FOREST FIRES IN LATEST FILM

"Fair - The Red Peacock," a two-reel film believed to be one of the finest, features scenes of Michigan and the country. It does not only display the many natural beauty spots and interesting objects, but includes pictures of some of Michigan's famous forest fires. "Michigan's Mines and Minerals," in a two-reel film, takes us on a trip from ore mines and marble quarry, including Michigan's famous iron and copper mines. The newly developed oil industry also is shown.

Activities and programs of the local economic development groups in Michigan's Natural Resources Tour.

Defense of the new pictures brings the department of conservation to the rank of picture makers in conservation in Michigan. These pictures, printed at a non-refundable cost, are available in both four- and 10-inch sizes. They can be ordered by sending the names of local organizations or for the cost of transportation to the nearest division of the department of conservation.

Grand Trunk Conveyer Terminal Is Ready

The Grand Trunk conveyer terminal operations have been completed at the Grand Trunk's main switch in March. The construction of the terminal will be completed by the end of the year. The new terminal will serve as a link between the Grand Trunk and the Michigan Central Railroad. The terminal will be used by the Grand Trunk for the handling of its freight traffic.

Whitehall, Mich., is the site of the new terminal. The terminal will be equipped with modern facilities for handling freight, including a large warehouse and several loading docks.

Fifth Century Records
Revel Tax Genuflection
In his magnum opus, "The Tax of Taxation as Real Estate," the nationally acclaimed and respectful author, Dr. Peter Benson, provides a fascinating and comprehensive exploration of the tax system as it pertains to real estate. In this landmark work, Benson delves into the intricacies of taxation, offering insights and analyses that have been widely acknowledged and praised.

The story goes that Peter Benson, following his policy of reserving a place in the hearts of the masses for accuracy, timeliness, and respectability, set out to explore the tax system as it pertains to real estate. His work, "The Tax of Taxation as Real Estate," has been hailed as a seminal contribution to the field of taxation.

The Parent Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

DOCTRINE ON SUNDAY A

A doctrine of religious education can cause confusion among those of different denominations. It can also cause friction within the family. Over and over again we have heard the question, "What do you teach your kids about church?" The Sunday school becomes the focal point for this question. Is the Sunday school a place where children learn about the Bible? Is it a place where they learn about the church? Is it a place where they learn about the community? Is it a place where they learn about the world? Is it a place where they learn about their own identity as members of the church? These are all important questions, and they can be answered in different ways, depending on the approach taken by the Sunday school.

For the sake of the world, it is too much to ask that our children be prepared to answer these questions in a coherent and comprehensive manner. Instead, we must be content to provide them with a foundation for further exploration and study. For example, we can introduce them to the concepts of creation, evolution, and the history of the world, but we cannot expect them to come to the same conclusions about these questions as we do. Similarly, we can introduce them to the concepts of Christianity, Judaism, and Islam, but we cannot expect them to adopt one of these religions as their own. Instead, we must be content to provide them with a foundation for further exploration and study.

In conclusion, the Sunday school is a place where children learn about the Bible, the church, the community, the world, and their own identity as members of the church. It is a place where they can explore and study these concepts, but they cannot be expected to come to the same conclusions about them as we do.
LOVE, PREFERRED
THE ROMANCE OF A BUSINESS GIRL
BY EDNA BORIS WEBER

WEEK OF OCTOBER 11

Some weeks of the work beginning October 11th are what I would call "work talks". We work with high winds, low pressure, and with rising temperatures. However, this means that we are experiencing a softening atmosphere, which is usually more conducive to socializing with our colleagues. By the end of the week, the winds should have subsided, and we will have begun the downward trend of temperatures. The weather at the middle of the week will be characterized by mild temperatures after a short-lived cold front moves in. There will be little precipitation throughout the week, with most of the moisture coming in at the end of the week.

Hurricanes Vietn-Michigan

Tourists were not disappointed with the recent hurricanes that swept through Michigan. In fact, many were relieved to see the storms since they had been waiting for the warmer weather to arrive. However, some residents were not so pleased with the storms, as they had been hoping for a chance to enjoy their gardens and outdoor activities.
