The Value of a Name

PAUL HARRISON SMITH has spent the last twenty-five years of his life trying to make his name mean something in his community. In school he worked hard to gain the name of being a good student, and he also gained considerable fame as an athlete both in high school and at the University of Michigan. After his return to the farm he gained the respect of his farmer friends to the extent of being elected master of his local Grange and later was elected master of the County Pomona Grange, and at the age of 27 was elected supervisor of Paw Paw township. The following year he was selected to serve as county agricultural agent of Mecosta county. He spent five years at this work and then returned to Paw Paw.

Immediately on his return to Paw Paw he was again elected supervisor and has served in that capacity for the last six years. Two years ago he was further honored by being elected chairman of the county board of supervisors, and during the last six years has taken an active and official part in various civic, social and school activities of his community.

Two years ago Mr. Smith was a candidate for the state Senate and succeeded in carrying two of the three counties in the district and lost by a narrow margin. Early this season he started his campaign again for the Senate. The name that he had worked so hard to "put over" seemed to be very favorably known throughout the district and his chances for receiving the nomination looked exceptionally good.

At almost the last hour for filing petitions another Paul Smith entered the contest so that all the energy and efforts spent in establishing his name is now in danger of being diffused because of a confusion of names.

The newspapers of the district have given the affair considerable publicity so that it is now pretty well known that Paul Harrison Smith is the man who has made the real effort to make a name for himself in this part of Michigan.

AMERICANS ARE POOR CHEESE EATERS WHEN PAIRED WITH OTHERS

Although the people of the United States are now consuming about 4.36 pounds of cheese per capita annually as compared with 3.5 pounds in 1921, Americans are still far from being in the heavy cheese eating class. In Switzerland the per capita consumption is approximately 23 pounds; in France, Denmark and the Netherlands approximately 13 pounds; in Germany 9.5 pounds, and in Great Britain 8.9 pounds.

In the opinion of dairy specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, it should be possible to increase the consumption of cheese in the United States by improving the quality of the product and by disseminating knowledge as to its uses, food value and varieties. Bulletin 608-D, "Varieties of Cheese; Descriptions and Analysis," a revision of which has just been issued by the department, describes 18 distinct varieties and 400 so-called varieties that are of more or less local importance, and gives the percentage of fat, water, ashes, salt, milk, sugar and other constituents in each.

In 1926 cheese production in the United States amounted to 431,416,000 pounds and importations totaled 78,416,823 pounds, whereas exports were slightly less than 4,000,000 pounds. The importations include many varieties, nearly all of which are among the highest priced cheeses made, such as Emmentaler from Switzerland, Parmesan and Gorgonzola from Italy, Roquefort, Camembert and Brie from France, and Edam from Holland.

"Unfortunately, a feeling is prevalent in the United States," according to K. J. Matheson, author of the revised bulletin, "that cheese equal to the best of the European products cannot be produced here. This feeling is based upon a lack of knowledge of actual conditions in Europe and of conditions affecting the qualities of cheese. Certain parts of Europe are better favored by desirable climatic conditions and by more general dissemination of the bacteria or molds necessary to the characteristic ripening of different varieties, but even the best average natural conditions can be improved by artificial means, since necessary molds or bacteria can be grown in pure cultures and utilized anywhere."

Tiled Fields Grow Larger Beet Crops

Larger yields of sugar beets can be obtained on well-drained land and many growers may avoid losses suffered this year because of poor drainage by tilling their fields, according to C. J. Oviatt, sugar beet specialist at Michigan State College.

"Many sugar beet fields have been damaged seriously this year," he says, "because of poor drainage. In many instances the loss will amount to several tons per acre. The stand of plants has been reduced and the development of the remaining plants has been retarded. Cultivation and thinning have been delayed and root diseases have been very active."

The agricultural engineering department at Michigan State College recommends the use of four-inch tile in laterals four to six rods apart on sugar beet land, depending upon the type of soil. It is estimated that the value of the increased yield of beets in one season nearly offsets the cost of tile drainage.

"Proper drainage adds to the profit from beets," Oviatt declares, "by increasing the yield and decreasing the cost. The yield is increased by providing better soil conditions which make possible earlier seeding, aid germination and reduce the damage from disease. The cost is lowered by lessening the labor required in the preparation, cultivation and harvesting of the crop. Many growers are planning now to avoid the repetition of losses suffered this year by tiling their fields."

Bears Make Sheep Impracticable in Clare County

Representatives of the conservation department and trout fishers are reporting having seen a number of black bears in Clare county in the past few weeks. In a large swamp comprising 4,500 acres just west of M18 and near the former lumber town of Meridith is a habitat of deer and bear.

Several farmers near that swamp report it no longer is practicable to keep sheep because of the number of bears that inhabit the swamp.

Interchange of Information by Parley of Experts

A series of conferences on the geology of the copper and iron districts of Upper Michigan are being held by experts of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology and the Michigan Geological Survey. The purpose is to exchange information between the two agencies and add to the general knowledge of the copper and iron districts.

The most recent conference was held in Negaunee on the geology of the Marquette range. Participating were Dr. W. O. Hotchkiss, president of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology and one of the country's best known geologists, Professor Arthur Edmund Seaman and Assistant Prof. Wyllis A. Seaman of the department of Geology of Michigan Tech, Harry G. Pardee of the Michigan Geological Survey, and Prof. C. O. Swanson, who has been in charge of a survey in the iron country for the geological survey. Similar conferences will be held at other points in the district.

The Michigan College of Mining and Technology and the Michigan Geological Survey have been co-operating in conducting extensive research in the geology of the copper and iron districts.

Prof. Arthur E. Seaman, who is retiring as head of the Geology department of Michigan Tech, has worked in the copper and iron district for more than 40 years and is more familiar with the geology of Upper Michigan than any other geologist. The knowledge which he possesses will be of immense value in compiling geological records of great importance to the state.

Students of Michigan Tech, who have been doing field work in geology this summer under the direction of Prof. Wyllis Seaman also will contribute valuable information.

State Fair Plans To Feature Poultry

Michigan poultry and pet stock raisers are offered $9,767 in premiums at the state fair, September 2 to 8, this year, with a wide range of classifications which, the board of managers expects, will attract the support of the leading exhibitors of the state. As the state fair is the culmination of the season's activities, this will bring together the pick of the exhibits from the county fairs throughout the state.

In the production birds class $540 in prizes is offered and in the exhibition class $1,092 is hung up. In addition to this a laying contest, open to Michigan breeders only, is scheduled with $110 in prizes. A miscellaneous class, covering Polish, Hamburgs, Houdans, Crevecoeurs, La Flesches, Faverolles, Campines and Buttercups is provided with total prizes of $1,040 while $624 is offered for games and game bantams with $669 for ornamental bantams.

Canaries are provided for with $60 in prizes while $66 is offered for ornamental fowls, including peacocks and guineas. A class is set for turkeys with $240 in prizes, while for ducks there is $330, and $28 for geese.

A large pigeon entry list is expected to be attracted by the $1,793 in prize money hung up.

Rabbits and cavies are provided for with $813.75 offered for the former and $81 for the latter.

Husband and hog calling contests are set for Thursday afternoon, September 6, at 3 p. m., with $30 in prizes. The hog calling is open to any farmer "in the wide world," with the husband calling is open "to any member of the gentler sex between eight and eighty who has now, ever did have or ever expects to have a husband."

Mother sent her little boy to take his smaller sister safely to kindergarten. When the boy came back in a surprisingly short time she asked: "Harry, did you treat Mary like a little lady as I asked you to do?" "No," said Harry carelessly, "we cannot that lady and gentleman stuff and I chased her most of the way."

A slight improvement in the financial returns of farms last year is shown in the annual survey of farm returns by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture. Reports from 13,859 farms in all parts of the country show an average net return of $1,290 for the year 1927 as compared with an average of $1,133 on 13,475 farms in 1926.

Gross receipts were larger than in 1926, expenses were about the same in both years, and the cash balance was higher than in 1926. The net return of $1,290 compares with $1,297 for 15,330 farms in 1925; $1,205 for 15,103 farms in 1924, $1,021 for 16,183 farms in 1923 and $917 for 6,094 farms in 1922.

The average size of the farms reporting 1927 was 275 acres with an average investment of $15,445. Average gross receipts were $2,505, consisting of $978 from sales of crops, $851 from sales of livestock, $638 from sales of livestock products, and $38 from miscellaneous other items.

Average current cash expenses in 1927 totaled $1,457, consisting of $397 for hired labor, $238 for livestock bought, $243 for feed bought; $64 for fertilizer, $49 for seed, $180 for taxes on farm property, $129 for machinery and tools, and $157 for miscellaneous items.

Receipts less cash expenses averaged $1,048, in addition to which these farmers used home-grown food products valued at an average of $273. The value of fuel used and of house rent was not reported. On the other hand, the total expenses, ($1,457) does not include any allowance for the labor of the farmer and his family, which was estimated by the farmers at an average value of $769.

OOSTERBAAN TO COACH AT U. OF M.

University of Michigan's most famous modern athlete, Bennie G. Oosterbaan, three times all-American end, has signed a contract as a full time coach at Michigan, effective Sept. 1, according to Fielding H. Yost, director of intercollegiate athletics.

In accepting the contract with Michigan, Oosterbaan turned down numerous professional offers, all of which promised a larger salary than he will receive with the Maize and Blue school.

Oosterbaan will act as head freshman football coach, assistant varsity basketball coach and assist generally in the whole physical education program.

During his athletic career at Michigan, Oosterbaan won nine varsity letters—three in football, three in basketball, and three in baseball. The football, basketball and baseball teams each won two Big Ten titles during this period, and it was Oosterbaan who materially helped in winning each championship for he was thrice selected as all-American end, and twice chosen on the mythical all-Conference basketball team. "Bennie" was also Conference high scorer in football, Conference high scorer in basketball, and one of the leading hitters on the baseball team during his three years of athletic competition at Michigan.

"There's the girl Bernard broke off his engagement with."

U. OF M. JOURNALISM DEPT. IS DESTINED TO BE BEST IN U. S.

The University of Michigan journalistic department is destined to become one of the best in the country with the addition of new courses and instructors for next term. Prof. John L. Brumm, head of the department, is rapidly becoming a national authority on journalism and is due much credit for the splendid success achieved along this line by the University of Michigan.

W. H. Maurer, who taught here in the academic year, 1924-25, has been appointed full time instructor in journalism for next fall. Donald H. Haines, part time instructor, has been appointed full time instructor. These two men are both experts in their endeavor and will undoubtedly build up the department to even a higher standard than it now is during the course of the coming academic year.

A new course for next year will deal with the history and development of the newspaper and the part it has played in important social and economic events of the country. A course in magazine writing, which has not been taught for some time, is to be resumed.

Former Houghton Man To Be Manager Of Western Paper

Homer Guck, formerly vice president of the Union Trust company, Detroit, will take over the position of general manager of the San Francisco Examiner, oldest of the chain of papers owned by William Randolph Hearst, in August, it was announced recently. For several months Guck has been acting as business manager of the New York Evening Journal and for many years was managing editor of the Mining Gazette at Houghton, Mich. He is a widely quoted editorial writer and is well known throughout the upper peninsula.

Takes 20 Years to Finish Study of Copper Veins

It will take 20 years for the geological survey department to complete work already outlined for exploration of copper veins with the magnetic dip needle, a development which has proved a boon to the copper industry and promises to restore Michigan to the position of one of the leading copper states, R. A. Smith, state geologist, said recently.

Full knowledge of the benefits to be derived from the dip needle will not be forthcoming for several months, Smith said, but it has proved itself to an extent which establishes it as one of the most important developments in copper ore prospecting. One mining company has paid extra help employed by geologic survey office, in order to have dip needle tests completed in its locality a year in advance of the program outlined.

Dip needle tests of all copper producing country in Michigan will be completed, to assist the copper mining industry in this state. The dip needle traces copper veins from fault to fault, finding the breaks in veins presented obstacles which frequently stopped further work because of inability to pick the vein up.

Belding-Hall Co. Is Sold to Gibson

Sale of the Belding-Hall Co. of Belding, refrigerator manufacturers, to Charles J. Gibson of the Gibson Refrigerator Co. of Greenville was effected here Friday afternoon at a public auction sale. The deal included all the real estate and personal property except the electric department.

The purchase price was not made public, but it was said to have approximated $700,000. The sale is subject to the confirmation of Judge Fred M. Raymond of United States district court, Grand Rapids, who ordered the property sold upon petition of creditors.

The electric department of the company's business was purchased by Brinton F. Hall of Belding, who founded the corporation about forty years ago.

The new owner of the refrigerator factory is to receive all refrigerators in stock or in process of manufacture and is to have the right to use the trade name Belding-Hall and the corporate name Belding-Hall Co.

GOOD ROADS ADD 14 PER CENT TO MOTOR CARS LIFE

The average life of motor vehicles in the United States has been increased 14 per cent largely as a result of good roads, the American Road Builders' Association declares in a recent bulletin.

A total of 1,825,581 vehicles were sent to the scrap heap during 1927, the association states. This was 12.05 per cent of the total registration at the beginning of the year, indicating that should this average maintain, the entire stock of motor cars would be replaced every eight and one-fourth years. The average life of a motor vehicle was formerly estimated at seven years.

New York led all states in the number of cars scrapped, that state discarding 149,372 vehicles. Nevada discarded only 813 vehicles, the smallest number of all states. Arkansas held the highest junkage rate, that state discarding 16.6 per cent of all vehicles registered at the beginning of the year. South Carolina discarded only 2.8 per cent of the cars registered. All but two states registered more vehicles in 1927 than in 1926. They were Florida and Arkansas, the former decreasing by 6,828 cars and the latter by 2,851. North Carolina recorded the largest comparative increase, that state gaining 11.8 per cent over 1926. National registration was increased 5.1 per cent.

Most of the scrapped vehicles were partially salvaged, the American Road Builders' Association says. Metal parts were in many cases adapted to vehicles still in use, while a large number of motors were installed in boats or used as stationary power plants. The bodies were burned or cast into dump heaps. One New York salvaging agency maintains a seven-acre plot of ground for storing undamaged parts of disassembled vehicles.

U. of M. Will Give Engineer's Help In State Peat Survey

Dr. A. W. White, head of the chemical engineering division of the University of Michigan, is to give his personal attention to the rescue work that is going forward in connection with the survey of peat in Michigan.

Years ago, when Dr. White was a young man, he started studying peat, but developments in his career forced him to abandon a work in which he has become greatly interested. Now that the division of geology, department of conservation, has been given the authority for research work in the utilization of this natural resource, Dr. White is anxious to learn the secrets that he was forced to forego earlier in life.

Some interesting and valuable facts regarding peat and its value are expected to be brought to light.

Bondholders May Buy D. U. R. System Units

Foreclosure sale at public auction of interurban properties of the Detroit United Railways and the Detroit, Monroe and Toledo Shore Line railroad will take place on September 5, according to an order signed by Federal Judge Charles C. Simons, Detroit, on July 25. The sale results from the foreclosure of mortgages totaling approximately $11,000,000. It will affect interurban lines to Flint, Toledo, Wyandotte and Trenton; bus lines to Port Huron, Flint and Jackson, and city service in Flint and Pontiac.

The Detroit United lines passed into the hands of receivers on March 10, 1925. At that time the Central Union Trust company, New York, held a $10,000,000 mortgage, which has been reduced under the receivership to $7,219,419. The Union Trust company, Detroit, also held a mortgage for $3,000,000, which has since been increased to $3,534,593.

Value of the D. U. R. lines involved in the sale has been set by company officials at between $16,000,000 and $17,000,000. The Detroit, Monroe and Toledo Shore line has been estimated to be worth $4,000,000. Properties of the company in Detroit, controlled by the city and which the city is still paying for, are not included in the sale.

It is understood that a syndicate, composed of more than 90 per cent of the bondholders of both mortgages, is being formed to bid for the properties and that a reorganization of the two companies is planned. An invitation has been sent to all bondholders and creditors to participate in the reorganization.

Postoffice Dept. to Have Deficit of $100,000,000

Postmaster General New forecast a deficit of more than $100,000,000 for the postoffice department during the fiscal year 1929, based on estimates of pay increases totaling $77,000,000, a loss of revenue through lowered rates of $16,000,000 and increased pay to railroads of $15,000,000.

Pointing to the 1928 deficit of about $32,000,000, Mr. New said that he had hoped the department would break even this year, but added there is "no such thing as running with regard to balance while one body fixes your rate of receipts and another fixes the rates of expenditures."

The interstate commerce commission's decision increasing payments to railroads of about $45,000,000 immediately, he said, as the increased rate is retroactive to July, 1925. This will have to be met, as well as the extra annual payment of about $15,000,000 provided in the order.

SMALL BOYS DISCOVER LAKES FULL OF FISH

During the past thirty years the state of Michigan has spent a few hundred thousand dollars stocking the lakes within fifty miles of Detroit with native fish. The great and only Isaak Walton League, now please don't laugh, sent its ablest piscatorial scientists to study the situation and find out why the little fingerlings didn't grow into big fish and furnish sport for their members who were paying annual dues. Only one thing was certain: to-wit, the lakes were not fished out, because no one had made a real catch in a couple of decades. It was a great mystery, something like the Guy Fawks conspiracy, or who "hit Billy Patterson."

Then a bunch of Oakland county school boys, why they didn't even know that the Boy Scouts existed, made a great discovery. The lakes were full of fish, but a kind that didn't bite. These lads speared a few last spring in the spawning creeks and the secret was out. The lakes were full of Gar Pike, better known as Bill Fish, a predatory critter that consumed the fingerlings as fast as they were planted by the state and government.

So a new campaign has been started by the state conservation department. Experts have been put to work seining with the idea of cleaning these waters of all noxious types of fish. By systematic work and establishing feeding grounds, it is calculated that a couple of years will see a great change in the inland lakes of Michigan. Five crews have been started to work in Oakland county alone, and will do all possible with the amount of finances at hand.

Up to date no one has had the nerve to tell the story to the officers of the Isaak Walton League. It is feared that some of them may collapse when it is learned that their good money has been used in buying food for Gar Pike.

Wife—"I see by this paper that in certain parts of India a wife can be bought for two dollars. Isn't that perfectly awful?"

Husband—"Well, I don't know. A good wife would be worth that."
