A federal padlock has been placed on the Lakeland Inn dancing portion of Port Austin by the order of Judge Arthur Tuttle. The hotel, which was padlocked for a short time will open

The padlock order was signed by Judge Tuttle following several raids made on the hotel where the property was seized by Mrs. Minnie Atkisson. Mrs. Atkisson was ordered to appear in court for violation of the liquor law.

The inn recently purchased the property at auction for the state to operate the hotel. The inn, which is one of the largest and finest in the state, was built 100 years ago at a cost of $10,000.

Show Lake Levels Are Still Rising

Lake levels are still rising and with the rising water is a new boon to the region. Boats that could not be used in the past are now usable with water and fish and beauty of the shore line is enhanced.

About three years ago the shore line received almost a 1.5-mile spread of water and if this continues the shores of the lake will extend along the lakeshore.

Old-time residents were consulted who recalled that in 1914 the lakes were more than 10 feet above their present level. This is the time when the draining of the lake was started.

So the present rising of the water is expected that the former level may eventually expand, at least a encouraging property owners to believe that a reasonable permanency in the shore line is assured.

Conditions that kept boated property values down last year and will probably increase the interest this year.

Levi Wheat, Sr., of this village, who has been on the lake for 20 years, states that at one time the water level was five feet higher than its present level. He is authority for the statement that the lake levels have been the same for the last four years and three months since 1919.

Cadiur $350,000 Hotel Named "The Northwood"

"The Northwood" is the name selected for the hotel now under construction on the shores of the lake.

The hotel was built by the lake and will be accessible by boat only as long as fish will be found in the lake. The hotel is under the management of Charles R. Phillips, Co. and is being built under the direction of Charles R. Phillips, Co. since 1919.

Michigan Leads in Calf Skin Output

Michigan ranks next to the top in the production of calf skin, the so-called "nuns' shoes," among the many types of animal pelts. The pelts are valued at $500 per 500 pounds, according to Dr. H. T. Brand, secretary of the Calf Tanners' Association.

Fifty per cent of the calf skins come from parts of the Mississippi river, notably in the west, and Missouri and Arkansas.

More than 50 per cent of the rest are in the Midwest, with the rest going to the east to the Atlantic coast, and New York, to the north, and to Europe, to the south.

While the nation is the chief market for the skins of all kinds, the country is the leading market for home consumption. The skins are used in the manufacture of shoes, gloves, hats, and other products.

A Well Kept Poultry House

Part of the reasons for success with poultry is good housing. A clean, neat, and well-ventilated chicken house is one of the chief requirements for the production of any poultry. It is necessary to have a continuous supply of fresh air, and the house should be kept clean at all times. The work of cleaning the house should be done by the birds, and the litter should be removed from the house at least once a day. The litter should be removed from the house at least once a day.

WHERE BORER WILL BE FOUGHT THIS SPRING

At Morrow's End
By CLARRIE MACKIE

MOUR POLLY STICKLEBUT was out and about pursuit this week and spent the day doing her chores. She went after the old clump of hedges, taking the time to nip all the hardy, stand-ins no matter how "tender" they might be. They were plump, they were green, they were the most likely targets. But you bet your life she生产经营, and she was working on the market by her own very orderly system.

"She was a joy," said one of those neighbors who is not likely to waste much time on thetopic of flowers or vegetables. "She never really got away from the garden. She was just like a grandmother to me. She knew exactly what I wanted and she could tell me exactly how to get it."

"Just look at the size of that dolly," said the other neighbor. "I've never seen a dolly like it. It's got to be the biggest dolly I've ever seen."

"Yes, and it's got to be the best. It's got to be the prettiest," said the first neighbor. "You can see it's going to be the prettiest."

That was the story of Polly Sticklebut's dolly, and everyone was looking forward to seeing it. The dolly was due to be shown at the county fair next week.

In other news, the garden club held its annual meeting last week. The members were enthusiastic about the summer's crop, and they were looking forward to the fall's harvest. The club plans to continue its work throughout the year, and it is hoping to attract more members.

Temperatures of Moon

Since the moon has no atmosphere, the radiations of the moon's heat energy are not affected by temperature. Night after night, the temperature of the moon remains constant. The temperature of the moon's surface stays the same throughout the night.

In the light of this information, we can see that the moon cannot support life. Life requires an atmosphere to protect it from the harmful effects of temperature changes.

Therefore, the moon cannot support life. Life requires an atmosphere to protect it from the harmful effects of temperature changes.
