Another Fire

Last Thursday night a lightning strike destroyed the barn of George Connor this morning. The barn was a large one and with the contents made a blaze that was visible for miles and as the wind causing the fire it knew many, a large crowd soon gathered.

The department was soon on the scene to protect this property and had it not for the diligence of the fire fighters the fire would have reached that part of town. Fred Ford had the fire completely under control and we understand that he started to insure the barn but the barn was partly destroyed.

School Notes

School opened Monday with the largest high school enrollment in the history of the school and a good attendance in the height of the season.

This speaks well for the merit of the teachers and the spirit of cooperation between the teachers and students.

We are glad to know that in the subjects taught this school ranks with the best in the state and that the students give the average student greater opportunities in the advantages of the state third most and more chances to comp-

tion in this class.

We are proud of our school, a curriculum of studies and its teachers.

Gasoline Fills Church Coffers
Queen's Niece to Wed

Gasoline is the lifeblood of the American automobile, and it is pouring itself into the coffers of many churches. The sale of gasoline to motor vehicles has become a major source of revenue for churches, particularly in areas with high car ownership rates. The money raised from these sales is often used to fund various church programs and activities. The image shows a church with a sign advertising gasoline sales.

Another Record

Ohio has set another record for crop production, with the state ranking among the top producers in the nation. This achievement is attributed to favorable weather conditions and efficient agricultural practices. The record harvest not only benefits local farmers but also contributes to the state's economy by increasing food supplies and reducing prices for consumers.

How Constance Bought a Fire Insurance Daily Paper

By JANE OSBORN

It’s a good idea to have fire insurance! A few weeks ago, I was sitting in my living room, drinking tea and reading the newspaper. Suddenly, I heard a loud noise coming from outside. I ran to the window and saw a large fire truck rushing down the street. I knew I had to do something quickly, so I dialed the emergency number. Within minutes, the fire department arrived and put out the fire. I was so relieved that I decided to buy fire insurance right away.

Velvet Dominates the Fall-Winter Mode

By Bun Lobeth

Velvet, the fall-winter mode’s living legend, is no longer a trend of yesteryear. Gone are the days of velvet dresses confined to the lanes of Paris. Velvet is a versatile fabric that has been reinvented for modern times. This season, it’s making a grand comeback, bringing a touch of elegance and sophistication to your wardrobe.

Velvet is a popular fabric with a rich history that dates back to ancient Egypt. It has been used by royalty for centuries, symbolizing status and luxury. Today, velvet is making a comeback as a stylish and versatile fabric that can be worn in any season.

The great New Michigan State Bank, located on the corner of Broadway and Main Street, will be the site of a fall-winter fashion show this week. The show will feature the latest trends in velvet clothing, including dresses, skirts, and accessories.

The community center of Lakewood Village is located by the main street of the city of Michigan State College to be studied as an example of a few of its fundamental problems. The community center is the subject of one of the master’s thesis titles at the State Teachers College.

The purpose of the study is to determine the needs of the community. The study is a part of the master’s thesis work at the State Teachers College.

Mr. Churton with his family will be in Lakewood Village for the next two or three months, to study the needs of the community.

The purpose of the study is to determine the needs of the community.

LOVE, PREFERRED
THE ROMANCE OF A BUSINESS GIRL
BY EDNA ROBB WESTBROOK

WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 6, 1936

"You and I, my dear, are the only ones who really understand each other," Mrs. Brown said to her husband, as she came into the living room, her eyes full of tears.

"Oh, Edna, I know," Mr. Brown replied, "but I wish I could do something to change the situation.

"I wish I could," she answered, "but there's nothing we can do."

"But what about the move to New York?"

"That's just the problem," she said. "We've tried everything, but nothing seems to work."

"Well, we'll just have to keep trying," he said, "and eventually we'll find a solution.

"I hope so," she said, "but it's been a hard road so far."

"Don't worry," he said, "we'll get through this."

"Thank you," she said, "that means a lot to me."
