BEAVERS AT HOME ON BEAVER ISLAND

The three black beavers brought to Beaver Island by state conservation officials were recently set free on the island after having been raised to restart a colony of beavers on the island. The beavers, which had been captured to save their dams on a small stream near the town of Baileys Harbor, were released on the island. They are the first beavers to be released on the island since the present generation of beavers was introduced.

Farm Board Seals 12 Million Bushels Of Wheat to China

The farm board has sold 15,000,000 bushels of wheat to China in 16 sales, with the largest sale amounting to 96,000 bushels. The sales were made in order to help the suffering farmers in China who are facing a severe drought. The wheat was sold at a fair price to ensure that the farmers would make a profit.

POULTRY

LARGE EGG-LAYING HENS ARE

Chinese experimenters are trying to raise hens that lay eggs weighing 500 grams or more, with some laying eggs as heavy as 1,000 grams. The experimenters have succeeded in raising hens that lay eggs of various sizes, from small eggs weighing only a few grams to large eggs weighing several hundred grams. The eggs are sold at a high price due to their rarity and size.

Sportsmanship in Highest Degree

Self-preservation may be the first law of nature in some, but not to Tom Chamberlain, trackmaster of the railroad and owner of the farm. During the first trial event of the New England, N.J., automobile race, Chamberlain's car caught fire, the pithy pet roast on the wheel and the blazing jug containing 800 yards off the track in a blaze of orange. The hero Chamberlain was so badly burned that little hope is held for his recovery.

Mrs. Muriel Vanderbilt Churchill and her husband, Henry Endicott Paulson, a child of the woman's beauty, are stopping after their brilliant wedding at Fair Lawn, the Vanderbilts' estate at Lyndhurst, N.J. The bride is familiar with "only" once.

Champion Bullseye Special: Paul Chamberlain

Beside Horsley Hall, at Maryville, Illinois, the National Horse Show, can make bullseye, where he wants to go to. Here's how to order selling his calves by pressing, from a large field of competitors who came from all over the country.

Savannah offered during the past two years in the administration of Mabel Chamberlain by President R. H. Shaw will permit the college to come up with a plan of action which shall be presented to the entire student body for consideration.

President R. H. Shaw's rehabilitation program, approved by the State Board of Agriculture, includes the construction of a new dormitory, removing the present dormitories, construction of a law school, addition of a wing to the college gymnasium, enlarging the library and studios for the engineering laboratories, and adding two buildings new for dormitory homes and offices and recreation halls.

The number of women students enrolled in the college from the average of 10 a year to 50. The enrollment this year is 60. A new dormitory for women will be completed next fall. The college is now in a state of readiness for the new students who will be received next month.

Weed in Lawns In N-Quack Grass

Lawns in the city are being invaded by "crowfoot grass," not grass or clover, according to J. H. Vincent, County superintendent of agriculture. The grass is a new variety which has been found in lawns of various cities and is a serious threat to the maintenance of lawns.

Crowfoot grass, as identified by the City Bureau of Agriculture, grows to a height of 12 to 18 inches and is easily recognizable by its flower heads, which are flat-topped and round. The grass is a perennial and spreads rapidly by means of runners and seeds. It is most abundant in lawns where there is a lot of compost and fertilizer and where the grass is not regularly mowed.

In order to prevent the spread of crowfoot grass, lawns should be mowed at least twice a month and the clippings should be removed. The use of nitrogenous fertilizers should be avoided, as they stimulate the growth of crowfoot grass. A 5-10-10 fertilizer is recommended for lawns where crowfoot grass is present.

Basher feed, grass, develops interest in the sport. The total amount of money spent on growing wheat has increased in recent years.

If you could look inside a typical farm in the United States, you would discover the "egg nest," a mass of straw or hay in the barn in which the hens lay their eggs. The eggs are collected, cleaned, and sold to market. The farm is a typical example of the American farm, with a large barn, a granary, and a large flock of chickens.

These eggs are marked with a "yellow egg label," which indicates to the consumer that the eggs are fresh and have been laid by hens that are healthy and well-fed. The "yellow egg label" is a symbol of quality and trust, and it is seen on countless eggs in kitchens across the country.

"Golden Girl" Wins Old Friend

"Golden Girl" was a valuable old horse owned by Mrs. M. W. Chamberlain. She was a long-time friend of Mrs. Chamberlain and often rode with her. After "Golden Girl" passed away, Mrs. Chamberlain asked Bill Chamberlain, a local horse trainer, to find a replacement for her. Bill Chamberlain found "Golden Girl"'s successor in the form of a beautiful young filly named "Silver Shadow." "Silver Shadow" quickly became a favorite with Mrs. Chamberlain and her friends, and she often rode with her in local horse shows and races.

A "Golden Girl"s" heart was pure and kind, and she always brought joy to those around her. She was a symbol of friendship, and her legacy continues to live on through "Silver Shadow."

LOVE, PREFERRED
THE ROMANCE OF A BUSINESS GIRL

WEEK OF OCTOBER 4

"I love you," she said again, and this time with more emphasis. "Really, truly, only you."

"Oh, yes," he replied, and he returned her kiss with a firmer one. "I love you, too."

The sun was setting behind the clouds, casting a warm glow over the city. The couple stood on the rooftop of the building, watching the world below. They had been together for a year now, and every day seemed to be better than the last.

Suddenly, the phone rang. The man picked it up, and without a moment's hesitation, he said, "Hello?"

"Hello, Mr. Webster. This is Mr. Brown, the manager of the insurance company. We have a policy on file for you and your wife."

The couple exchanged a look, and then the man turned to his woman. "We have a policy on file for you and me?"

"Yes," she said, smiling. "The policy is for the two of you."

"Oh, how exciting," he said, his eyes sparkling. "What does it cover?"

"It covers everything," she said, "from the most mundane to the most extravagant. It's like having a personal assistant, only better."}

Dinner Stories

Three O'clock in the Morning

"Why, I never slept a wink," said Mrs. Smith. "What a terrible night it was."

"I'm sorry to hear that," said Mr. Smith. "Did you have any nightmares?"

"No," she replied, "but I did dream that we were in a terrible storm, and the wind was howling outside and the rain was pouring down."

"That sounds quite frightening," said Mr. Smith. "I'm glad you woke up in time to come back."

"Yes," she said, "I'm glad I came back. It's much safer here."

Fanny Me Never Nudity

"I just don't understand why people are so prudish," said Fanny. "It's all a matter of perspective."

"I suppose," said her husband, "but I still think that nude scenes are unnecessary."

"Oh, but they are," she said, "they help to bring the characters to life."

"I suppose," he said, "but I still think that they are unnecessary."

Could Speak For Himself

"I just don't understand how you can do that," said the woman. "How can you speak for yourself?"

"It's simple," said her husband. "You just need to learn how to express yourself."

"Oh, but I just don't know how," she said, tears welling up in her eyes. "I just don't know how to speak for myself."

"It's easy," he said, "you just need to practice."

Cause for a Field

"I don't think I can do that," said the woman. "I just don't have the time."

"It's not a matter of time," said her husband. "You just need to make the time."

"But I have so much to do," she said, "I just don't have the time."

"It's not a matter of time," he said, "it's a matter of priority."

Forested a Full Life

"Doctor," said the patient, "I just don't understand why you gave me this medicine."

"It's a type of anti-depressant," said the doctor. "It's designed to help you feel better."

"But I feel fine," said the patient. "I don't need this medicine."

"It's a preventative," said the doctor. "It's designed to help you feel better in the future."

Old Stid To Him

"She's just not my type," said the man to his friend. "I just don't understand why she's so popular."

"She's a catch," said his friend. "She's intelligent, attractive, and kind."

"But she's not my type," said the man. "I just don't understand why she's so popular."

Opportunity Adlets

W. W. U. No. 1814-8-26-2511

"I don't think the people of this town will ever understand," said the woman. "They just don't understand how much I love you."

"I think," said the man, "that they will understand when they see how much you love them."
Babie girl gets action

By: "..."

My husband and I have a daughter. She is now 14 years old. As of this present time he is possessed by a large group of demons. He has lost all control. He is well managed and slighted etiquette. I sought for a place where my daughter can stay for all our sake. Our little helpless has been taken away from us.

When he was just 16 months old, she was given the best possible care, with regular visits from the best doctors and physiatrists. She enjoys regular habits of eating, sleeping, and playing. She is now doing just as well as she did the day she arrived.

It seems the demons are only trying to control the young lady, and the best way to do that is to leave her in the custody of the church. We are not sure why she was given up, but we feel it was the best decision for her and our family.

There will be more experiments to be done with small specific things. Make requests, if the demons want them. We do not like to try her behavior just as you see her now.

Do you want to see that she is not using the same bottle." What was she given up, what was she doing on her last wash, why was she sitting by herself, why are you doing this?"

We are giving her a chance to improve and heal. The demons are not going to stop until she is ready to accept their help.

The demons are working on her to better her life."

She needs and she is a young lady, so I am sure they will help."

Could you have helped from all my perspective? "Punishments and the whole other side of it."

Before the E. S. P. Investigation of Public Deceit, had I only asked you if you were her.""

Patience and understanding have been the best thing to do."

I am ready to start helping her."

Yes, you can help me."

The demons have helped her to improve."

They have been working on her since she was born."

I am going to keep her company."

Said I."
