CABINLAGE FOR MARK HUNTERS

Both the hunter and the conservation department officer should benefit from the new leghunt system that is to be inaugurated this year. The tags, one and three-quarter inches across, will be plainly visible from a considerable distance. Their bright color will be in such general use that the hunter will not discard them, much as hunters must hunt.

Offering evidence that the initiative of the state license holder will be able to reconnice in various ways, without the necessity of hanging the hunter to prevent illegal hunting.

The colors of the four badges that are in use are:

- Non-resident deer license, orange
- Non-resident duck license, blue
- Non-resident small game license, red
- Resident small game license, green

Each state license holder as far as that person is aware, will be well aware of the open seasons.

Lindbergh Begins to see Results of Good Will Hop

Commercial aviation development in the countries of Central and South America is following on the heels of Colonial Lindbergh's good will flights among the Latin-American peoples. As the result of some of America's greatest industrial contacts, it is using the routes Lindbergh laid out as permanent and safe. By January 1 the United States will operate out of Buenos Aires, and small mail and passengers are to operate between all Latin-American countries as the case may be. Routes is Lindbergh, and before a view of the map at the time.

TOURISTS NO MORE DRAFTED AT FIRES

In former years, when a forest fire was discovered, the visitors in the district were drafted into the service of helping to extinguish the blaze. But we are convinced that those tourists were more of a hindrance than a help, as the idea of drafts on them has been dropped.

Instead, tourists are asked to help prevent forest fires by following these rules:

1. Carry your matches out; break them in two before throwing them away.
2. Carry a small hose or ignite a ditter ditter ditter and that lay your hose.
3. Keep the fire small and tend it, but do not spread it.
4. Never break camp until your fire is showing signs of dying out.
5. Never burn brush or brush or brush or brush, as it may be a fuel for the fire.
6. Never leave a fire unattended or anyone responsible for it.
7. Never leave a fire unattended or anyone responsible for it.

The opinion is that industrial contacts with the countries of Central and South America, by means of some of America's greatest industrial contacts, have led to the use of the routes Lindbergh laid out as permanent and safe.

CHAPTER I

Can a man be really happy in the big city? Can a girl succeed in business? Can a mother be happy in the big city? In the city and its social life it is not the same as in the country. Certainly the answer to these questions is yes.

The answer may be found in the story of one of the city's prominent women who was a successful businesswoman.

Evelyn was a young woman who had been living in the city for some time. She had been working hard to make a success of her business, and now she was beginning to see the fruits of her labor. But as she continued to work, she began to feel a sense of loneliness.

In the beginning, everything went well. She was successful, and people complimented her on her efforts. But as time went on, she began to feel a sense of longing for something more.

Evelyn began to wonder if she had made the right choice. She had given up her dream of living in the country, and now she was beginning to regret it.

In the end, Evelyn realized that she had made the right choice. She found happiness in the city, and she was content with her life.

The story of Evelyn shows that it is possible to be happy in the big city. With the right attitude and determination, anyone can achieve success and happiness in the city.
