Michigan Farmers Ask for New Dairy Devices

If orchardists would change their methods instead of their sprayer material, a Michigan fruit business, Prof. H. A. Cardwell, said at the annual meeting of the Michigan State college, told a room full of growers and spray dealers at the hotel, R. C. A. recently.

In the last three years, Cardwell said, Michigan fruit growers have applied hundreds and thousands-

CHAPTER XXIII

“Gentlemen, mind what I have to say! I have started something that may end in Romance—or murder!—but, however, with any evidence of the murderer that may be found I trust the police will do their duty as best they can.” With these words, the Inspector began to explain the circumstances of the murder that had occurred in his town. His express purpose was to advise the people to keep their doors locked and to report any suspicious activities to the police. He then described the murder scene and the search for clues that had been made.

Ionia Hearns Proposal To Buy Bag City Cemetery

As the end of the year approached, the Board of Education in Ionia, Michigan, was considering the purchase of Bag City Cemetery. This cemetery had been in the family for generations and was an important part of the town's history. The board was having a difficult time deciding whether to keep the cemetery or sell it to a developer.
