LOVE, PREFERRED
THE ROMANCE OF A BUSINESSMAN BY EDNA ROBB WEBSTER

WEEK OF OCTOBER 10

The lovers spent the long, balmy nights of the coming week at their leisure. From their own electric world, where life was never short of excitement, they had not a care in the world. It was a welcome change from the stress and strain of their daily lives.

Despite the fact that they had been together for many years, they were still enchanted with each other. Each day brought new adventures and surprises, and they were always eager to see what the future held.

One evening, as they sat by the fireplace, Mary suddenly spoke.

"You know, Edna, I feel like we should start planning for our future. We've been together for so long, but we haven't really thought about what we want for the future."

"Agreed, Mary. Let's make a list of our goals and dreams."

Together, they brainstormed, writing down everything they wanted to achieve. From starting a business together to taking a trip around the world, their list was filled with ambitious plans.

"I think we should start small first," Mary suggested. "Like maybe opening a small store or something."

"That sounds good. I think we could make it work."

As they worked on their plans, they realized how much they had achieved already. They had built a successful business together, and they had each other. They knew that no matter what the future held, they would face it together.

"I'm so glad we have each other," Mary said, "and I can't wait to see where our future takes us."

"Me too," Edna replied. "I'll be by your side every step of the way."

Together, they faced the challenges of their future with confidence, knowing that they had each other to support them. And as they continued to plan for the future, they couldn't help but smile at the thought of all the adventures they had ahead of them.
