging from the number of calls extended two months before the close of the school year they are anxious to obtain regular pastors. Most of the vacant churches are small pastorates and the salaries usually are small. To a large extent such churches are aided by the classes with which they are affiliated.

Western Theological Seminary expects to graduate a class of 17. Its members, with two exceptions, are available for calls. Six members already have accepted promises of calls upon graduation, seven others are considering one or more calls, one is a volunteer for the foreign field and one plans to pursue post-graduate work.

Many prospective graduates and members of the middle class are serving as supplies for vacant churches during their seminary courses and these churches also are supplied by seminary professors and ministers in other educational institutions.

RECIPES

Chocolate Mousse

One-third cup thin cream, one-quarter teaspoon vanilla, one ounce chocolate, one cup whipped cream, one-half cup sugar, two tablespoons cold water, speck of salt, one teaspoon gelatine.

Melt chocolate, add sugar and thin cream, let boil one minute, add to hot mixture the gelatine soaked in the cold water. Let cool. Fold in whipped cream and allow to stand in ice box three to four hours.

Pineapple Meringue Pie

Mix one-half cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt and two tablespoons cornstarch and slowly add one and one-half cups hot milk. Cook in double boiler until thick. Pour onto two egg yolks, return to double boiler and cook until eggs thicken (about three minutes). Cool and add one cup well drained crushed pineapple and one-half teaspoon vanilla. Pour into a baked crust and cover with a meringue made of two stiffly beaten egg whites, two tablespoons powdered sugar and one-quarter level teaspoon Calumet Baking Powder. Brown in a slow oven.—By Marian Jane Parker, Home Economics Department, Calumet Baking Powder Co.

"Well, that evidences my self-control."

Youth and Life

A Clearing House for Boys and Girls and Their Problems
By BOYD R. SWEM

First Step Toward Success

Dear Boys and Girls—As you may remember from the article of last week, there are four angles to the problem of finding your place in life. One of them is the settling of the question as to just what one means by the term "success" in life. If you don't know just what to look for as "success," write me for copies of the articles that have already been written on that topic.

But what about your chances of attaining it? Do you really think that YOU are going to succeed in life?

Most of you don't think so. You haven't THOUGHT about it. You merely EXPECT to; some of you only hope to. And many of you are doomed to sad disappointment.

How Do You Rank?

Are you a superior person or just average—maybe a little below the average? Do you know whether the average person is succeeding today in the four points essential to a successful life? Is real success as possible in the coming generation as it has been in the past? To THINK you will succeed means to think through such questions as these:

One-eighth of the people in our country are said to own seven-eighths of the wealth. The other seven-eighths own only one-eighth of the wealth. Can you qualify in the upper eighth?

At 65 years of age about 85 per cent of our people, or 5 in every 6, are dependent on children or other relatives or charity. Does it look as if the average man was making much of a success? You may be sure that those who are here put up a fight that is a real challenge to you.

Choose, Don't Drift

Be sure of this: you will never drift into success. If you ever win it, it will be after a stiff fight. You must choose it, not just expect it. Throw your whole body, soul and spirit into the battle. Decide by a supreme act of the will that, come whatever obstacles, YOU will hew to the line and make your life a success.

To find your exact location may take months of planning, or years. But here is your first real step, and it is the most important one. It fixes your attitude toward the problem. Take success, with its four necessary parts, as a definite goal. Post its definition before your eyes. And write it on your heart.

Remember the little boy that had a bantam hen—the biggest fowl he was able to buy. But when the eggs came he was sorely disappointed about their size. He didn't know what to do. Finally, at great sacrifice, he purchased an ostrich egg and suspended it directly before the eyes of his little biddy, bearing this slogan, "Keep your eye on this, and do the best you can."

That's your task. Keep your eye on "Success," then get busy on the selection of the right place. Maybe some of the leaflets I have will help you. They cost you nothing. Address Creston Station, Grand Rapids, Mich.

LIVING AND LOVING

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

SAY YOU'RE SORRY

If you have quarreled with a person, don't let your pride keep you from acknowledging your fault and saying you are sorry. Even if you're not entirely to blame—and who is in a quarrel?—be sorry for your share in it. So much unhappiness may be avoided in life if we are just willing to throw aside our foolish pride and meet people half way—and more than half way, if necessary.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I have, through my own fault, had a misunderstanding with a young man whom I think a great deal of. Is it all right for me to call him on the telephone, tell him I am sorry, and ask him to call on me again? I am 20 years old."

"Waiting."

Perfectly all right, dear, the sooner the better.

For the corn, Annabell Lee, an authority suggests soaking the foot in warm, soapy water, then rubbing the dead skin off with gauze. Paint the corn with a mixture of salicylic acid, one dram, and collodion, one ounce. This can be applied at night for four nights. After soaking the foot the corns will usually come off.

The writer of the following letter begs me to print it:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Will you please print this letter? Maybe he'll see it and come back to me."

"I am 19, and oh, Mrs. Lee, so heartbroken. My dead uncle's wife took the only man I love away from me. She is 37. I have loved him two years. He said he loved me, but I believe he is just sorry for me. I wanted to take my own life, but he begged me so hard not to. She is wearing his ring, and I was told she was engaged to him. He never mentioned it to me. One man loved me at first sight. He was to be married in December, but I broke that couple up. I didn't know it then. I will never be happy if I marry him. I do not love him. Sister wants me to marry this other fellow and I guess I will. But she will never know that my heart is calling for my absent friend. What must I do to try to take him away from her?"

"Tired of Life." Let us drop all this wild emotion and look at your problem quietly. If this man loves you, surely he cannot be forced to marry the older woman. He'll come back to you. He would hardly have asked you for your picture if he had not thought a good deal of you. And if he doesn't, you are not going to die of a broken heart. Will you think me very heartless if I say your letter sounded like that of a spoiled child? I should judge that you had always been babied on account of your spine, and you thought everybody should give up to you. How about this girl whose lover you took, although unknowingly? Has she committed suicide? Possibly she felt as badly about the loss of her lover as you did of yours. And why punish the man who wants to marry you by marrying him, loving another? Doesn't it all seem a bit unfair to you when you think it over? Be a sport, dear. If the man is weak enough to marry another woman, loving you, he isn't worth bothering about, and you would reap more real happiness in trying to get the man who says he loves you, back to the girl who loves him—provided she wants him back—than in marrying him yourself.

Star Gazing

New York—A professional moviegoers' week:

Monday—To the opening of "Mother Machree," which, regardless of the approval of the A. O. H., Daughters of Ireland, Sinn Fein and "The Irish World," isn't much. Evidently the producers were of the same opinion, for they held up the completed picture more than a year.

Tuesday—At last Paramount is going in for sound pictures. But, as Jesse L. Lasky told me today: "To make all pictures dialogue vehicles would be to turn the progress of the screen back at least 10 years. The great asset of the movies has been the power to touch swiftly upon action and then sweep away. This would be impossible were dialogue between the actors to be recorded. The use of sound will be dramatic. The hum of crowds, the roar of an angry mob, perhaps a shouted command, the shrill of a police whistle, the bark of a dog, a knock on a door, all these sounds will be used for effect in pictures."

Wednesday—To see William Haines in "The Smart Set," in which he elaborates the smart-aleckness he depended on in his three or four previous efforts.

Thursday—The Roxy, biggest theater in the world, has had the hardest time getting good pictures. The anniversary week offering is "If I Were Single," with Conrad Nagel and May McAvoy, about as thin-skinned as they make them. It's supposed to be one of those sophisticated comedies.

Friday—J. Joy (appropriate name) of the Hays office, left town today to visit picture censors to try to induce them to limit the number of censorable sequences, of which there are approximately 133. The six state and 130 municipal censor boards have few views in common regarding what is immoral, and the optimistic Mr. Joy is going to try to show that as guardians of "public morals" the censors should give closer attention to demands of the public and subdue personal prejudices in editing films.

Saturday—To call on Sally Phipps ("The High School Hero") and her mother, and found the latter the more interesting of the two.

Week of April 8

General Weather Forecast—Probably the one best feature of the general weather conditions for the state of Michigan as a whole for the week beginning April 8th will be the change to drier qualities.

Detailed Weather Forecast—The week opens with cool weather over most parts of the state, but with a rising tendency that will reach its climax about Monday.

The middle of the week in most counties will feel a marked change in temperature with a sudden and marked rise due at this time.

About Friday there will very likely be a drop in temperature, but it will only be for a very short period.

A sharp, yet moderate change to colder will quickly follow this last storm center so that the opening days of next week will experience moderately cool weather.

Lois was more worried than she knew. She herself did not realize what Bruce Richardson already knew—that her pity for this man had overstepped the bounds of impersonality.

There was much that Lois did not know about Bob Terry, and by the same token, there was much that she did know. She knew, for instance, that he was not unconscious of the fact that those who tried to cultivate him did so because they were curious.

There were some who came to the Borden home with the idea of asking questions. There was one woman—a social worker interested in prison reform—who called one afternoon with the idea of discussing with Bob her theories of prison life.

Lois knew that the public believed that Terry belonged to it. Individually and en masse it offered community sympathy when really all it held was curiosity.

"Libelous," said his man, "and damned unkind."

CHAPTER XIV

Yet it was not that which worried Lois Borden, unfair as it was. The thing which preyed upon her mind was the fact that Bob was not entirely out of contact with prison life.

Lois didn't know Kathleen and could not understand why she hated the girl. It did not occur to her that she was jealous.

That seemed to indicate then, that Kathleen Shannon was no fit woman for any man to know intimately—particularly a person suffering from mental unrest.

The door of Bob's room opened and he stepped into the hall. Sight of him restored Lois' courage and she moved forward quickly to his side.

"Bob," she asked, "won't you stay home tonight? I wish to talk with you."

His face was expressionless. "Why?" "I do. It is important. Won't you, please?"

Bob had not yet learned to refuse, but he asked one question. "Alone?" "Yes—alone. Oh! Bob—aren't you ever going to forgive Dad for his mistake?"

And Bob Terry looked at her with an expression which caused her soul to shiver. It was agate hard, and his voice was like the rasp of a file.

"You will stay home," "Yes, ma'am." He himself flushed at the "ma'am." "I'll telephone."

She could not help but overhear his call. It was to Alfred Gregory—State Senator Al Gregory. Lois knew him: a legal associate of Carmody's, well-born, handsome in a coarse, florid way; a loud and fluent orator and a thorough political spellbinder who was overly cautious, utterly unscrupulous, and who was spoken of generally as a gubernatorial possibility.

It was a scene of quiet softness, of soothing domesticity: the big homey room with its handsome, unobtrusive furnishings, the balmy air of spring which bore in through the wide-flung windows, a symphony of night sounds.

It was a scene of quiet softness, of soothing domesticity: the big homey room with its handsome, unobtrusive furnishings, the balmy air of spring which bore in through the wide-flung windows, a symphony of night sounds.

he could never again fit into such an environment. She did not equivocate, although her voice was rather strained.

"Bob," she questioned, "why won't you accept that position which Dad offered you?"

His eyes were focused blankly on the opposite wall.

"I don't care to work in that office again."

His unblinking candor helped her. "Why?"

"Isn't that obvious?" "Not exactly. Dad is trying to help you."

"I don't want any help. I don't need any."

"But Bob—you do. It has been a long time now—and you've done nothing. Oh! I know you don't need the work for the money it would bring you. When Dad said he owed you an irreparable debt, he meant it. He meant that you could call on him for every cent of his personal fortune. But that isn't the point. You're in an unhealthy mental condition."

"Is that unnatural?" "Certainly not. And it isn't unnatural for one to contract pneumonia after exposure—but then, one tries to cure the disease. You have been sitting around thinking, and thinking isn't good for you."

"I got the habit—in prison."

"But you're not in prison now, Bob?"

"Is that so?"

"Yes. Oh, can't you see what it is all leading to: this inaction, this refusal to let us help? What are you waiting for?"

"Todd Shannon?"

"Your cellmate?"

"The only friend I have. Mr. Carmody says he'll be out any day now. I can talk things over with him. He understands."

"But he's the one person who doesn't understand. He's a criminal, Bob—a convicted criminal."

"So was I."

"But you have said that he doesn't even claim to have been innocent. I don't say he's not a loyal friend, and that you shouldn't be fond of him, but I do say that his judgment cannot possibly be good. His judgment is warped."

"It's good enough for me."

"No—you merely think it is. Please try to pull yourself out of this. Work—any kind of work—outside interests—a cool, slim blonde thing through whose golden-brown hair the soft light of the reading lamp filtered exquisitely. "Your real friends are here. You are bitter against Dad—I understand that; but he is trying to help. Bruce Richardson is trying to be your friend. Don't you like him?"

There was a touch of animation in the man's set face.

"Yes. Richardson is all right. But he doesn't understand."

"What?"

"Things," he answered vaguely. "The same sort of things you don't understand, either."

"Well, then—myself. I want to help, and if I don't understand it's because you won't let me. Is that fair, Bob? Is it fair to shut me out as though I didn't exist?"

He faced her, a puzzled expression on his countenance. He closed his eyes slowly—and opened them again. It was as though he were seeing her for the first time.

She took shape before his eyes now, and he knew that once he had worshipped Lois Borden from a great distance, and it came to him that here was that same woman pleading with him to accept her friendship.

A warm glow suffused him. He experienced an emotion which he had not known since that ghastly day three years and a half before, when they had arrested him for embezzlement. He turned away as though blinded by the white light of this revelation that prison had not robbed him of woman consciousness, and he felt the first vague stirrings of a desire to please this slender girl.

"I—I do know that you exist," he said slowly. "God knows—" He bit his lip.

"And you will let me help?"

"If you think I am worth while—yes."

"Worth while!" In her exultation the words were out before she realized. "You are the most worth while thing in the world!"

It was not her words, but the timber of her voice which caused him to turn and gaze straight into her eyes. And there, alone in that room, they realized that they were man and woman and the barriers of the past were momentarily swept away as they sensed that from this moment on their relations could never be other than intensely personal.

CHAPTER XV

The ebony face of Croesus was insinuated through the door.

"Mistuh Terry," he announced "somebody has done call you on the telephone."

Bob smiled slightly. Croesus was one of the few persons in the world who could cause Terry's lips to expand with humor.

"Any idea who it is?" "Dunno, suh. But I think—"

Croesus lowered his voice and looked carefully about the room—"I think it was that lady from Mistuh Carmody's office."

A faint touch of color reddened Bob's cheeks. He finished knotting his scarf, donned his coat and went to the little telephone alcove in the upstairs hall. His voice was scarcely more than a whisper.

"Bob," she said, "won't you stay home tonight?"

"Hello?"

"Hello, Bob?"

"Yes, Kathleen."

"Mr. Carmody wants to speak with you. I'll connect—"

"Just a minute. I'd rather talk with you."

"Now, Bob—"

"I would—really. There are lots of things—"

"I can't now, Bob. Mr. Carmody is waiting."

"When, then?"

"Lunch?"

"Oh, great! I'll be—"

Then the telephone was blank and an instant later he heard a click and Carmody's silken voice came to him over the wire.

"Terry?"

"Yes, sir."

"Coming down this way today?"

"I can, sir."

"How about sparing me a few minutes during the morning?"

"Yes, sir."

"At once?"

"Yes, sir."

"Good."

The connection broke. That was Carmody's way: superbly courteous and embarrassingly definite. But Bob was not at all averse. His problem in the Borden home was becoming acute and the birth of a personal interest in Lois had rather complicated matters. He felt the urge toward a definite step; the inaction of the past three months was cankerous, and if John Carmody wished to see him—

He left word with Croesus that he would not be home until dinner time and then swung down town with a step a little less regular than the shuffling stride which he had acquired in the state penitentiary. He still walked with eyes downcast and fixed but he was commencing to understand freedom and occasionally he changed his pace if only for the sheer delight of knowing that he could.

Kathleen was at her desk when he passed through her office, but she refused to talk with him. He stood regarding her for a moment, and there came over him the subtle difference which existed in his relations with her and with Lois Borden.

For three months he had been in intimate contact with Lois, yet not until recently had he sensed her as a woman. From the very outset, on the other hand, he had experienced sex consciousness of Kathleen Shannon. It was, perhaps, because she gave understanding rather than sympathy; because she, too, knew the dreary combat of a prison problem in one's personal life; because she spoke the language that he understood—or perhaps it was merely because she was young and vibrant with life—and very beautiful in a manner more vivid and picturesque. There was iron in her blood and her nearness infused Bob Terry with a sense of power which he never experienced with others.

He looked up to Kathleen, but it was not the impersonal worship which he had accorded Lois in the old days before he had been sent to prison. Kathleen was disturbingly real, amazingly desirable.

Plane Saves Folk of Snowbound Town

Detour, Mich., snowbound and in need of supplies, owes its relief to an army transport plane, piloted by Lieut. Soper of Selfridge Field, Mr. Clemens, Mich., making trips from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., although Dr. John F. Deadman, with dog team, was the first to reach the town. Upper picture shows the plane on the ice at Sault Ste. Marie, being loaded with supplies. Below is a closeup showing Lieuts. Soper and Roscoe, with P. Masters Snell, who requested plane relief. On one of the trips a sick man was brought back, saving his life.

Radio Camera to Detect Crooks

John E. Seebold of Rochester, N. Y., has invented a camera, radio-controlled, tiny, compact, and almost indestructible, by which he believes the detection of criminals will be made an easy matter. A criminal entering a room to rob a safe, unconsciously interferes with a radio beam which starts the camera operating. The camera takes a moving picture of his actions in the room. Above, top, a strip of pictures from the new camera; center, a photo enlarged from the strip, and below, the camera itself.

Miner Blasts Self to Death

"You'll have to excuse me," wrote Mike Ferdei, Hungarian miner of McDowell county, West Virginia. Then he set off half a case of dynamite in the building shown in the photo and was hurled through the wall to his death. Only bits of him were found. Ferdei was a soldier in the Hungarian army during the World war.

CORN AND WHEAT STOCKS LESS

Farm stocks of corn, wheat and oats on Michigan farms were all less on March 1 this year than on this date last year, according to a report issued by Herbert E. Powell, commissioner of agriculture, and Verne H. Church, agricultural statistician for Michigan. Following the very short corn crop of 1927, the stocks of this grain were only about half as large as on March 1, 1927.

The total stocks of corn amounted to 8,579,000 bushels, compared with 16,249,000 bushels the year before, or 22 per cent in 1928 against 30 per cent in 1927. The wheat stocks on March 1 this year on farms were 17 per cent of the total 1927 crop compared with 13 per cent on the same date the year before and a 10-year average of 20 per cent. These wheat stocks amounted to 3,276,000 bushels this year compared with 3,940,000 bushels held on Michigan farms on March 1, 1927.

Oat stocks on Michigan farms amounted to 18,960,000 bushels, or 35 per cent this year, compared to 20,206,000 bushels or 39 per cent last year.

The barley stock of 21 per cent was 1 per cent more than last year, and the rye stocks of 17 per cent compared to 16 per cent far stocks last year.

It was estimated that 51 per cent of the 1927 corn crop for Michigan was of merchantable quality. This was 12 per cent below the average, but was 2 per cent better than the quality of the 1926 crop in this state. For the country as a whole, 73.4 per cent of the 1927 corn crop was of merchantable quality compared with 71.1 per cent last year and 78.9 per cent for the 10-year average.

For the country as a whole, the stocks on farms of corn, wheat and oats on March 1 were less than last year; and the stocks of barley, and rye more in total bushels. The nation's farm stocks were 36.6 per cent of the total crop this year and 42.1 per cent last year, and wheat stocks were 14.9 and 15.7 per cent, respectively.

Canning Company's Sales Show Gain; Total $1,371,130

Gross business of the Fremont Canning Co. in 1927 was approximately 10 per cent greater than in 1926, according to the annual report of the company. Gross sales totaled $1,371,130.57.

The payroll for the year approximated $161,000, while growers were paid $384,841 for their products. The pack filled 17,476,622 cans of various sizes.

The usual acreage is being contracted for 1928. A new viner station is being constructed at Huber, in the northern part of the county. The company's other stations are at Fremont, Ashland and Donahue. Instead of bringing women from White Cloud during the wax bean season, part of the crop will be snapped at the county seat. The green bean stations will be at Howard City, Harrington, Croton, Newaygo, Dixville, Ferry, Hesperia, Aetna, Eitka, Holton and Fremont. The company plans on packing fifteen different varieties of fruit and vegetables.

New officers of the company are: President Frank Gerber, vice president, Dan Gerber; second vice president, J. Andrew Gerber; secretary, Henry McCarty; treasurer, William A. Mee; assistant secretary and plant manager, Frank H. Raymond.

Over-size Egg at Zeeland Contains But One Big Yolk

A hen's egg weighing five ounces and nearly perfect in shape was exhibited at Zeeland recently. It was laid by a White Leghorn pullet owned by Jacob J. Branden of Crisp. It differed from most over-size eggs in one respect, containing only one yolk.

One year ago H. Smit exhibited an over-size egg but upon candling it was found to contain a hard-shelled egg inside of the larger one.

City Folks Fond Of Horse Radish

Consumers in Michigan cities have a growing appetite for "hot stuff," according to M. Courtney, Otsego horse-radish grower.

In order to supply the demand for his product Courtney plans to double his horse-radish acreage this season. He now has three acres planted to the crop and will set three additional acres this year.

Which End of Seed Potato Is Best Is Still Undetermined

Much experimental work has been done with the potato to determine the best methods of treating the seed to secure the most satisfactory yields. The results have varied to the point of confusion in many instances. In Technical Bulletin No. 5T, "Source, Character and Treatment of Potato Sets," just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, William Stuart reviews the results of noteworthy experimental work, and in addition presents the results of the department investigations on the source, character and treatment of potato sets.

The relative value of the seed end and stem end of the tuber for seed purposes has served as a basis of numerous studies, both in this country and in foreign countries, to determine which portion of the tuber will ordinarily produce the larger yield. Some growers are so firmly convinced that the seed end of the tuber is undesirable for seed purposes that they clip it off and discard it. Other growers are equally convinced that the seed end is superior to the stem end for planting. These different viewpoints have been responsible for repeated efforts to demonstrate the superiority of one over the other.

After a study of the literature in which each "end" of the potato has proved superior to the other in different tests, Mr. Stuart concludes that it is doubtful whether there is any real superiority of one end over the other for seed purposes. The data as a whole, however, seems to indicate that as the weight of the set increases there is a greater response from the seed end than from the stem end sets.

Sprouting seed potatoes in the light before planting them, a process known as "greening," has long been practiced by growers of early potatoes in most European countries, in an effort to hasten the development of tubers of marketable size early in the season. "Greening" is not yet a commercial practice in the United States.

Low Corn Yield Can Be Prevented

The Department of Agriculture has recently made an interesting report which gives the farmer some valuable pointers, and especially in the raising of corn. It says:

The average acre yield of corn for the entire United States is but 26 bushels, yet in practically every section two or three or even four times that quantity frequently is produced. Improving the quality of the seed corn is one of the surest ways of increasing the yield.

Each spring good seed corn is scarce. This condition is entirely unnecessary, and it is much more serious than is commonly supposed, because many do not fully realize the tremendous loss to themselves and the country caused by planting inferior seed. (A full stand may be obtained from inferior seed, but the yield will be lower than good seed would have produced.)

The loss is due to delay or negligence. It usually can be prevented by the selection of seed corn in the field in the fall. If good seed corn could be manufactured in a few weeks time, factories would be working day and night from March until June.

Hart Orchardists Approve Heaters

Jack Frost has about ended his reign of terror over many cherry growers of Oceana county. This is the belief of 125 growers, bankers and business men of this district who witnessed a test with orchard heaters in the R. C. Munger cherry orchard near Hart.

The heaters, placed at the rate of 40 to the acre, raised the temperature in Munger's orchard four degrees within a few minutes after they were lighted. The higher temperature was held throughout the demonstration, indicating it is possible by this artificial means for growers to foil Jack Frost's attack upon their orchards at blossom time.

Initial cost of equipping an acre of orchard with heaters was shown to be $65, and a year's supply of fuel was estimated at $21.

One killing frost on the night of April 23 last year cost Oceana county cherry growers approximately $500,000, in the opinion of Munger, who estimated his own loss at $15,000. These losses could have been prevented by the use of heaters, Munger now believes, after watching the oil burners in action.

The Square Deal Cash Cream Station

King Ben established the first love parlor in Berrien county. I established the first cash cream market in Van Buren county. The courts proved that Ben had the cream of the ladies and I proved that I have the cream of the dairy. So the only real difference between Bennie and me was whiskers. While Bennie was helping to make Benton Harbor the Square Deal Cash Cream Station was helping to make Gobles the best cream market in Michigan.

The Universal Application

of the Fordson to many uses makes it invaluable as a time saver and for cutting operating costs.

The Fordson ability to function either as a stationary unit or for motive purposes, in many cases eliminates the necessity of duplicating your power machinery and thereby effects a saving on your equipment expenditure.

Some men love to play checkers-- they can move without setting up.

Having More to Spend

This isn't a matter of getting a larger income, but rather the ability to get more out of your present income.

You've known people who somehow get everything they want. You've wondered how they did it—how they could afford it.

Consistent savings in small amounts at regular intervals will do it.

The Best of Everything in Drugs

When the farmer on his farm or working men "out on the job" eat lunch sandwiches make up the larger part of the meal. Big thick ones, filled with meat or cheese and butter.

His clothes may be soiled and his hands grimy, but the man in overalls

Fertilizers

Use the proper fertilizer for all crops and you will get big interest on your investment.

We have seen an EXTRA yield of 110 bushels PER ACRE on a six acre on a six acre potato field from the use of less than $7 worth of our fertilizer per acre.

We have plenty of sulphate of ammonia, potash and superphosphate and you can save about $10 per ton by mixing your own goods or, we have ready mixed goods for those who do not care to mix their own. We shall be pleased to help you select the best formula for your own soil.

Seeds

Use Farm Bureau Seeds only... be SURE of your sowing if better seeds were obtainable we would have them.

WARNING... There is practically no Ontario Variegated this year as there was only 4 per cent of a crop in Canada. Some dealers may have old seed which they will offer to you. All our seed is new crop and plump and fresh. We have no Ontario to offer but have excellent Grimm and Utah common.

Our seed is grown a MILE-HIGH in the cold climate of Utah and is the best we can get.

Baby Chicks

The remarkable price and the quality of our baby chicks is attracting the attention of poultry raisers this year. We get our chicks from only the larger accredited hatcheries. Every week we know just how many chicks 30 of these large hatcheries will have unsold and we bid on them by the thousand and pass these bargains on to our poultry raisers. This week we offer:

S. C. WHITE LEGHORNS AT $8 PER 100
BARRED ROCKS AND R. I. REDS $12 PER 100

Start your chicks out right with Basic Starting Mash and Newtown Brooder Stoves. We also sell the Dickelman Metal Brooder House.
