BLOCK ISLAND

There are few Americans who have not run across the name Block Island during their lives, perhaps without knowing it. Lying midway between Point Judith, R. I., and Montauk Point, N. Y., Block Island seems to have been named for Captain John Block, who was one of the earliest to make some future date.

The title "light little isle" is rich in associations with the past, Inhabited by a branch of Narragansett Indians who called it Massaukeek, "the House of the Sea," was named by Devenant, who gave it the name of Claudiu, and the Cabots are known to have visited it. In 1637, Adrain Block, a shipsman, exploring Long Island Sound, visited it, and from that time on it has been known as Block Island. In 1672 the settlers of the island voted that "... the said block Island shall be made a part of the County of New York and ranked amongst the Islands, and shall have the benefit of its new name, and no man shall set foot thereon without the consent of the local government, and ... that all the laws of the County of Suffolk shall be held and executed thereon ..."

This island is also an air of romance and adventure about the island, for it is popularly believed to be a hiding place for treasurers of old Spanish galleons. It is said that the pirate Bill Dodge has often dug up over entering treasure hunters, and rumor has it that some have come from these.

The Road to Peace

by FRANCIS K. CLEVE

Let's be loyal, let's be kind, Let's cut out falsehood and wrong. Let's hold our tongues when we should, And let our ears be empty.

Let's seek Life's truths as we can, Let's seek the things we need. Let's catch the spirit of life's play, And let's seek for beauty.

Let's stop that blind to our eyes, And let's seek out the best. Let's show those who are weaker, That they can be loved and trusted.

And yet from honors we shrink not, Let's live as we would have us. We learn to love of friends worthwhile, Let's make others a joy.

And this world is all we have, And this world is all we have.
