Airmail Gains in Michigan

The cities on the Michigan air mail routes show a gain in the report just made public for the month of May by the Thompson Aerial Lines Corporation. For some time this has been the case, but now there is evidence that every effort is being made to get in the mails to the other cities and bring in the orders for the first time. The number of letters for the city of Detroit, for example, is up 75 per cent. For the first time since the lines opened, all letters from the city were sent on the same day.

The three cities tapping the route remain the same as on February, those being Chicago, Detroit and Kalamazoo. The letters having been lost, as at Battle Creek, have also been opened at the early city on the Michigan routes for February and March.

STATE TO HONOR THOMAS A. EDISON

Michigan will have an outstanding part in the world-wide observance this year of Light's 150th anniversary. Michigan was known as the father of the modern central telephone, because of a lack of suitable apparatus of the time. The state will be commemorated by the exhibition of early apparatus in the state fair at Detroit.

The exhibition will be held at Dearborn. The original Edison laboratories, which are housed in the laboratories which were once used by the inventor, are now being housed in the Menefee Hotel, N. Y. City, the building to be stormed at about 12 o'clock on the day when the fair opens.

Land Owners Should Plant Forest Trees On Idle Farm Areas

With the breaking of spring and opportunity for reforestation of small and medium farm areas throughout Michigan should receive the attention of farm owners, according to a statement by the head of the forestry and conservation of the University of Michigan.

The growing experiment near Ann Arbor has been carried on since 1946 by the University. It is aimed at evaluating the average growth for class planting material. While some of the trees are already six or seven years old, others are in the first year. The University's group is interested in planting of trees to improve the farm's value, with the expectation that it will be worth as much as six or eight times as much.

Both pine, an important European species, and hemlock, which is more adaptable to the climate and soil conditions of Michigan, are being tested. The hemlock, a northern tree, is being planted in the country, along with the pines. The results in the first year, however, show that the hemlock is more adaptable to this area.

Deep Plowing Pays for Beef Yields

The soil of sugar beets for a deep well prepared soil is shown by the greater yields accomplished on the soil placed on a line of Michigan State College.

A field of sugar beets, selected for its high yield, has been placed in the field. The field is divided into three parts, each part containing five acres of land. The first part is plowed for three years, the second part is plowed for two years, and the third part is left unplowed. The yield of the first part is 25% higher than that of the second part. The third part is left unplowed. The yield of the third part is 25% lower than that of the second part.

If you want good egg production next spring, see that your pullets are about three months old. Pullets that have been kept too young cannot be expected to become good producers. If you keep your pullets for a longer period of time, they will lay fewer eggs because they are not as productive. If you keep your pullets for a shorter period of time, they will lay more eggs because they are more productive.

When the professor had suggested going out to the Capitol, Jack had replied categorically, "Let’s not do it." But Miss White had been very anxious to see the State House, and so they paid it a visit. They had no particular interest in the building, but Miss White was very much interested in the architecture and the history of the place.

When Jack knew he was meeting Mike the next day, he had taken some care to look smart. He had put on his best shirt and tie, and his best hat. He was going to meet Mike at the State House.

The professor was attending the opening banquet of the State House, and was going to stay there all day. He had asked Jack to come with him.

"I am going to speak at the opening banquet," the professor said. "Would you like to come with me?"

"I’d love to," Jack replied.

"Good," said the professor. "I’ll see you there at 10 o’clock."
