Old Weather Omens

At Biddeford pool, a place of rare historic interest on the western Maine coast, recently discovered records show that there were weather prophets there as early as 1616. It was in that year that the first white settlers passed the winter at the pool, naming it Winter Harbor, a name which remains on some maps and charts to the present day. In the fall the Indians told the settlers that there would be a long, dreary winter for these reasons: The corn husks were thick and close about the ear; the beech and walnut burrs were thicker than usual; the foxes were wearing thicker fur and the wild geese were flying southward ahead of time. These predictions proved correct, and ever since men have given them more or less credence.

Teaching Birds to Talk

The bureau of biological survey says no hard-and-fast rule can be laid down for teaching a bird to talk. This is entirely a matter of patience and perseverance in dealing with the bird. At first the bird should be kept in a room by itself and the cage covered on three sides. Do not talk to the bird except in repeating simple phrases over and over again. Only one phrase should be used in a single day in the early training. Gradually work up until several phrases are repeated over and over to the bird each day. Put a cover over the cage when the parrot begins to squawk. This is said to break it of this bad habit.

Holiday Spirit

During frosty weather a baby car got into a dreadful skid, shot across the road, and turned a complete somersault, imprisoning its two passengers. A woman who had witnessed the affair ran to the spot and called out agitatedly: "Is anyone hurt?"

"Oh, no," came a voice from the interior. "This is nothing to us. We are airmen."

STATE KEEPS RECORD OF FIRE COSTS

How much it cost the state to extinguished a fire that burned over but one acre in a certain township in a particular county; how that fire started, and a score of other details may be found in a big gray book in the office of the forest fire division of the department of conservation at Lansing.

The big book lists year by year every detail about every known forest fire occurring in the state, and it is from this volume that all of the statistics about fires are obtained. These statistics have proved highly valuable in that they indicate varying causes of fires, percentages of various causes and other information htat assist in determining the subjects for fire prevention activities.

Fire wardens must send to the Lansing office a form report of every fire occurring in their districts, no matter how small or insignificant that fire may appear to be. The report indicates the county, township, range and section in which the fire occurred; the date it occurred; its cause; the kind of growth burned over; the property destroyed and its value; the standing timber, forest products ,improvements and equipment burned; the time the fire was under control; how the fire was fought, how many men were used and the time they worked; and the total cost of suppression. On a farm township map on the report the fire warden must outline the area burned

These individual reports—and there have been more than 500 already this season-are compiled as soon as they reach the Lansing office. From them the chief fire warden can determine the extent of incendiarism and plan some means of preventing them . He can determine whether the percentage of "smoker" fires is increasing and may begin a campaign among smokers. He may determine that one area of the state is proving to have an unusual fire hazard and will increase the number of fire fighters in that section.

BANS LIFTED

University of Michigan students may drive cars as soon as their last final examinations are over, and will not be required to remain under the automobile ban restrictions until a majority of students have finished their scholastic work for the semester, Walter B. Rea, assistant to the dean of students, who is in charge of the ban, announced. The automobile ban for the summer will remain essentially in the same form as last year, with students being permitted to use their cars for recreation, and to drive to lakes, golf courses and country clubs, although social uses in the evenings will be barred. Only students with satisfactory grades will be allowed to have cars for recreational purposes.

Ford cars are now equipped with safety glass in all doors and windows at a small extra charge

$15 for the Coupe, De Luxe Coupe, Sport . $20 for the Tudor Sedan, Standard Sedan, Coupe or Convertible Cabriolet . $20 be Luxe Sedan, Town Sedan or Victoria

THE Triplex safety glass windshield has always been an outstanding feature of the Model A Ford. By reducing the dangers of flying glass, it has saved many lives and prevented countless injuries in automobile collisions.

Now comes a further assurance of safety to every Ford owner . . . polished plate safety glass in ALL DOORS AND WINDOWS at slight additional cost.

The charge for this extra protection is unusually low because of large production and the development of new methods of manufacture. Simply tell the dealer when you buy the Ford that you want. "safety plate glass in all doors and windows" and the car will be factory-equipped for you in that manner.

Today, as before, the safety glass windshield is furnished as standard equipment on all Ford cars without extra charge.

FORD OWNERS This announcement refers only to NEW CARS. Ford dealers are not in a position to install safety glass in the windows of your present Ford at the above prices.

ANNOUNCING--Reduction Electric

For Domestic Service

Now You Can Make Your Own Electric Rate

Under the new rate schedule the average price per kilowatt hour decreases as your use increases. As you put electricity to more uses, you are constantly reducing the average price per kilowatt hour.

Here Are the New Rates:

cents per Kilowatt hour for the first 5 Kilowatt hours per room, per cents per Kilowatt hour for the next 5 Kilowatt hours per room, per cents per Kilowatt hour for all over 10 Kilowatt hours per room,

This new optional rate schedule is designed to enable the small home to obtain the same benefits from increased use which were formerly available only to the larger users. The number of kilowatt hours billed at each step of the rate varies according to the size of the house, with the result that both the small and large user may obtain the benefit of the low $2\frac{1}{2}$ cent rate.

Any customer whose monthly bill is not lower under the new schedule, may continue to be billed under the present schedule by notifying the company within six months after receipt of his first bill

This reduction in price of electric service is made voluntarily by the company to encourage a greater use of its service. The new schedule saves $20,000.00 for residential customers and makes ADDITIONAL USE of electricity cheaper than ever before.

"LIT" COLLEGE CHANGES MAY

Students in the College of Literature, Science and the Arts of the University of Michigan will have their college careers divided into a preliminary period, when they will have to prove their ability to do good work and an advanced period in which they will pursue higher studies and become eligible for a degree, according to a plan adopted by the faculty of the col-

Three objectives are sought from the new arrangement, states Dr. John R. Effinger, dean of the college.

First, to restrict students from pursuing advanced work until they have shown sufficient competence in their preliminary courses.

Second, to provide for a certain degree of concentration of interest in the last two years so that the graduate can claim reasonable working knowledge in some special field.

Third, to establish closer contact between faculty and students through an advisory system which will allow a designated faculty member or committee to assist each student to arrange all his undergraduate work in an intelligent and co-ordinated fashion.

MASSAGE AND EXERCISE HER SCRAWNY WRISTS

"Dear Miss Glad: The dieting and exercising instructions contained in your booklet on "The New Figure" certainly are excelled. I've been following the gaining deight course, and have already gained 12 pounds, and what an improvement it has made in my figure! However, my wrists are very thin and bony. I'd like to rid them of that scrawny appearance. What would you advise me to do?

Cocoa butter, a product of the oi of the theobrom tree, is used for fattening purposes. Massage your wrists with warmed cocoa butter nightly before retiring. To my knowledge, there is no sort of a preparation that will remove a bleach from the hair. You will have to wait for your hair to grow out to its natural color. However, if you do not want the embarrassment of going about with two different shades of hair. I would suggest that you go to a reliable beauty shop and have your hair dyed back to its natural hue. If you have the work done by an expert, the bleached hair can be dyed to match the natural color at the roots exactly. A Song in Your Heart By Francis K. Glew

As we're trudging o'er the path of life, Let's be happy as we walk, Let's attract the sunshine to our lives, Let's have humor in our talk! Let's show character in all we do But let's not grow severe, Instead, let's clothe our thoughts and deeds With a happy atmosphere! Though the journey's long, the road oft' rough, Let's keep upon our feet, Let's keep a-singing in our hearts, Let's smile at those we meet! For the world pays homage to the man, And always helps along The one who meets life cheerfully,

State Air Tour Weather

The third annual state air tour begins this week and lasts over to the end of next week. Of all industries or activities that of aviation requires as much watching of the weather as agriculture. Wind direction and velocity, state of weather as to cloud and visibility are only a few of the items so necessary to know about before a trip by air can be made with reasonable safety.

This year the tour starts off in rather good weather, but perhaps a little cool and will end in fair weather. About the middle of the tour, however, there will be some wind, rain and electrical storms in the state that will need watching and may hinder the trip for some hours.

Dinner Stories

A Doggone Good Show

This was one of the favorite stories of the late Joseph Jefferson.

Back in the '80s of the last century a barnstorming theatrical company arrived in a small Kansas town and gave an alleged performance of Uncle Tom's Cabin. The manager of the company insisted, in return for a number of passes, that the editor of the local paper should give unstinted praise of the performance.

Accordingly, the next day the following brief mention appeared in the "dramatic column:"

"Last night at the opera house the the man in the dock. - Company played 'Uncle Tom's had poor support."

Now, two weeks after this, Supreme Court Judge Ahearn resigned. A lot of reporters were sent around, and they were met by a beautiful woman with sad eyes, his daughter, Mrs. Knox Drake.

The Judge's health wasn't good, she said, and he was going to take a rest. No. He couldn't see them.

One of them thought there might be a story in it, so he tried to get Mr. Knox Drake at the Salamander Insurance Company, but they said Knox had gone to Paris on business. No, they weren't sure when he'd be back. Six months, possibly longer.

He's never been back. Won the fashion they understood each other Gentlemen's Steeplechase at Auteuil not so long ago.

The season is fast approaching when a good girl, get me a taxi. I'll take Mere Man will launch his annual rebellion against the custom that consigns him to summer torture in hot, heavy and uncomfortable clothing.

He will point to Woman, lovely Woman, who braves the sultry summer sun in cool and comfortable raiment, and will denounce his sex as 'cowardly."

Then the perennial "pioneer" will appear on Fifth Avenue in pajamas or cotton shorts-and the argument will be over for another year.

THEATRE AND BUSINESS

There's a play in New York in which a doctor enters with his bag in his hand, supposedly coming from the Gardens, Buckley, Michigan. a doctor enters with his bag in his hand, supposedly coming from the street, and without a hat. Another character says to him: "Where's your hat?" And the doctor answers, in jocular fashion, that he does not wear

A hat manufacturer who witnessed the play has registered protest, sayover on Whitehall street. He followed ing he doesn't consider this a proper example to set a theatre audience.

In the first place, he declares it is exceedingly undignified for a middleaged doctor "of parts" to go without a hat; and in the second place, hatlessently, where the old man sat down ness has become a very serious matter and pulled out a cigar and looked to those connected with the headgear industry.

"We feel," said this manufacturer, "that everything possible should be done to encourage the wearing of more hats and thus help the return of normal business conditions. Hat manufacturers patronize the theatre and we think that theatre men should help, rather than hurt, the hat men."

SHORT STORY

evergreen tree last December was fined $10. He was out of work, had no money and could only get a Christmas tree for his children by going out and cutting one. If they would remit the fine, he said, when spring came round he'd plant a thousand trees.

His offer was accepted and prompt-Christmas tree.

Recently, however, the matter was -you remember Whitey Warren that revived when he addressed a letter to the authorities, recalling the case. "Send me the thousand trees," he said, 'and I'll plant them."

RARA AVIS

That's like the man who stopped Judge O'Brien in the street and asked for a dollar to get a shave and a shine. There was a job in the offing.

The Judge didn't recognize the man sincerity, gave him the money, disweek hence to repay the "loan" out of his first week's wages.

The Judge didnt' recognize the man when, true to his promise, he appeared a week later. His Honor, mightily hear tell of a fellah named James impressed, gave the story to a newspaper man whose paper that afternoon
