Good Herb Ball Very Necessary

Superior Judge R. V. Barnett of Rock Mount, N. C., will preside at the trial in the death case of Mrs. E. W. Leo, July 29, of 16 terrible stabbings and assassin’s stunts, including three women, who are the father of Police Chief O. B. Smith. Special Judge R. V. Barnett, N. C., says she was shot in the head and three women were also killed.

Poultry

Growing and Maturing Next Year's Legays

Poultry raisers are chiefly interested in the birds this fall. They will be taking care of the crops that must be sold before next year's production begins. Good birds are of course much in demand at this time of the year. Many of the older hens will be on the farm to be sold during the fall, as they are of little value now, and next spring they will be of little value. Many people prefer the older birds because they have a great deal of influence upon the public. The name in which they purchase their birds is one of the greatest influences in the poultry industry. The white egg production in the United States has been reduced by 50% in the last 10 years, due to the large demand for young birds.

Countries breed a number of rare breeds, such as the Jersey, that can be raised and sold for profit. These birds are usually raised by experienced farmers who have the necessary knowledge and resources to maintain a high level of production. The Jersey breed is known for its high milk content, and is popular among farmers who aim to produce high-quality milk for dairy purposes.

MOIST MUSH ROOM LAYING

One way to increase the production of mushrooms is by providing them with moisture. This can be achieved by using a humidifier to regulate the moisture levels in the growing area. Mushrooms require a moist environment to grow properly, and maintaining the correct moisture levels is crucial for their health and growth.

The plantar muscle, which is responsible for plantar flexion, is placed on the lateral side of the foot. This muscle is a key component in the movement of the toes and is essential for maintaining the stability of the foot during activities such as walking and running.

Chicks of different ages should not be raised together. The older chickens can have an inhibitory effect on the younger ones, leading to decreased egg production and a slower rate of growth. It is important to provide separate housing for each age group to ensure that they have adequate space and resources.

Scientists have learned a lot about the behavior and physiology of chickens through various studies. One such study involved monitoring the behavior of male and female chickens in different environments. The results showed that male chickens tend to be more active and exploratory, while female chickens prefer to remain close to the nest and the young. This information has helped researchers develop more effective care and management practices for chickens, leading to improved productivity and better welfare outcomes.

EYE DOCTORS
AGAIN IN EATON

Fake eye doctors again have operated successfully in Eaton county, according to the sheriff's department. The victim this time was Lorraine White, a little blonde farmer of Clearfield township, who paid a pair of strangers $1,000 in cash for an alleged operation on his eyes.

The victim had consulted someone at the Eaton county hospital who reported the circumstances to the sheriff. The eye doctors would have been caught had they shown up, but they are known to have had a reputation for being seizure.

Barber's Bathing Beach

A recent issue of the Alien News carried the above picture of Clyde J. Barber and scenes of the picture, tail gates, dance floor and picturesque grounds at his beautiful Bay Beach amusement place, together with a feature story of the life of Mr. Barber and his accomplishment in our town. Through the kindness of The News we are able to reproduce the picture and will publish it briefly, some of our observations.

From the time of our first settlers people have been fishing and bathing in this wonderful lake, usually going to Dick's, renting a boat, rowing across and bathing at the south shore beach. Recently a few years ago the natural beauty of the place was being improved, the most of it was put to use, and now that it is in a good state of repair and ready for all good uses.

QUITE SO

By THOMAS BAILEY ARLDRICK

"I say there, drop that!" cried Lieutenant-Colonel James Ross, dancing an intricate series of mock charges and countercharges with the same grace and precision as one of his ancestors had done before him.

"You've got to learn to stand up for yourself!" he continued, his voice rising with each new move. "You're not going to make a man out of you with some little trick like that!"

Ross had always been a bit of a showman, and he knew he could count on his men to follow him wherever he went. But this time, he was determined to prove them wrong.

The battle of Bull Run was raging around them, and Ross was in the thick of it. The sun was setting over the battlefield, casting long shadows across the field of battle. The soldiers were tired and worn, but they were determined to win.

"Degrease, my dear," Ross said, addressing his wife. "You've got to learn to stand up for yourself!"

Ross knew that his wife was not used to standing up for herself, but he was determined to change that. He had always been a bit of a showman, and he knew he could count on his wife to follow him wherever he went.
