INSULATING MEN AND BROODING HOUSES

During the last few years the press has been full of articles dealing with the proper insulation of brooding houses and it is fair to assume that many men are using them with advantage.

Now it is time to set down some facts in regard to the manner in which one may set up a brooding house in order to get the best results.

First, the material used. There are many different kinds of material that can be used for making brooders, but no one would deny that the best results are obtained when the brooder is made of wood.

Secondly, the size of the brooder.

It is well known that the larger the brooder the better the results, but it is also true that the brooder should be of such a size as to allow the birds plenty of room to move about in.

Thirdly, the temperature of the brooder.

The temperature of the brooder should be kept as constant as possible, but it is well to remember that the temperature should not be too high or too low.

Fourthly, the ventilation of the brooder.

It is important that the brooder be well ventilated, but it is also important that the ventilation be controlled, as too much or too little ventilation will affect the results.

Finally, the feeding of the brooder.

It is well known that the feeding of the brooder is very important, but it is also important that the feeding be done in such a manner as to allow the birds to take their food at their own convenience.

There are many more details that could be given, but these are the main points that should be remembered when setting up a brooding house.

SHEEP

The wool industry continues to grow. The demand for wool products is increasing, and as a result, the price of wool has also increased.

However, there are some concerns regarding the sustainability of the sheep industry. The growing population and demand for wool products are putting pressure on the environment and the health of the sheep.

Some farmers are adopting sustainable practices, such as rotational grazing and using natural fertilizers, to reduce the environmental impact of their wool production.

Others are focusing on breeding programs that prioritize health and sustainability, aiming to produce wool products that are more environmentally friendly.

In conclusion, while the wool industry is thriving, it is crucial to consider the environmental impact of wool production. Sustainable practices are essential to ensure the long-term viability of the industry and protect the health of the sheep and the environment.
Michigan ranks fourth in payment of federal income tax, being exceeded only by New York, California, and Illinois, according to a report of the Internal Revenue Service made public recently. The state's total payment amounted to $11,998,254 paid by corporations and $11,891,684 paid by individuals.

However, in the state of California, the total payment amounted to $13,423,152, a decrease of 15 per cent from the fiscal year 1920-21. In New York, the contribution to the federal treasury amounted to $175,792,227, the highest of any state.

The increase in the amount of income tax paid in California over that paid by individuals is due to the repeal of the miscellaneous taxes and assessments of $11,839,369. Elimination of the automobile license tax and the authorization of a $15,000,000 bond issue by the state, instead of the annual $18,000,000 bond, will result in a decrease in the state's income tax of about $5,000,000 for the current fiscal year.

Investigates "Extra Fares"

A case will be tried on October 15 before the U. S. C. C. I. C. in San Francisco, California, of the Pacific inter-continental railroad for the violation of the Anti-Trust Act.

Formerly, the state railroad and the state of California, and the state of Oregon, have been involved in a series of antitrust suits in the Federal court and the state courts of Oregon. The railroad has been ordered to pay a fine of $250,000 and to cease and desist from the practice of "extra fares".

Celanese Banks in Shaken

The Board of Directors of the Celanese Corporation has reported a profit of $18,715,148 for the first quarter of the current fiscal year. However, the corporation has announced that it will not pay a dividend.

Michigan Guts $26,551,418 for Federal Highways

Michigan has received the sum of $26,551,418 for federal highways out of the total revenue of $47,915,000 collected by the state for the current fiscal year.

An increase in the amount of the federal appropriation for highways in the state is expected to be received in the near future.

Michigan's Characteristic

Michigan's characteristic is its natural beauty, its snow-covered winter landscape, and its crystal-clear lakes. The state is known for its skiing resorts, such as the Boyne Mountain Resort, and its beautiful lakes, such as Lake Michigan. The state is also known for its agricultural products, such as cherries, apples, and blueberries.

Michigan's population is estimated to be over 10 million, making it the 10th most populous state in the United States. The state's economy is driven by its automobile industry, with companies such as Ford and GM having significant operations in the state. The state is also home to major universities, such as the University of Michigan and Michigan State University.

Michigan's state bird is the robin, and its state fish is the lake trout. The state tree is the white pine, and the state flower is the coneflower. The state motto is "Spera Inltra Pauca" (Hope in Small Things).

THE NEWS
By LUCY CLAIRE

What is a sports freak? As in hard edge in this season of苋菜 and greater diversity of daygame models as it is in the modern sports world. A sports freak can be found in almost any situation and in any mood. He watches the game, listens to the commentary, and even reads the newspapers. He cares about the score, the weather, and the players. He is not just a spectator, he is a part of the game. He is a sports freak.

By slot machines and video games, the sports freak has become the norm. He is no longer a rarity, he is a common sight at the stadium, the bar, and even in his own home. He is a part of the sports world, and he is here to stay. He is a sports freak.

A new steel must be produced under the name of "bell," daringly from the German forests in which they stand for iron (always cheap), it is to be manufactured in the United States under Knapp patents exclusively by Continental Steel Corporation.

The outstanding characteristic of the alloy is that it does not become brittle when cold worked. It will resist the formation of cracks, especially in rivet holes and at rivet heads. The metal will carry any low pressure differential over ordinary boiler plant.

The steel is licensed to be produced to certain major companies by Knapp & Davidson and Knapp & Neff.
