Harry Shyrook auction this afternoon.

Anita Stimpson was home from Ann Arbor Sunday.

Marjorie Gilchrist was home from Bronson for the week end.

James Hartley was over from Chicago the first of the week.

Mrs. Ed Doe was home from Port Huron for the week end.

Many former students were here for the school carnival.

Hosner auction next week Thursday. See ad in this issue.

Mrs. Enos First has returned from a visit to South Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stephens of St. Joe visited at L. O. Graham's Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Tychsen and Marian spent the week end in Detroit.

Mrs. Ida Cole is home after an extended visit with her children at Ferndale.

Harold Wilcox was home from Ferndale for the week end and attended the Kalamazoo College home coming.

Mrs. Bart Benson and Lester West of Huntington, Ind. were week end guests at the home of Enos First.

Mrs. Spencer Kridler returned Sunday from Detroit where she has been getting acquainted with her new grandson.

In the rush of last week we forgot to report the return of Mr. and Mrs. Doc. Thayer from their extended visit in Kansas.

A bed blanket one hundred forty years old and never yet used was on display in the bank window. It belongs to Mrs. M. L. Wilmot.

The Mentha rain gauge registered 3 1-2 inches of rainfall during the rainy spell last week. The first rainfall of note in some moons.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Wieren and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dewitt and son of Kalamazoo were Sunday guests at Joe VanWieren's and helped celebrate Howard's birthday.

While attending the theater Sunday night in Kalamazoo Gordon Kridler had the misfortune to have his car stolen. It was recovered late Monday afternoon.

One of the unique features of the vegetable display at the school fair was a pumpkin grown in 1928 in a remarkable state of preservation, displayed by James Clement.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Hayden left Saturday for Detroit where they will spend the winter with their son. Leroy. May they return as usual when the roses bloom again.

Ur Hicks was calling on friends in town last Thursday. He has closed out his business at Vestaburg and with his son in law has purchased a stock at Ober, Indiana, where they are now in possession.

The annual convention of the Van Buren County Council of religious education will be at Bangor, Tuesday, November 12, all day. A fine program is in preparation and a large representation from every Sunday school is desired.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson of Pine Grove have returned from a visit to Detroit. The special attraction was the arrival of their granddaughter Janet Elizabeth Larkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Larkins.

We regret to learn of the sudden death of Charles Morgan, for many years a resident of this vicinity and for several years an employee and manager of the Gobles creamery. Ill health caused him to move with his family to Tennessee some years ago. His death was due to an acute attack of asthma. His family have the sympathy of a host of friends in this community.

Regular meeting Eastern Stars next Tuesday evening.

C. W. Newcomb had fresh lettuce from his garden October 28, not so bad.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Maskey of Allegan were Sunday guest at the home of W. J. Davis.

Miss Anne Vivian Janos, of Kendall spent last week with her sister Mary, in Kalamazoo.

Mary Annette Janas, acted as maid of honor at her friend's wedding in Kalamazoo Saturday.

Mr. Van Strien and family took advantage of the school recess and visited in Battle Creek Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Nidy announce the birth of a daughter, on Monday, October 28, 1929. Congratulations.

Mrs. Ella Hartenstein of Denver, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Packer of Toledo, Ohio, are visiting at the Marquis home.

Many toured the county Sunday to view the Centennial displays and report them most interesting. The storm Tuesday shortened the parade somewhat still all were well repaid for going.

Mrs. Edwin Mann fell in a store in Kalamazoo, last Friday fracturing one of the bones in her leg. She was taken to Bronson hospital where she will be detained for several weeks. Her many friends hope her recovery will be complete.

The School Fair and Carnival last Friday prove most satisfactory in every respect and the good attendance and liberal receipt is evidence that the community enjoy these occasions and appreciate the efforts of the school to give them a jolly evening.

Because of chicken-pox and mumps in North Point District the attendance was not perfect during the second month. Those who were neither absent nor tardy were Ethel Bargo, Luella Bargo, Harold Harbolt, Virginia Merrell, Lyle Minckler, and Billy Ullrey.

More Early History

This, the second article on Pine Grove township, was forced upon me in answer to the many criticisms and objections to the closing paragraph in my first article as published in the Gobles News; and for which, figuratively speaking, I have been dodging the mailed fists of objections from all sources west and south of the township line. They remind me of an old settler, one James Hall, who will be remembered as quite a character in his way. He had the ability to mimic all birds and animals of the forest and by using a common lamp chimney, sent out the weird howl of the wolf. He might receive an answer from a distance but never from one in close proximity, nor could he make the chills and prickles run up and down the human spine as would be produced by the real thing. So if they will lay aside the lamp chimney and come out with facts and figures, we can give them some chills to ponder over.

Pine Grove originally had two sore spots within its borders. One was the vast Brandywine swamp or peat bed, which was once considered to be utterly worthless even for taxation purposes; but today a fertilizer company worth $100,000 is shipping car after car of peat from Kendall and it bids fair to be a great industry. A company has been formed to utilize the moss which covers a portion of the swamp and which is in great demand, thus turning one of the old liabilities into an asset. The other so called sore spot was known as the Willow Marsh, a vast jungle extending the entire length of the township on the east side and was the last harbor for the bear, wolf, deer, lynx and bob cat. This place was so impenetrable that it was said they would never be driven out, but today, thanks to A. M. Todd, not a vestige of the old jungle remains. On its site is a village and as far as the eye can see are great fields of mint and garden crops, employing many men. Pine Grove has the largest acreage of mint in the world. The value of its products is not equalled by any farm of the same size in southern Michigan.

Brandywine lake, one of the most popular and best known resorts, with its 25 cottages and summer homes is a place of which to be proud.

A word for our fruit. The makers of extracts of fruit have discovered that the fruit of this section contains more sugar and better flavor than in any other place except red raspberries of the Saginaw valley which holds the palm, and if so they must be good. A blind man can tell the difference between a bunch of grapes from the vine clad hills of Van Buren County (of which Pine Grove furnishes its full quota) and those grown in any other place. And the peaches, Oh, Boy! While disease has played havoc with the trees they are rapidly coming back and we expect to see them as extensively grown as they were a few years ago when the writer took an invoice of all trees set for commercial purposes. There were 176,000 trees not including those set for home use.

Did you know that the Gobles Milling Co. was one of the largest shippers of beans in the state; that the Pet Milk Station handled enough milk to float a battleship? Not to mention the cars of cucumber pickles. Pine Grove must have credit for them as they are within her boundary. Pine Grove potatoes are too well known to call for much space. P. G. Sandies, as the buyers call them, are as well known as the Idaho Bakers with not a twentieth part of the advertising. Hudson & Son of Pine Grove once shipped two cars of P. G. Sandies to Honolulu via San Francisco where they retailed at $12 a bushel.

But why continue when you cannot tell the half? I may seem over enthusiastic but only one who has lived to see a country grow from the wild and woolly can realize what it means to

O. P. Hudson.

Birthday Surprise

Mr. J. H. Snyder was very much surprised Oct. 25, when the children drove in Mr. and Mrs. Burns, two daughters and son of Kalamazoo, Mr. and Mrs. Haugh two son's and Charles Snyder of Kalamazoo and Mr. and Mrs. Steilen of Paw Paw Mr. and Mrs. Jess Snyder and daughter from the other side of Allegan. An oyster supper was served later in the evening.

All had a very nice evening some playing pepper while others played other games. At a late hour coffee, sandwiches and cake were served. The cake was pretty large for it had to have lots of room to put 66 candles on. It being Mr. Snyder's birthday they greeted him with a number of presents. All left for their homes reporting a good time.

Fashions World's Largest Lens

What is expected to be the world's largest reflecting telescope lens is being constructed by C. W. Woodworth, professor of entomology at the University of California, in his own back yard at Berkeley. He is shown here putting in place four of the 400 small lenses which will make up its composite surface. The professor, who already has spent two years upon it and needs another for its completion, grinds all lenses with a special apparatus which he designed. The idea of a composite lens has been scouted by scientists as impossible of achievement, but Prof. Woodworth believes he has solved all difficulties.

Consul General Is Drug Clerk

BEFORE the Russian revolution Antoine Volkoff was consul general in Chicago of the imperial government.

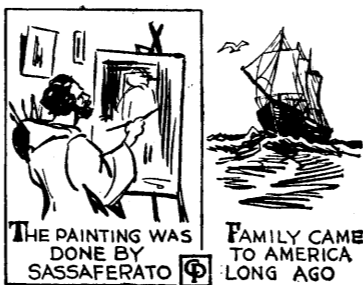

TO live one must work," he says. Volkoff now is a druggist's clerk in one of the shabbiest sections of Chicago.

Antoine Volkoff, former consul general of the Russian government in Chicago, above, is now a drug store clerk. The overthrow of the czarist government more than a decade ago by the Soviets stranded him. However, he is recognized by the state department at Washington as the "unofficial official consul general." The Soviet has no representative, the czarist rule is dead, yet Volkoff handles affairs of his countrymen in Chicago.

MORE INTERESTED IN FARMING METHODS

While the farm population in Michigan has been decreasing, the interest of farmers in learning new angles of their business has increased, according to class records in the short course offered at Michigan State college.

The first short course, three in number, were given in 1897. Forty-five students enrolled in those courses. Last year 19 short courses were given at Michigan State and 455 students enrolled.

Many of these courses last only one week and are designed as a clearing house of new information about a particular subject. Most of the students can spare only a short time from their business and the short courses meet their needs.

The longest of these courses is the two year general agricultural course of 16 weeks. Fifty one men took this course last year.

Five courses are given in dairy subjects, five courses in horticultural subjects and one each in poultry, agricultural engineering, home economics, bee keeping, seed production, farm management and veterinary medicine.

The 16 week course in general agriculture begins October 28. All others are held in January, February or March.

Cadillac Potato Show Is Nov. 13-15

Potato and apple growers in this section will stage their annual show at Cadillac Nov. 13, 14 and 15, according to H. Lee Barnum, president of the Cadillac District Potato and Apple show. Premiums of about $400 are offered to exhibitors.

Open classes will consist of exhibits of 32 potatoes of any variety. The certified seed class consists of 122 potatoes, of any one of the following varieties: Russet Rurals, White Rurals, Irish Cobblers.

Apple varieties should consist of plates of five apples, of any of the following varieties: Wealthy, McIntosh, Wagener, Winter Banana, Northern Spy and Jonathan.

Potato exhibitors are urged to dig their tubers carefully by hand and allow to dry for one or two hours before being picked up. The potato should be wrapped and stored in a cool, dry, dark place. The judges in picking the winning exhibits will consider trueness to type, uniform size, shape and color. Show potatoes should weigh from seven to nine ounces and disease free.

Horses Will Be Sold By M. S. C. at Big Auction

Horses with the same blood lines which enabled herd mates to win championships in state and national shows will be sold at auction at Michigan State college, Nov. 6.

Three Belgians and Percherons are part of the college herd, and 25 animals, brood mares, yearlings, two-year-olds, and draft teams, are included in the surplus stock which will be sold.

The shortage of horses on Michigan farms during the past year has induced dealers to ship many western horses into the state. Most of these animals were of a lighter type than is desirable for farm use.

Many farmers have attempted to raise colts to replace the old horses on their farms, but have found that it was impossible. Their brood mares had passed the proper breeding age.

Census figures for the state show that the reduction in the number of horses on farms was 17,000 from Jan. 1, 1928, to January 1, 1929. Shipments of western horses this year have probably not exceeded the number of animals which have died or become useless.

The disposal of the college horses at the November sale will distribute a nucleus of excellent breeding stock which can be used in the future to improve the horses on Michigan farms.

Individual Drinking Cups and Warm Water Increases Milk Flow

Few mechanical devices will increase a good dairy cow's milk flow more than individual water bowls or drinking cups. Considering that milk is 87 per cent water, it is not hard to see why large quantities of warm water will furnish a basis for production, especially in cold weather. Cows consuming bulky rations of hay, ensilage and ground feeds will drink continually if water of correct temperature is before them.

Icy water temporarily checks digestion and will cause cows to shiver. Such conditions decrease the milk supply because the cow's digestive organs must function properly in order to produce milk in maximum quantities.

Corn for Silage

Silage made from corn containing moisture enough for proper preservation is more palatable to stock than that made from corn so mature as to need the addition of water. Usually corn should be harvested for the silo about a week or ten days before it would be cut for shocking. At this time the lower leaves on the stalk are turning brown and the green corn fodder contains about 70 per cent of moisture, which is enough for silage.

Farm Extension Work in Hands of Rural Citizen

The extension program in agriculture and home economics is in the hands of the men and women on the farms. It is formulated by the rural people in consultation with the extension agents of their counties after a full and frank discussion of the most important problems of the farm and home.

Fifteen years ago the scattered efforts of the federal government, of some states, and of a few educational and commercial agencies were just being gathered together to form the nucleus of the present nationwide system. Fifteen years ago there were about 1,800 men and women in the extension work and funds from all sources for extension work totaled about $3,500,000, and this year, for the work in the 48 states and the Territory of Hawaii, funds from all sources budgeted for co-operative extension work amount to about $23,000,000, and the field staff consists of about 5,700 men and women trained in agriculture and home economics.

One of the developments in the last 15 years has been the gradual growth of a service to assist farmers in their marketing problems. Co-operative extension workers are giving help to groups of farmers in the formation of co-operative purchasing and marketing associations, are making information available to farmers on price trends, on probable supply, and on demand for agricultural products and other economic information. They are helping farmers to standardize their products and adapt their agriculture to meet market demands.

Farm women, too, in increasing numbers, are obtaining the assistance of trained home demonstration workers in their problems of homemaking, and the latest methods of work and management are being used, as a result, in more farm homes each year.

In the training in the last 15 years of more than 5,000,000 4-H club boys and girls in better agriculture and homemaking, more than in any other one thing, the extension service has justified its existence.

Charlevoix Fair To Be Held Later

At the annual meeting of the Charlevoix County Fair board: the following officers were elected: president, F. R. Bulow of Charlevoix and East Jordan; vice president, Richard Lewis of East Jordan; secretary, Frank Bird of Charlevoix; treasurer, Kit Carson of East Jordan; Marshall, Robert Barnett of East Jordan.

It was decided to change the fair dates, which have been the last week in August to the last week in September. The previous date was satisfactory from a financial standpoint, but was found to be too early for the average exhibitor.

Duck Stomachs Are Sought By Game Division

Since "duck food planting programs are little better than guesses until we have a better knowledge of the food preferences of each important kind of duck" the game division of the department of conservation has asked all duck hunters to co-operate in obtaining duck stomachs for examination.

Last year, as a part of its duck food investigation, the game division asked that the stomach contents of wild ducks be saved for examination. Some hunters responded and furnished quite a number of such specimens. These were chiefly of black mallards and showed that while some ate barley, with "grass-hoppers for dessert," others fed on pondweed seeds, snails, young dragon flies, etc. But only a few marshes and lakes were represented and too few specimens were saved.

Practically no gizzards of redheads, bluebills and carwasbacks were sent in. This fall the game division hopes to secure from many places a large number of these specimens and for each important species of duck, so as to give a better idea of what foods the various ducks are now able to find in Michigan lakes and marshes.

All specimens sent to the department, whether dried or preserved in formaldehyde solution, should be properly labeled as to the kind of duck and when, where and by whom each was shot.

On request, the department will furnish labels and detailed instructions to those hunters who wish to co-operate.

The department also hopes hunters will report their observations as to the relative numbers and kinds of duck they see, the date when migrations are noticed, and any other important information concerning duck hunting conditions in Michigan.

Sweet potatoes to keep well in storage should be dug before the first killing frost, or if the vines are killed by frost and it is impossible to dig the potatoes at once, cut the vines away from them and dig them as soon as possible. A light frosting of the leaves does not usually injure the potatoes, but a heavy freeze which will kill the vines is liable to ruin the keeping quality of the potatoes unless the vines are promptly removed.

Poultry

IT PAYS TO DRESS TURKEYS

It pays to dress your own turkeys, or, in other words you get paid for the work of dressing them, according to year book of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Turkey growers in the North Platte irrigation district, in 1927, marketed 25,000 dressed birds and realized $12,000 for the work of dressing, according to the year book. Of course it was a co-operative venture, with neighbors exchanging work and selling co-operatively in car lots. Here is how it was worked, according to the year book:

"The growers in a county or district determine approximately the number of turkeys available for sale. Representatives of the growers get in touch with prospective buyers and receive from them sealed bids which are opened at a stated time. The entire number is then sold to the highest bidder, who then fixes the dates on which he wishes the dressed birds to be delivered.

"The farmers dress the turkeys the day before delivery and cool them overnight on the farms. The birds are weighed, graded, and paid for as they are delivered. The purchaser bears all expenses and assumes all responsibility after the birds are received.

"Turkey growers realize from 50 cents to $1 for the labor of dressing. This represents from 15 to 20 per cent of the value of the turkey, and is fully three-fifths as much as the entire feed cost of raising and fattening the bird."

DISTINGUISHING SEX IN GEESSE

How to distinguish between the sexes in geese. Before giving any information on this subject we wish to advise that a great deal of practice is necessary before the breeder can be at all sure that he is making correct distinctions.

There are, however, a few points on which the sex of geese may be determined by the breeder with a little practice, even though he is not a poultry expert. Once the sex is determined it is a good plan to mark the geese or the ganders in such a way that the determination will not have to be made a second time.

If the geese are young it is even more difficult to distinguish the males from the females, but as they grow older, the ganders are usually slightly larger and coarser than the geese, with longer, thicker necks and larger heads. The cry of the gander is also shrill and sharp, while the cry of the goose is usually harsh and less distinct. During the laying season especially, the line from the tail to the point where the legs join the body can be used as a means of determining sex. In the gander this line is very nearly straight, while in geese it tends to round out with a fuller development of the abdomen.

Such determinations are hard to make accurately, however, since they depend almost altogether upon comparisons. This late in the season the most accurate means of determining this is to observe the geese while mating since they have already started mating in most cases.

ELABORATE HOUSES UNNECESSARY

Many a poultryman feels that it is impossible to produce a high quality product and sell it on a special market at a premium over the average price paid for eggs because of the fact that he does not have elaborate equipment.

However, success with poultry depends as much upon studying marketing as it does upon studying production methods, and in many cases, more depends upon a knowledge of the former. This does not mean that the house shown in the accompanying picture is not a good one, for it is. It is a straw loft type house, with good interior equipment. It is not a "showy" house, though, but is an old tool shed made over into a warm, well ventilated laying house.

In spite of the fact that the owner of this house and flock does not have a new, elaborately equipped laying house, she markets her eggs direct to Chicago, and Minneapolis consumers at a substantial premium over local prices. Her eggs are carefully graded and only the best go to these consumers who want quality and are willing to pay for it.

FEED BUTTERMILK TO YOUR CHICKENS

Concentrated buttermilk has found to be an excellent poultry feed. This product is usually marketed in barrels or kegs, and may be fed either in a diluted form by adding 2 or 3 parts of water to 1 part of buttermilk and giving it as a drink, or fed in concentrated form in V-shaped troughs. If fed in concentrated form, allow 3 pounds to 100 laying hens daily.

The crow is best known by its depredations on corn and other crops, on poultry, and on wild birds, but it is unfair to condemn it entirely, since it makes warfare on insect pests, according to the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture. Insects supply about one-fifth of the crow's menu, which includes some of the worst pests with which the farmer has to contend, such as grasshoppers, caterpillars, white grubs and May beetles. Though crows should be destroyed where they are doing damage, indiscriminate killing of them is unwarranted, in the opinion of the Biological Survey.

BANKERS FORM CLEARING HOUSE

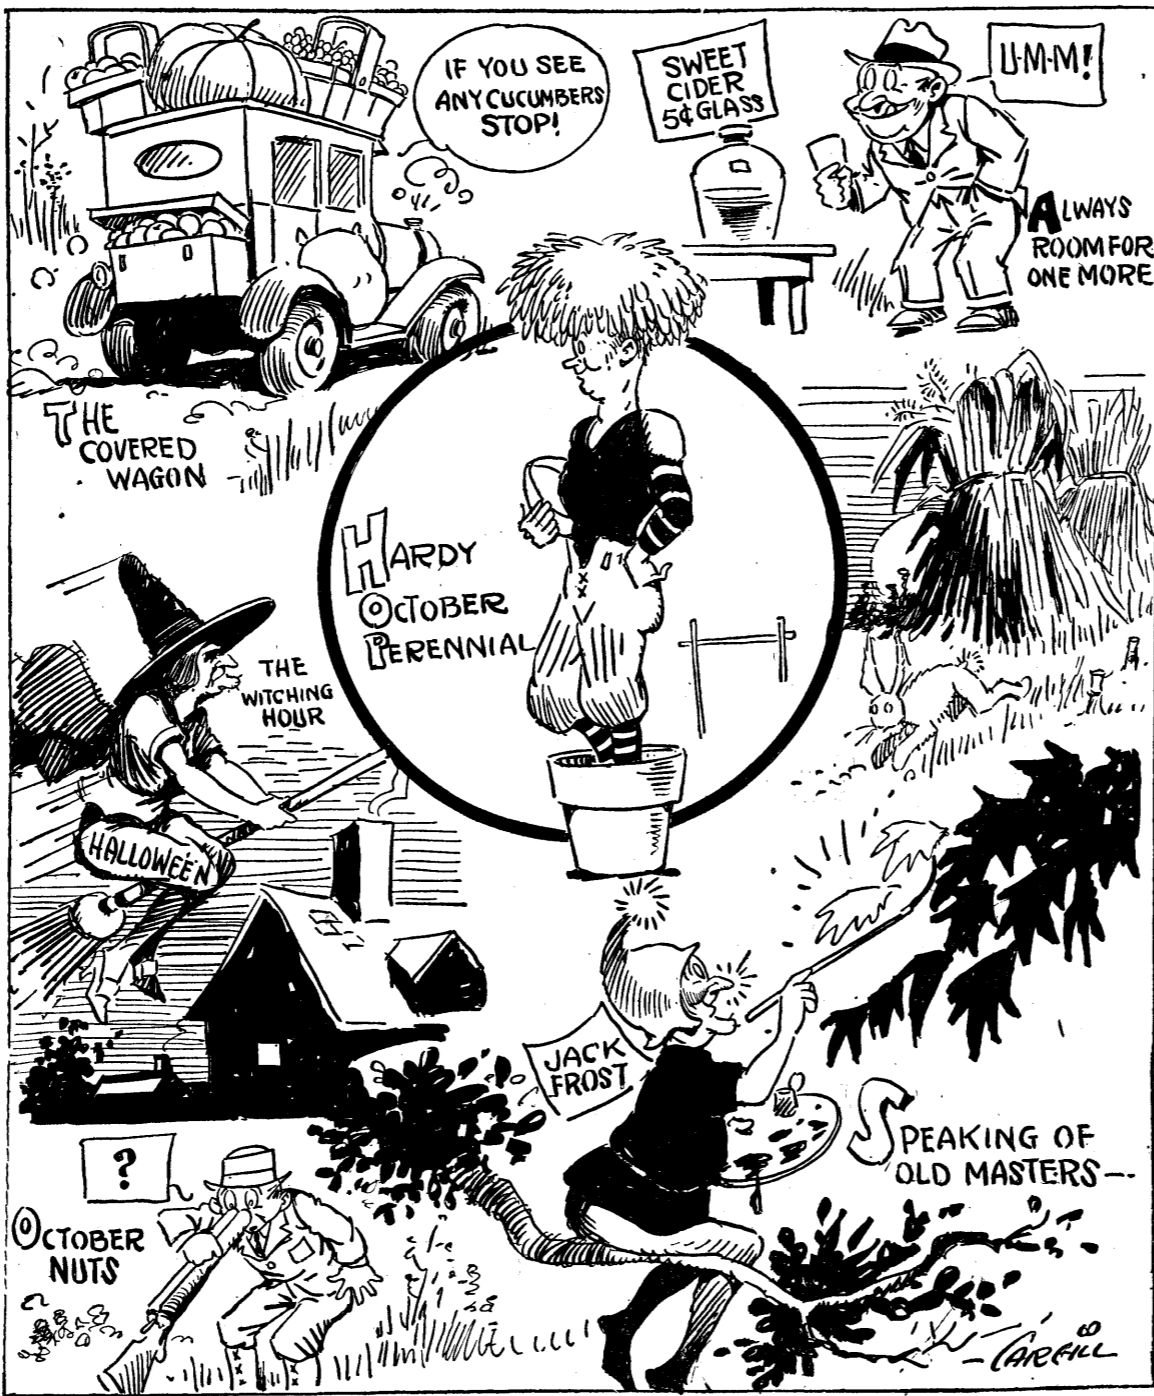

At a meeting held in Albion recently 30 bankers of southwestern Michigan decided to organize the S. W. Michigan Regional Clearing House association. The association will be made up of banks in Marshall, Albion, Homer, Tekonsha, Olivet, Charlotte, Eaton Rapids, Springport, Parma, Concord, and eventually all the banks in Eaton, Branch and Calhoun county, except Battle Creek, and a part of Jackson county. A committee consisting of W. T. Phelps, president of the Commercial Savings Bank, Marshall; B. G. Doolittle, of the Tekonsha State Bank; O. E. Wolcott, of the Olivet State Bank; Frank N. Aldrich, of the Farmers State Bank, Concord; and E. Robert Robinson, of the First National Bank Marshall; has been appointed to draft the by-laws and articles of association.

Bus Merger Authorized

Michigan Public Utilities Commission has authorized a consolidation of rail and western Michigan. The West motor vehicle freight service in central Michigan Transportation Company has been permitted to absorb six individual truck concerns. Approximately $260,000 is involved in stock transfers. A central terminal will be established in Grand Rapids.

The commission's order allows the new company to operate from Manistee to Muskegon on U. S.-31; Muskegon to Grand Rapids on M-46, M-37 and U. S.-16, providing no local business is done between Grand Rapids and Ferrysburg, Springlake and Grand Haven, Grand Haven and Coopersville; from Grand Rapids to Ionia on M-21; from Ionia to Lansing on M-21 and U. S.-27; from Ionia to Big Rapids on M-43 and M-20; from Grand Rapids to Belding on U. S.-131 and M-44; from Grand Rapids to Greenville on U. S.-31; from Grand Rapids to Holland and Hamilton on M-21; from Grand Rapids to Kalamazoo on U. S.-131; from Plainwell to Otsego on M-89; from Kalamazoo to Jackson on U. S.-12; from Battle Creek to Charlotte and Lansing on M-78 and U. S.-27; from Kalamazoo to Three Rivers and Sturgis on U. S.-131 and U. S.-112.

OCTOBER

LENAWEE COUNTY LAKES ARE GIVEN SUPPLY OF FISH

Through the efforts of the Lenawee County Sportsmen's association, about 75,000 bluegills and 6,000 bass were placed in the lakes of Lenawee county recently. The fish were raised in the association's ponds on South McKenzie street.

It was expected that at least 15,000 bass would be raised but it is thought they escaped into a small stream which leads into the River Raisin, when a screen was accidentally left open.

The bluegills grew to one to two inches, with a few three inches in length, while the average length of the bass was four inches. A year ago 22 bass got into the bluegill pond and grew to nine and one-half inches while they reduced the bluegill population to about 11,000.

Mrs. Shimmerpate, just back from Europe, said to Mrs. Beanbrough: "I just couldn't bear looking at the ruins in Italy. They make me homesick for my husband." "Homesick for your husband?" "Yes. You know, Henry has fallen arches."

agree Diamond Dyes are better dyes. The white package of Diamond Dyes is the highest quality dye, prepared for general use. It will dye or tint silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon or any mixture of materials. The blue package is a special dye, for silk and wool only. With it you can dye your valuable articles of silk or wool with results equal to the finest professional work. When you buy—remember this. The blue package dyes silk or wool only. The white package will dye every kind of goods, including silk and wool. Your dealer has both packages.

Diamond Dyes contain the highest quality anilines money can buy. And it is the anilines that count. They are the life of that dye; the source of their rich colors; brilliance and permanence.

Diplomatic Ruling Ties Up Estates

Three residents of Russia, heirs to estates totaling $25,000, inherited from relatives in Michigan, may not be able to collect until the United States enters into diplomatic relations with the Soviet government, it was revealed recently by Ralph Hughes, public administrator.

In the past Hughes has refused to pay inheritances to foreign residents unless their affidavits have been vided by a United States consul. He has clung to this rule in regard to the Russians, even though there are no United States consuls within that country, but because the cases have been taken up by the Russian Red Cross he is submitting the question to Attorney-General Wilber M. Brucker.

Two of the heirs are to receive $10,000 each from war risk insurance on relatives killed while serving in the United States army. The third is an estate of $5,000 inherited from a former resident of Marquette.

Seek to Invalidate Horton Game Law

Court action to invalidate the Horton law, under which clubs may lease land and hunt pheasants for a period of 60 days, whereas the open season is confined to seven days, will be taken by the Shiawassee conservation association if attorneys can find any grounds on which to base a case.

This was decided at a recent meeting of the association. The Lansing Hunting company has leased 4,000 acres in the southern part of the county, liberated 886 pheasants on it and members have been shooting there for the past ten days. They are allowed to shoot half of the birds liberated.

Local sportsmen term the act class legislation and farmers assert that if the Lansing sportsmen can shoot pheasants now, they will shoot those on their own farms.

It is also likely that a fund will be raised by popular subscription to test the validity of the anti-Sunday hunting law in effect in Shiawassee county.

Plans $750,000 Expansion

A building program at the Zilwaukee plant of the Consumers Power Company to cost approximately $750,000, which will include the construction of a concrete dock turning basin, storage facilities for 250,000 tons of coal, and equipment for unloading and handling, will be started soon, announces Samuel Ball, district manager for the company. The project will be completed sometime next spring for use after the opening of navigation.

Construction of the dock at the Saginaw river plant will result in a considerable increase in river traffic, Mr. Ball feels. The Zilwaukee gas and power plants use in the neighborhood of 450,000 tons of coal annually. "At present this coal, which comes from West Virginia and Kentucky, is shipped by rail, but with the dock project and the deeper river channel it will mean that the coal will be brought in by ship," said Mr. Ball. The Zilwaukee gas plant furnishes electric current to not only Bay City and Saginaw, but also to Flint.

COUNTY MAY CHANGE NAMES OF STREAMS

The name of any lake or stream in Michigan can be changed only upon authority from the board of supervisors of the county in which that particular lake or stream is located and the state of Michigan intends to usurp no authority in this, according to the state committee on changing geographical names.

This committee was appointed some time ago by Governor Fred W. Green to formulate some system by which names of lakes and streams could be changed, principally to avoid duplication. The committee is composed of George W. Fuller of the state historical commission, chairman; R. A. Smith, state geologist, and L. R. Shoemann, head of the land economic survey of the department of conservation; and, acting in an advisory capacity, are George E. Bishop, secretary of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau; Hugh J. Gray, secretary of the Michigan Tourist and Resort Association, and T. F. Marston, secretary of the East Michigan Tourist and Resort Association. A complete system of routine by which names of lakes and streams can be changed has now been formulated and announced by the board.

The state of Michigan has many lakes and streams which are duplicated in names, according to the committee. There are innumerable "Grass," "Mud" and "Crooked" lakes and several "Trout," "Silver" and "Crooked" creeks. This has often caused confusion in the past. To avoid this duplication the committee has formulated a system by means of which changes in names are to be made.

A desire to change the name of a lake or stream must initiate with the people of the county in which the body of water is situated. By petition or request, the board of supervisors may be asked by the people to take some formal action toward changing a name. This presented to the supervisors must state the names of the lake or stream whose name it is desired to change; the reasons for desiring the change; and the preferred name.

If the board of supervisors agrees and adopts a formal resolution asking that the name of the lake or stream be changed, a copy of the resolution may be sent to the state committee. The committee will consider the petition. It will determine whether a change in name is necessary and desirable. If the state committee considers the petition favorable, the petition together with the committee's recommendation, will be sent to the National Board on Geographical Names. This board in turn will consider the petition. Its decision is final. If the national board approves the change, then the name of the lake or stream will be formally changed and the new name will be listed on all official maps and documents.

Manistee Waltonians Plan New 1,280-Acre Sanctuary for Game

Another game sanctuary is virtually assured for Manistee county to supplement that recently acquired in Cleon township by the local chapter of the Izaak Walton league, according to E. C. Burton head of the local chapter.

Negotiations are now afoot to obtain a 1,280-acre tract in Stronach township between the 4 and 6-mile dams on the Little Manistee.

There is an abundance of beavers in the region, Burton declared and dams built by these animals already have flooded nearly 20 acres of land in the vicinity. There are also numerous grouse, deer, and other wild life. It is expected that the transaction will be concluded within a few days. Like the 600-acre tract in Cleon, the area will be posted and fenced in to keep out intruders.

Manistee Fathers Lease Old Airport For Oil Well Tests

The Manistee city commission has agreed to lease the old municipal airport sight just south of the city to the oil firm of Tackett and Drake, under condition that a well be sunk in Fler township, where the port is located, within a period of six weeks. The lease covers a period of 18 months, and the second well, providing the first proves productive, will be drilled on the city property, it is provided.

To protect city property from destruction or promiscuous drilling, the commission appointed a committee composed of Commissioners John H. Voights, Anton Carlson, Robert Miller and City Attorney Howard L. Campbell to draw up an ordinance restricting the sinking of the wells within city limits.

New Firm in Greenville To Employ to 100 Men

The Consolidated Soda Fountain corporation has completed its reorganization and has opened head quarters here. Beside utilizing the building formerly occupied by the Taplin Furnace Co., a new unit has been built at a cost of $12,000. Five acres of land are available for expansion.

Harold A. Hawn, president of the corporation, states machinery will be installed by Jan. 1, when from 75 to 100 men will be given employment.

Officers of the corporation are: President, Harold A. Hawn; secretary and treasurer, E. J. Thome, and vice president, William M. Hoekstra. Hoekstra is secretary and treasurer of the Hoekstra Ice Cream Co., Grand Rapids. Directors are C. Sophus Johnson and F. C. Mathews of Grand Rapids and Francis E. Tower of Greenville.

Seek Fund to Restore Ionia Furniture Plant

Upon the success of a committee of 14 Ionia business men to obtain pledges of $200,000, hinges Ionia's prospects of restoring the defunct Stafford Manufacturing Co. The company, 20 years in successful operation as makers of school and church furniture, became involved two years ago, went into the hands of receivers and since has been sold to brokers.

The committee composes: Chairman, Thane Benedict; Harry Udell, Irwin Martin, Alex Robertson, George E. Coe, N. J. Ogilvie, Fred D. Keister, Hiram H. Darling, K. R. Smith, Allen B. Locke, Henry F. Voelker, Earl Wright, Fred T. Wortman and Clare L. Fuller.

HOLLAND PORT DUE FOR IMPROVEMENT

The bureau of lighthouses at Washington will take steps to improve the safety of Holland harbor, according to advices received by the Chamber of Commerce from Congressman Carl E. Mapes.

Tentative plans provide for the installation of a lighthouse at the outer end of the north breakwater and electrification of the station. A radio beacon will be given consideration.

Holland's commerce body through Secretary Charles A. Gross some time ago requested the national authorities to give Holland harbor the much-desired protection so that vessels could make this port with perfect safety under adverse weather conditions.

The recent completion of the new concrete north pier has given the local harbor a much-needed improvement.

'Coon Abundant Along Muskegon

After a period of closed seasons on raccoon this valuable little fur bearer seems to have made a good comeback in this section of Michigan. A day spent along the Muskegon river in Clare county, where the river angles for miles through jackpine and scrub oak country, is convincing.

Almost every log, stump or stone lying along the edge of the river or protruding above the water in the shallows, bears a record of raccoon or mink.

The skeletons of luckless crawfish, clams and water bugs abound in these places, showing where the woods prowlers made many a nocturnal meal.

Occasionally, in a muddy spot along the river, the tracks of mink or raccoon may be seen. This wild and little frequented district makes excellent cover for animals that like to be near the water.

DR. CALDWELL'S THREE RULES

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not habit forming.

The Doctor never did approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Get a bottle today, at any drugstore and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. For a free trial bottle, just write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

Real Dyes are easier to use

DIAMOND DYES are used by practically the same method as any other dye. They go on easier, though—more smoothly and evenly; without spotting or streaking. That's because they are made from real anilines, without a trace of fillers to injure fabrics or give things that dyed look.

Diamond Dyes contain the highest quality anilines that money can buy. That's why they give such clear, bright, new-looking colors, which keep their depth and brilliance so remarkably through wear and washings.

Next time you have dyeing to do, try Diamond Dyes—at our risk. See that they are easier to use. Then compare results. You will surely

All Humanity Put on Level by Seasickness

It is refreshing to discover that, after all, the great and alleged great are not unlike ourselves. One of the best places in the world to find this out is on board an ocean-going liner. We once saw a famous surgeon, whose skill in the attack of disease brought relief to thousands, fold up like a sack, in a heavy sea. The roll and pitch of the ship was more than his science could fathom.

On another trip was a celebrated woman athlete. Her name is familiar in midocean. The young lady was sitting in the ship's foyer by the side of a woman companion. The great liner was rolling as it plowed its way through the resisting sea. Slowly the lady began to show signs of seasickness. She turned pale and her chin sank low on her bosom. Then the craft suddenly pitched forward and the young woman nearly fell from her chair. Several times she vainly attempted to reach the bracing air of the promenade deck. It was a few feet away, but inches spelled miles to her. Another lurch and the athlete was propelled to the staircase that led to the corridor in which her cabin was situated.

A few weeks later her name was on page one of the newspapers. Her prowess at her particular game was flashed around the world. It is comforting to know that the celebrated are not superhuman. — Washington Star.

Years of Experiments to Perfect Photograph

In the development of photography the first important step was the observation that certain salts were sensitive to light. In 1777 Carl Scheele, a Swedish chemist, discovered that silver chloride was blackened quickest by the violet rays of the solar spectrum and that light rays are not all alike chemically active. About 1801 Johann Ritter, of Jena, demonstrated the existence of nonvisible chemical rays beyond the violet rays of the spectrum. The first men to produce pictures on a sensitized surface were Thomas Wedgwood and Humphrey Davy. This they accomplished in 1802, but the pictures were not permanent. It was left to Joseph Niepce, of Chalons-sur-Saone, France, to produce permanent ones. His process was called heliography. He was joined in his experiments by Louis Daguerre in 1829, and in January, 1839 they announced their discovery, the daguerreotype.

Poetry of Nature

"But turn out of the way a little—toward yon honeysuckle hedge; there we'll sit and sing, whilst this shower falls so gently upon the teeming earth.

and gives yet a sweeter smell to the lovely flowers that adorn these verdant meadows.

"Look! Under that beech tree I sat down, when I was last this way a-fishing. And the birds in the adjoining grove seemed to live in a hollow tree, near to the brow of that primrose hill. There I sat viewing the silver streams glide gently toward their center, the tempestuous sea; yet sometimes opposed by rugged roots and pebblestones, which broke their waves and turned them into foam."—Izaak Walton.

The Silver Lining

"Well," began the multi-millionaire, "there you have the facts of the case and I'll leave you to it."

The lawyer nodded and arranged the papers which the wealthy man had thrown down on his desk in more orderly array. He knew that it was not going to be an easy task to straighten out the affairs of the rich man's son, but still, money was money.

"Now, you'll look after my boy, won't you," went on the great man. "He has had a rotten time all told. He's lost a great deal of money, and his wife, too!"

"Lost his wife, has he?" echoed the lawyer, who knew the lady in question. "Well, I reckon he's about even then."

Umbrella Held Danger

The earliest English writer to mention umbrellas regarded them with suspicion. In the Seventeenth century a British traveler, having returned from Italy, wrote:

"In hot regions, to avoid the beams of the sunne in some places (as in Italy) they carry umbrels, or things like a little canopy, over their heads; but a learned physician told me that the use of them was dangerous, because they gather the heat into a pyramidal point, and thence cast it down perpendicularly upon the head, except they know how to carry them."—Detroit News.

Tides of Great Lakes

The waters of lakes and inland seas are influenced by the attraction of the sun and moon in the same manner as the waters of the ocean. There are tides in the Great Lakes but owing to the comparatively small extent of water they are scarcely noticeable, except by refined measurements. Observations made by the United States survey have shown that Lake Michigan has a tide with an amplitude of one and one-half inches for the neap tide and three inches for the spring tide.

STUDENTS WILL HONOR U. OF M. PROFESSOR

Dr. Frederick G. Novy, professor of bacteriology in the University of Michigan medical school, and a member of the faculty here for 41 years, will be honored on his birthday, December 9 by the public presentation of his portrait to the university. The portrait, painted by John Weiss, of Cincinnati, is the gift of Dr. Novy's former students. Dr. Novy is recognized as one of the leading men in his field and won considerable recognition during the war. The portrait will be accepted for the university by President Alexander G. Ruthven and will be hung in alumni memorial hall.

First Lake Odessa Honor Roll Shows Exceptional Pupils

The first honor roll of the season was announced by officials of the Lake Odessa schools and contains the names of pupils who have received no mark below "B" in their work. A distinction roll also has been formed, containing the names of those who have received all "A's." The honor roll, which is an innovation this year, will be issued every six months. The results of the first honor roll are as follows:

Grade 1—Neil Barnard, Beth Carpenter and Mary Lou Dunham. Grade 2—Roger Bartlett, Betty Carpenter and Marie Myers. Grade 5—Gertrude Tew. Grade 6—Marian Curtis, Thelma Everest and Tom Reed. Grade 7—Jennie Decker, Betty Johnson and Neal Sullivan. Grade 8—Lawrence Smith. Grade 9—Forrest Darling, Robert Hoffman and John McDowell. Grade 10—Marian Goodemoot, Ruby Goodemoot, Ruth Klinton and Chalmer Torrey. Grade 11—Mabel Champlin, Elwood Klingman and Cary Peabody. Grade 12—Bernice Shumway. Post graduate—Laura Carter.

Distinction roll: Grade 12—David Smith. Grade 10—Charles Hoffman.

Schools to Probe Secret Societies

School authorities were aroused recently over the reports the state laws banning high school fraternities are being ignored in Grand Rapids and various societies have been active recently in the initiation of members.

Included in the initiation rites, it was said, was forcing a girl to "bum" a match from men in downtown hotel lobbies; requiring another to inquire of a hotel clerk how to win a husband and forcing still another girl to do a street singing act in front of a downtown theater.

Alumni and parents were criticized for existence of the societies by Claude F. Switzer, principal of Central high. At Ottawa Hills high school, where there are a number of student organizations, school sponsored and supervised, Henry McNaughton, principal, posted two notices recently warning against secret societies.

Marriage As An Institution

Something like 10,000 officials have the responsibility of issuing marriage licenses, and 130,000 clergymen are qualified to "tie the knots," and those who do not engage ministers have the choice of 30,000 different officials—from justices of the peace up.

Investigators for the Russell Sage Foundation say that there is a general and dangerous tendency to regard marriage licenses as "bought" rather than "issued." The marriage license is commercialized by the fact that in many states the remuneration of the license clerk depends wholly or partly upon the number of licenses he issues. Under these circumstances, the Foundation believes, there is a general tendency not to challenge applicants' statements about themselves and to permit many evasions of marriage laws.

Poems That Live

THE LAST WORD

Creep into thy narrow bed,
Creep, and let no more be said!
Vain thy onset! all stands fast.
Thou, thyself, must break at last.

Let the long contention cease!
Geese are swans, and swans are geese,
Let them have it how they will!
Thou are tired; best be still.

They out-talked thee, hissed thee, tore thee?
Better men fared thus before thee;
Fired their ringing shot and passed,
Hotly charged—and sank at last.

Charge once more, then, and be dumb!
Let the victors, when they come,
When the forts of folly fall,
Find they body by the wall!

—Matthew Arnold (1822-1888)

Recognize Type Then Pick Colors

By Lucy Claire

Every woman is one of the following types, olive brunette, medium brunette, fair brunette; fair, fair hazel, medium or olive blonde; Titian, white or gray haired. Recognizing her type she should choose the colors she wears accordingly. Generally speaking the olive brunette will look her best in dark reds and greens, while the medium brunette delights in black with contrasting trimmings, browns, yellow reds and yellow greens. Between the fair brunettes and the medium blondes there is so little difference in coloring they can wear the same tones. They will look their best in clear browns, reds and greens.

Fair blondes, also the white haired type, should choose the clear or slightly grayed colors, the fair hazel type, she with the fair hair and hazel eyes, is able to wear well all the clear colors of the season. The olive blondes should adopt browns, blues and greens. The woman with the Titian hair will do well to choose clear browns, greens and lighter blues. The woman with white or graying hair should always be wary of brown. I have seen a few women of the brunette type with brown eyes and gray hair, who could wear brown, but they have been the exception.

Brown Season's Color

Taking brown first because it is the most favored color of the season, the fair or medium brunette, or the medium or olive blonde would look well in the frock of dark brown satin sketched at the left. It would naturally take a slim figure to wear this model with its shirred hip section secured by bands. The skirt is circular and dips slightly in the back. The large collar is trimmed with alencon lace, which is being much used on dresses this season. Brown kid one-strap shoes and a brown felt and velvet hat complete the costume.

Choosing green next because it is a color constantly growing in popularity, and can be worn well by at least six of the types, the center sketch illustrates one of the new models for afternoon wear in canton crepe. This has the fitted bodice lines, the shirring at the front of the tunic which rises in the front and drops in the back, and is finished with a deep flounce. Either green or black kid shoes and a green or black hat should be worn with this frock. The medium brunette should choose a yellow green. Fair blondes will prefer one of the slightly grayed greens, the Titian and other types, the clearer greens. The olive brunette looks best in the darker shades.

Some shade of red can be worn by any of the types, except the Titian. This brings us to the staples, blue and black, which, generally speaking, accommodate themselves to every woman. The frock at the right is one that would be becoming to the matron with white hair and slim figure. This is in one of the brighter, clear shades of navy cloth, relieved at the neckline with bands of red ending in loops below the closing. Dark blue kid shoes and a matching felt hat are worn with this costume.

TREE PLANTING BY SCHOOL SUCCESSFUL

The small reforestation project begun by the Williamsburg school six years ago, when 50 white pines were planted, is worth the attention of other schools. The trees have made a fine growth. Some grew 16 inches this year.

"If every district in the county would use some of the waste land for a forest project," Commissioner Lee Hornsby points out, "in 25 or 50 years the income from the forest would go a long way toward supporting the school."

Zeeland's Literary Club Set for Year

The first meeting of the Woman's Literary club was held at Zeeland with an attendance of the entire membership. The club work for the year was outlined after installation of officers. The programs for this year are on various topics with history, book reviews and poetry predominating.

Officers of the club are: President, Mrs. W. Claver; vice presidents, Mrs. M. Rogers and Mrs. P. T. Moredyke; recording secretary, Mrs. C. A. DeJonge; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. Borst; treasurer, Miss Helen Welling.

Holland Delays Its Immunization

The Holland board of health has decided to discontinue its immunization campaign against scarlet fever until investigations have been made as to its worth. In his report to the state board of health Health Officer W. Westrate asked Dr. Guy L. Kiefer about the advisability of continuing the work in view of the fact several cases of the disease developed among children who had taken the Dick test and were considered immune.

In his reply Dr. Kiefer recommended the use of the serum, with the explanation that the cases in question were so mild that it was not definitely determined whether they were of the scarlet fever type.

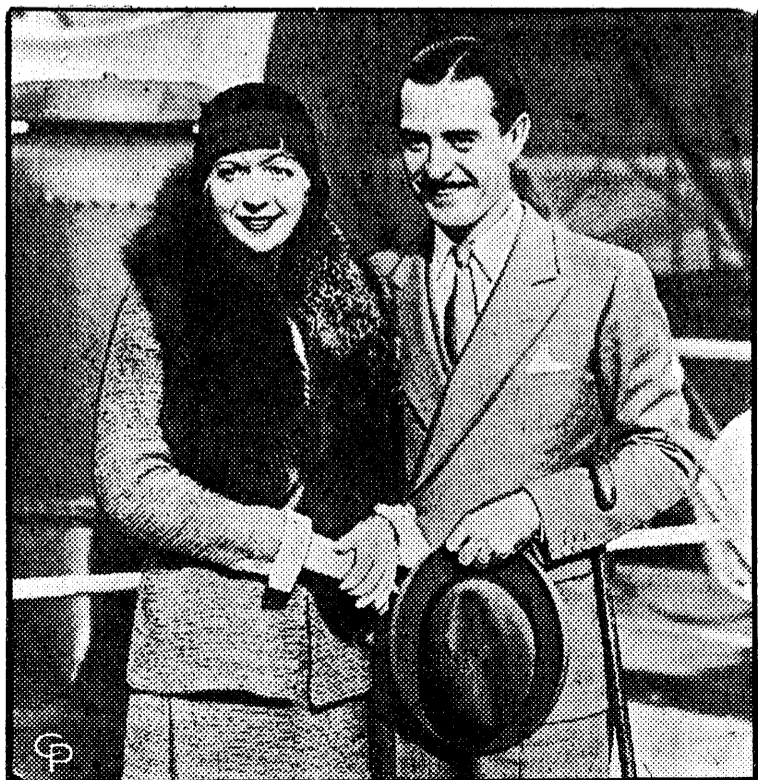

The board, however, authorized Dr. Westrate to continue the campaigns against smallpox and diphtheria, which have thus far been attended with excellent results.

Has Trained Nurse For All in Sturgis, Free If Necessary

Sturgis Memorial hospital has made the services of a trained nurse available for any person in the city.

No tax will be levied to pay for the service and no charges will be made when a patient is too poor to pay. A nominal charge has been set for those who can afford it. Those who cannot afford to pay that amount will contribute what they can. If they are destitute the service will be rendered without charge.

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

More than half the world can never know the mental anguish and emotional hardship of the expectant mother. Besides the many physical discomforts she endures, and depressions and anxieties she is inclined to have, she must also be subjected to untold annoyances which conventions and taboos of social customs thrust upon her.

Although the rank and file of adults are growing saner every day toward the expectant mother, the growth is very slow. She still feels it necessary to stay at home, particularly in the latter stages of her pregnancy.

The average husband still expects his obviously pregnant wife not to go about as usual. He still feels embarrassed to be with her in public, to go with her to church, or theater, or market. Why should he? Well, his father did, and his father's father, too. The very fact that she gets less recreation, sees fewer people, subjects herself to more monotony, makes her think more about herself and causes her to be more sensitive to unusual annoyances. Added to it all is her awareness that, despite her hardships and self-sacrifices, the social world turns from her, slights her, and forgets her.

If there is anyone in all the world who is most in need of affection by those she loves, of consideration by everyone with whom she comes in contact, of recreation, freedom and companionship, it is the expectant mother.

When shall we live down, and rise above the cruel, stupid custom of our fathers, of hanging millstones upon the necks of women who are going to be mothers? When shall we husbands cease so to curse our wives for blessing us by bearing children? When shall we men acquire a chivalry to make us proud to go walking, to attend the theater, to go anywhere with our wives when they are noticeably pregnant?

There are some men who measure up to such a standard. In my classes of parents I have had a number of parent-couples of whom the mother was expectant. In several instances the child was born before the school term ended, the father announcing proudly to the class, much to the joy of all: "It is a girl," or "A boy of nine pounds."

As one mother said one day in class: "We ought to rear our boys to be good fathers as well as good men." The father who is considerate and very tender toward the mother of his boy when another baby is expected, will have a son who will be pretty sure to imitate him.

Mother, if you are expecting a new child, announce it to your older children, explaining where the baby is. Tell that boy of ten or fifteen, if you know his comrade's mother soon expects a baby. Tell him that he has the opportunity to be a little less boisterous and noisy in her presence since, because of her condition, she is likely to grow weary and, at times, to be very sensitive to noise and commotion. Then observe how considerate he becomes, and how he warms up to you for treating him as if he were grown up.

We have an opportunity to teach our boys in early childhood and adolescence to feel a reverent emotion in the presence of an obviously expectant mother. Boys who gain an early correct attitude toward motherhood are surely going to be very courteous and considerate of their wives just before the baby comes.

The World and All

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

SAMARKAND

There are certain spots on the earth to which everyone, it seems to me, should be drawn by desire for romantic atmosphere. Constantinople, the Straits of Babel-Mandeb, Tierra del Fuego, Venice, and, surely, Samarkand. Poets have always liked to make verses with Samarkand in them.

For instance, a Kansas poet, Patricia Lowdermilk, who should be better known, wrote a poem with this in it:

I have sailed on many seas,
Traveled many a land—
Seen Trebizond and London,
Rome and Samarkand.
But my tired little neighbor
Has dreams no money buys.
She sees the world—and heaven,
In her baby's shining eyes.

Samarkand is about the size of Tulsa, Okla. It is quite important to a great many people, for it is the capital of the Republic of Uzbek, one of the soviet republics of the Russian union. The town is not new. It was much older than St. Augustine, Fla., now is, in 329 B. C., when it was captured by Alexander the Great. In 1221 A. D. it was besieged by Jenghiz Kahn. It was a city as big as Buffalo now is, in 1369, when Tamerlane made it his home.

All in all, Samarkand is the kind of town it would be a good deal of fun to visit and write poetry in.

A book started me on this train of thought. It is "Red Star in Samarkand," by Anna Louise Strong, just published by Coward-McCann.

Miss Strong sees the romance and the goldenglow of the ancient city. She also sees the modern boom town that is growing up in the midst of the relics of other ages. She tells of the farmhand who has become president of this little republic, and lives in a six-room White House.

The author stayed in the White House on one of her visits, sleeping with the mother of the president's secretary, on a divan in the living room.

She visited the ancient monuments and historical ruins in company with a professor of archaeology, and learned that the Greeks left no impression upon this ancient land. Only a few Greek coins and figurines that have been dug out of the soil remind the inhabitants of the conquerors who thought to shape the destinies of humankind for all time.

Some day, one muses, one must go a journey, and not return until one has visited Samarkand.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

SCORNED WIFE ADVISED TO REMAIN TRUE TO VOWS DESPITE ALL TEMPTATION

Oh, dear, what CAN we do with these people who marry and then expect their mates to live without any expressions of affection whatever? Imagine a pretty young woman, just 21, married to a man ten years older, who thinks she is silly if she dances by herself, or who, when she wants to kiss him, says, "Go to the movies or find some work to do," presumably so that she won't worry him with her nonsense.

Well, there are usually other men who appreciate a young wife's beauty and charm, and the young wife gets tired of coldness and indifference, and in very many instances, she just goes off with the other man.

You can't blame her much. Most men make a tremendous fuss over a girl during the courting days, and while most women don't expect that exceeding ardor to continue, they do expect to remain desirable in the eyes of their husbands. And they have a right to expect him to act as if they were.

And that goes both ways, too. Husbands have a right to expect their wives to show appreciation and affection, likewise.

Just 21: I do sympathize with you, my dear. It is very hard to be naturally demonstrative and light hearted and to have a man who thinks such goings on are silly. But always there is something in marriage that doesn't suit.

You just can't make up your mind that your particular disappointment is unbearable and be untrue to your husband because of it. He probably has many excellent qualities that make up for it. Hasn't he, now? Give him credit.

I do think that fault is very hard on a woman and that she is tempted to think she could stand almost anything else rather than such coldness. But you have your babies to love and to love you.

The man's wife must have some consideration, too, dear. Don't encourage him to be untrue to her. I know it is hard not to think about him, but no lasting happiness could come of allowing yourselves to meet alone.

If your husband heard of it he could not only divorce you for unfaithfulness, but take your babies away on the ground that you are an unfit person to have the care of them. Make up your mind that everyone has a cross to bear, and this attitude of your husband's is yours.

Lonesome Racy: I think, Racy, if you're in school you had better stay there and finish instead of thinking of going to work. It might be a good experience to go away from home for awhile, as it would make you appreciate your home more, and you'd be glad to get back.

I do think your mother is making a mistake in not welcoming this boy to your home as he seems such a decent chap, but two nights a week—in the middle of the week—is too much for a girl of 16 to be out late when she is in school.

Alice—"Oh, ma, I do love Mendelssohn!"

Mrs. Wonspore—"All right, my dear, invite the young man to our next party."

Style Whimsies

Frocks for the informal Sunday night supper at home are frequently made of sheer metal materials, the metal chiffons being much favored, sometimes allied with plain chiffon. These dresses usually have long sleeves.

WEEK OF NOVEMBER 3

The first three days of the week beginning November 3 promise to be generally fair with the daytime temperatures slightly above the mean seasonal normal.

As the middle of the week approaches temperatures will moderate somewhat due to the oncoming of a storm center that will leave rain or snow in its wake.

Storminess will be centered over Michigan during Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. During the latter part of this period temperatures will fall rapidly and to very low readings.

Thunder Storms to Order

Our prediction of fall thunder storms for early part of week of October 6 was promptly verified in the northern part of Michigan.

Predicting weather that is common for the season is comparatively easy, but foreseeing the out-of-the-ordinary weather is another question.

ous and pale my boy?" Pilot—"We have lost both wings."

Old Lady—"Well, don't worry; we'll get new ones when we land."

First Hunter: "We're lost." Second Hunter: "Great guns! Let's shoot an extra deer so the game warden will find us!"

More and More Colds Treated Externally

Demand for Vicks VapoRub Pioneer of "No Dosing" Method, Grows At Amazing Rate

A generation ago, when Vicks VapoRub was originated, the idea of treating colds without "dosing" was almost unheard of.

Mothers especially appreciate Vicks, because it checks colds without risk of upsetting children's delicate stomachs.

Year after year the demand for Vicks has grown until it is now the family standby for colds—adults as well as children's—in more than 60 countries.

A short time ago the famous Vicks slogan "17 Million Jars Used Yearly," was raised to "21 Million" to keep step with the ever-increasing demand.

CHATTY, GODDESS OF GAB.

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDERS," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," etc.

COPYRIGHT 1929, CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. INC., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

True busy-body that she was, she had hidden herself behind the crisp white curtains in the "Front Room" an hour before, to watch for them.

"They have a canary," she went on excitedly. "Billie's holding the cage in her lap, and the sister has a great big dotted palm in her arms."

"I don't suppose he can be in two places at once," Mrs. Chatterton broke in gently.

Chatty scarcely heard her. She was lost in the scene below. The driver was lifting Billie's furniture out of the truck now, and Chatty wanted to see it all.

"What lovely stuff!" she sighed. "The darlinest red lacquer table and chest—and the sweetest little dressing table, all white enamel! Jimmy, but they have pretty things, mother!"

Her mother shook her head, with its top-knot of blonde hair that was still bright and wavy, and looked younger than her tired, pale face did, somehow or other.

"I don't do any peeping from behind curtains," she said firmly. "I never have spied on my neighbors, and I'm not going to start it now—and you shouldn't, either, Chatty. It's almost like peeping into their windows."

Chatty turned and gave her a quick, wondering look. "Mother, you're just not human!" she cried.

Her mother did not answer, and Chatty turned back to the window. "Well, they must make wonderful salaries to have furniture like that—that's all I have to say!" she declared, her eyes fastened on the truck once more.

"You don't know what kind of work the sister does, do you?" Mrs. Chatterton interrupted once more.

Billie's sister, Sara, was about thirty. She was taller than Billie. But she had the same lovely dark eyes and hair, and she was beautifully dressed in tan and brown silk.

"Of course, we need help. We need lots of it," she said, when Chatty, covered by a bungalow apron, knocked on the door of the flat and was introduced to her.

"We're going to change our clothes and plunge right in," Billie added, on her knees beside a suitcase that lay on the floor.

By half past six the little place was in order. Even the pale yellow silk curtains were at the windows and the clean towels hung in straight rows in the white-tiled bathroom.

Chatty, washing and wiping her hands, saw that the initials embroidered upon the ends of every one of them were not Billie's initials. They were Sara's, either.

She laid one down before her on the chest of drawers and studied the embroidered letters. It was hard to make them out, but she finally did: "W. L. B."

"Now, then, who's 'W. L. B.?' she wondered. But she did not waste much time in idle wondering.

She walked out into the dining room, with its shining mahogany furniture, its lace-edged tablecloth, its glittering coffee service and corner cupboard of Doulton china.

Sara was setting the table. "We thought we'd have a pick-up supper just to celebrate," she said cheerfully.

forks of sterling silver. And upon the red carnation in his buttonhole. handle of each one of them was engraved an old English "B."

"What's 'B' for—for 'Billie?'" she asked bluntly. "Well, what do you think of that?" Winnie wanted to know, her eyes as Sara looked up and shook her head big as saucers.

"Why, no, Billie's married name was Brewster," she said. "Didn't you never looked at any of us girls, and know that?"

"No, I haven't known Billie very long—only since last Monday." "O-oh, I see—" And Sara, looking any more charming or 'it' than an adding machine, has she?"

Chatty followed her. She was dying to listen almost as much as she loved to ask her more questions. She wanted to know how long Billie had been married, and why she wasn't married now?

"I think she's absolutely blah," she married, and why she wasn't married now? "And was she divorced, or 'And she's always been so nicey-had her husband died? And why didn't you?" Winnie told her, drawing

"If she wants to do it I suppose it's her own business," Winnie answered.

she use the name "Brewster?" But something about the set of Sara's chin and the firm way she kept her lips pressed tightly together while she turned the slices of frying ham, kept Chatty silent.

After a moment or two she left the kitchen and went into the pretty living room where Billie and George Mayhew were sorting books and putting them into a hand-carved bookcase.

"I wonder if he knows that Billie's been married," she said to herself. "If he doesn't, he certainly ought to."

But she made up her mind that she was not going to tell him if he did not know it. No, indeed, she was never going to talk about Billie. Billie had been sweet to her, and besides, she wanted Billie for a friend.

For hadn't Billie promised her that the two of them would sometimes have little Sunday night suppers here in the flat, and invite "some of the boys from the office" to them?

On Monday noon something happened that took Billie Langenau and her mysterious marriage completely out of Chatty's head—for the time being, at any rate.

She was in the girls' cloak room to get ready to get out for lunch when Agnes Herford came in.

She looked brighter and younger than usual. There was a little color in her cheeks and she had pinned a white muslin collar around the neck of the plain serge dress that was her regular working dress.

She seemed to be in a great hurry and Chatty saw her smile to herself in the long mirror above the wash bowls as she put on her hat and pulled on her shabby brown kid gloves.

Agnes was the kind of girl who never would think of wearing a string of indestructible pearls or a drop of perfume, but who never went out upon the street without gloves.

"Good-bye," she said to Chatty. "I'd ask you to have lunch with me—only I'm having it with—a man."

Side by side, heads close together, they peered out into the main office. Agnes was standing by the door that led out into the corridor of the building, buttoning her gloves. She was still smiling to herself.

a Cupid's bow of lipstick upon her mouth. "She's the very last person I'd ever think would run around with a married man. Oh, well, if she wants to do it I suppose it's her own business."

Chatty raised her eyebrows. "I suppose Mrs. Van Nuys might think it was her business, too," she answered, dreamily.

Winnie shook her wild-looking mop of curly hair. "She never comes down here to see anything," she said. "And nobody'd ever be rotten enough to tell her."

The street car was crowded. "Look, mother!" squealed little Benny, as a passenger took a seat opposite. "There's the man who comes every week for the furniture money."

PUT ON YOUR LIME THIS FALL

It is too late to sow alfalfa and many have failed to get their seed in the ground. Sow your lime NOW and work it in and let the winter rain and snow mix it with the soil. Then you are ready to plant the alfalfa seed in June. TWO CARS JUST RECEIVED.

The late Jason Woodman of Paw Paw, than whom there was no better alfalfa grower, recommended that all alfalfa be planted in June as he said that if the ground was ready and clean, there was always at least one rain in June when planting could be done.

Why not try it?
