"Shooting Star"

"We're not yet ready to talk, Mr. Tupper, but this is as good a time as ever," he said, "and I've seen those ideas for a few days. What's the matter with us?"

The cinderella story of the meet is being told by the little-known and little-reputed little horse, "Shooting Star," whose assignments have included place in the recent meet at the New York race track.

"It's a great race today, a real gem and a great event," the horse declared. "We've been going around in circles, and I've done my share of the work."

But the little horse is not yet ready to talk. "It's great to have a chance at the big races, and I'll do my best to make the most of it," he said, "but I'm not ready to talk yet."

The story of the little horse is one of the most remarkable in recent times. A little horse that has never been in the big races before, "Shooting Star" has been making a name for himself in the last few years. He has won several races and has shown great promise in future races.

"Shooting Star" is a real gem, and the horse is sure to make a mark in future races. The little horse is not just a one-hit wonder, and he is sure to be a force to be reckoned with in future races. The horse is sure to be a great addition to the racing world, and "Shooting Star" is sure to be a great name in future races.
Plan to Map the Peninsula

After equipping his plane with pontoons for landing on water, Louis, Wilson, 37, of 425 S. 24th Ave., South Omaha, Friday flew his airplane from his home to the north edge of the city, landing at a point near the Missouri river. Wilson started out for the woods near the Missouri, but was forced to return to the pond when he encountered a strong head wind.

LARRY BANGS was a man of the simplest kind, who possessed a generous heart and a kinder tongue than the minds of all the seven stars and the considerations that any man could possibly have about the next world, life, death, love, hate, fame, fortune, or anything else, for that matter.

And thus he went his way, until the world was too old for him and the invisible almighty pipe chime. Larry responded in the same key.

"What beautiful music," the stranger cried. "I'd like to learn the name of it, if you please."

"It is called the 'Wind of the West,'" Larry replied.

"Oh, you have the heart of a poet," the stranger said. "I'd like to learn the words to the tune you just played."

"It is called the 'Wind of the West,'" Larry repeated.

"And the meaning of the words," the stranger pressed. "I'd like to know what the song means."

"It is called the 'Wind of the West,'" Larry said.

"Thank you," the stranger said. "I'll remember that."

"You're welcome," Larry replied.
