For the Centennial

This last sketch is a contribution to the Pine Grove township, Pine Grove borough, the Pine Grove Church, the Pine Grove Community College, and the Pine Grove Historical Society. It is a celebration of the 100th anniversary of the birth of the Pine Grove Church, which has been a center of worship and community life in the area for over a century.

The church is located in the center of the Pine Grove Community. The community is celebrating its centennial with a series of events, including a parade, a concert, and a community picnic. The church is open to the public for visitors to explore and learn about its history.

For more information about the celebration and how to participate, please contact the Pine Grove Historical Society at 555-1234. They will be happy to answer any questions you may have.

Michigan Loses Fight Against Corn Borers

In addition to leading radio stations throughout the country, Mr. and Mrs. Lida A. Washburn, of 80 South Street, were among the first to hear the broadcast of the program of the New York Philharmonic Society on the radio yesterday morning. The Washburns, who are regular listeners to the station, were particularly interested in the broadcast because they live in a rural area and cannot attend concerts like those given by the New York Philharmonic Society.

Mrs. Edith S. Rogers, a prominent woman from Massachusetts, was the first to hear the broadcast, and she was particularly interested in the way the program was transmitted to her home. She said that the broadcast was "excellent," and that she was "very pleased."

MICHIGAN LOSSES FIGHT AGAINST COR BORERS

Michigan has suffered in its fight against corn borers. Years of study and the failure of control methods against the bug has shown that the crop cannot be eradicated, according to Augustus C. Curton, director of the state department of agriculture. In Michigan, the borer has spread from the eastern counties to the western counties of the state.

In another year, the borer will be so widespread in the state that it will be impossible to control it. Although the pest has destroyed millions of dollars' worth of corn in the past, it has not been as serious as expected. Curton predicts that the borer will continue to cause damage in the state in the future. He suggests that farmers should use resistant varieties of corn, as well as apply appropriate pesticides to control the borer.

HATCHERY MAYS MAY BE IN SAME WHOLE YEAR

Baby chick hatcheries in the near future may be in operation all year round, according to the report of the Department of Agriculture. The department has been inspecting the hatcheries since the start of the year, and has found that many of them are using artificial lighting to extend the hatchery season. This practice has been successful in many cases, and the department recommends that it be continued.

New Act Outlaws State Calf Spuds

The last session of the Michigan legislature virtually ended on Tuesday, when the Senate passed a bill to outlaws state calf spuds. The bill, sponsored by Senator Peter D. Bozak of Detroit, director of the state department of agriculture, was designed to eliminate the practice of growing spuds in the state's wetlands. The bill was signed by Governor Albert E. Johnson, and becomes effective on January 1, 1937.

Poultry

Full bailed pallets will help balance the finished product, as well as to make poultry raising more rewarding to all concerned. The practice of using full bailed pallets can enable the reduction of the excess fat in the birds, which makes the bailed poultry more acceptable to the customer. Full bailed poultry is more economical, and, when suitable equipment is used, the poultry appears to be more vigorous.

MASH FEED FOR NEW FEATHERS

The proper foods that give new feathers to poultry are mash, which is the appetizer for all poultry, and mash, which is the appetizer for all poultry, and mash, which is the appetizer for all poultry.

The mash should be fed to the birds during the period of molt, when new feathers are being formed. In the case of female poultry, the mash should be fed during the laying season, when new eggs are being formed.

RABBIT BREEDERS PLAN SHOW OCT. 27

The Eastern Michigan Rabbit Breeders association will hold a table at the Armory fairgrounds, on October 27, at 2 p.m. It is expected that most of the large Eastern breeds will be represented at the show.

The officers of the organization are: M. C. Hallock, secretary; C. E. Clark, treasurer; and L. A. Sturtevant, president.

To See Less Wheat Around Waterfowl

A smaller wheat season will be seen in this season’s weather, and this season’s weather has been much warmer and dryer than recent years. The United States Department of Agriculture estimates that the wheat yield will be 50% less than last year, and this season’s weather has been much warmer and dryer than recent years.

"Do you think we were really for that?" Florence asked.

"I don't know. I was too busy thinking about our own little problem."

"I think we were. I saw the way you looked at her."

"You're probably right. I guess I was just too preoccupied with my own feelings."

Expert Finds New Points On Cancer

Successful treatment of cancer first seen in many of the direction of climatologists in the bacteria or patients being treated for the disease than in the application of chemotherapy. In this group, William F. Koch, M.D., of the University of Michigan, declares in his latest report on "Cancer and Allied Diseases." Dr. Koch is head of the Department of Medicine in the University of Michigan, and is one of the world's foremost authorities on cancer research and treatment. He has been working with 1,000 patients in all parts of the country in the treatment of this disease.

Early treatment is absolutely vital

Dr. Koch states that earlier growths are amenable to treatment by local surgery, and that in most cases it is possible to remove the growth and prevent recurrence. In addition, Dr. Koch declares, can be accomplished by the use of certain drugs which will destroy the cancer cell and prevent its growth. These drugs include certain forms of radiation, general or local, as well as chemical agents which may exist in the body or be administered by the physician.

Dr. Koch states that the author of modern cancer research is in a position to state that cancer treatments are not only successful but that they are practical methods of preventing the disease.

Cancer can be prevented and cured.

Three-Point Baby Wins Millinery

By LUCY CLAIRE

The very latest in cut, color, and handling has, if anything, increased in Baby Millinery. Faux fur, victory, and lace must not necessarily be reserved for the butterflies, but they should, at least, mimic the accomplishments or trimmings. While brown is the leading color for fall, at the same time black has been lost in the prestige. The proportion of black as applied all over the entire color of the hat or dress is in its death throes. Greys in general are of the season, but the most appropriate is to be seen in a rich, deep, velvety tone, having a soft, rich quality. The main features of the trimmings are lace, tulle, and embroidery, which are used to wrap the hat and to add a touch of elegance. The birds are made of kid and felt, with embroidered or tulle trimmings, and the organza and tulle gowns.

Increased Expectations

Belief that the enrollment in the University of Wisconsin will be greatly increased, the year this fall, has been expressed in a statement made by S. R. Stock, president of the University. Mr. Stock believes that the university will attract a large number of students.

Mr. Stock states that the increase in enrollments, which has been noted in the past two years, is due to a number of factors, including the increased interest in higher education and the improved economic conditions in the state.

Equally important is the increased accessibility to the University of Wisconsin, which has been made possible by the improvement of transportation facilities in the state. The completion of the new University buildings and the modernization of the campus have also contributed to the increase in enrollments.

The increase in the enrollment is expected to have a positive impact on the university's ability to provide quality education and to attract outstanding faculty and students.
Acidity

The common cure of digestion difficulties is the acidity of lemon or orange juice. This is a correct remedy, but too strong for the stomach. The stomach is already too weak to digest the food. A more correct remedy is milk of magnesia, or milk of magnesia and water, which is a neutral or slightly alkaline substance, and will tone up the stomach and improve its action.

Acidity as a cause of bad digestion should be remembered. The stomach receives its acid from the food, which is changed into acid by the action of the stomach. If the stomach is too acid, the food is not digested, and if too alkaline, the food is not digested. The acid and alkaline condition of the stomach must be kept in the proper proportion to the digestibility of the food.
