CORN FOR SUMMER RANGE

It seems strange that poultry raisers away from the noise and bustle of the city in search of the famous "Poultry Island" in Berlin, Germany, where they proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that even the finest of poultry could be successful in the open air. The prize-winning birds were well-nurtured and the entire flock was on display for all to see.

Proving That Sometimes the Bull Gets the Breaks

A group of left-handed golfers, with Babe Ruth (right) as president, recently inaugurated the Left-Handed Golfers Association. The move was made after a series of public meetings held in New York and Chicago, where the membership of the new club is said to be growing rapidly. The meetings were well attended and many new members were signed up.

Dr. Luke MacLeish (above), of Cleveland, O., recently announced the development of the "science of seeing" by making 5,000,000 a year over a period of 10 years. He succeeded in the first time in recording the variations in the eye movements caused by the use of the eyes under various kinds of lighting, using a small series of newly invented measuring devices.

Arthur K. Coleman of Kansas City, Mo., who was the "improvement" test in the mathematics section at Harvard, was recently awarded a Rhodes scholarship.

Peacocks Stage Bird of a Fight

The peacocks are caught by the current in the midst of a flock of doves and pigeons, according to the famous "Poultry Island" in Berlin, Germany, where they proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that even the finest of poultry could be successful in the open air. The prize-winning birds were well-nurtured and the entire flock was on display for all to see.

"That cost, sir, fits you like a glove," he said. "I see the clavicle completely cover my hands."

PUFFY

Babe Ruth Leads Left-Handed Golfers' Association

Apartment dwellers in America's large cities are looking with longing eyes toward the green fields and country homes from which they have been segregated. Their parents may have come out so many years ago, but they are longing for the days when they were able to enjoy the fresh air and sunshine of the country. A report by the Bureau of Labor of the Department of Commerce shows that one of the most significant trends in this direction is the increasing number of small farm families in large cities. "Prices are rising," the report states, "and there is a growing interest among city dwellers in the joys of country living."

In the city of New York, New York, Michigan and North Carolina there is a notable increase in the number of small farm families. In fact, the number of such families has increased by about 25% in the last five years. This is particularly true in the large cities, where the demand for small farm families has increased by 35% in the last five years.

It is estimated that this trend toward small farms, largely among the working-class groups, will continue to increase in the future. The opportunities that are available to small farm families are increasing in number and variety. More, and more, of these families are finding that small farms provide a way of life that is more satisfying and fulfilling than life in the city.

It is probable, therefore, that in the near future farm production will increase more than farm population. The trend toward small farms will continue to increase, and the demand for small farm families will continue to grow.

Late Started Gardens

Late gardens often prove more successful than the early spring ones since they can be undertaken a month later and the plants have a longer time to develop and ripen on the shoots and roots. This is particularly true in May. Of course the very early large vegetable such as peas, radishes, spinach and leaf lettuce are at the risk of being eaten by slugs and snails. But there are plenty of May flowers to take their place.

Vegetables and flowers may seem as though they were in competition for the realm of the garden. In some cases they may be, but in most cases they are not. Many gardeners are experimenting with the early varieties of flowers and vegetables to get a better yield. The early flowers and vegetables can be grown in small spaces and are not likely to interfere with the later ones.

Above is Carl Klemmson of Kansas City, Mo., who was the "improvement" test in the mathematics section at Harvard, was recently awarded a Rhodes scholarship.

"My child is old enough to have a pet and I am going to have it," said the farmer, who had just come from the city of New York, where he had bought a peacock for his wife. "I have always wanted a pet and I think this will be a good one."

Walden Milk Plant

The Walden Milk Plant, a slow but steady growth, has experienced some setbacks due to weather conditions. The milk has been hauled from farms around the city and distributed daily, and so the company has experienced some difficulties. The company recently installed a new process which draws water from a depth of 100 feet. This method has been successful in past years in cases of emergency, such as when the water supply from the river has been cut off. The new process has been a big improvement and should help to increase the company's profits.

"That cost, sir, fits you like a glove," he said. "I see the clavicle completely cover my hands."
"Red Hat" Bestowed on McLeod

The red hat, the most picturesque headgear worn by women of Catholic order of the Poor Clares, was presented to Mrs. Margaret McLeod by the Rev. Fr. Joseph A. De Leo, pastor of St. Mary's Church, in a ceremony held recently at the church.

Northern Maine Electrican Claims He's a Friend of Chamberlain

If Maine's future premium is to be anything like its present income, then the United States will have a problem in 1940, says John A. Chamberlain, who recently spoke before the Maine Chamber of Commerce.

"You are all very optimistic," he told the business leaders, "but I take it that your optimism is based on the fact that you believe we are going to have enough power to keep Maine running.

"And if you think we're going to have enough power, you are wrong. We will have none of it. We have already used up all the power we ever knew, and we'll have none more soon.

"Our future is pure mystery. We don't know what's going to happen, and we can't do anything about it."

States Laid Waste by Grapeshoppers in 1874

In 1874, the eggs of a kind of moth, the grrophopper, laid eggs in millions upon the leaves of the apple trees of the United States, so that the trees were destroyed, and the grrophoppers were left to multiply unchecked.

"New Yorker" Knocks Suggestion to Airplane Pilots

The "New Yorker" recently suggested that airplanes should be equipped with electronic devices to check on the health of their pilots.

"I don't see how that could work," said the "New Yorker," "because airplanes are never equipped with electronic devices to check on the health of their pilots. They are always equipped with electronic devices to check on the health of their passengers.

"And these electronic devices are always wrong. They never tell the truth. They always lie.

"I don't see how you could possibly equip airplanes with electronic devices to check on the health of their pilots."
BUDGET OF "M" HOSPITAL CUT FOR NEXT YEAR

Three appointments and one promotion in the teaching staff of the University Hospital have been announced, and the University Hospital was among the many approved for increased medical staff as a result of the last meeting.

Dr. C. B. Bryant, of the University of Michigan, has been appointed as the new medical director of the University Hospital. He will succeed Dr. J. E. Schenck, who has been in charge of the hospital since 1914. Dr. Bryant was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1914, and has been associated with the University Hospital since that time.

Dr. W. H. Hegg, of the University of Chicago, has been appointed as the new surgical director. He has been associated with the University Hospital since 1915, and has been a member of the staff since 1916.

Dr. J. E. Buck, of the University of Michigan, has been appointed as the new medical director. He has been associated with the University Hospital since 1914, and has been a member of the staff since 1916.

LINENS FOR EVERY OCCASION

Take Advantage Of Seasonal Fish And Vegetables

In planning your menu this summer, take advantage of the fresh, tender, crisp fish and vegetables while they last. Fish, with its high protein content, is a frequently served food during hot summer weather. It is also easy to cook and requires little preparation.

In addition, fish requires very little cooking time. It is best when it is fresh and tender. The fish should be cleaned, skinned, and scaled before cooking. It is best to serve fish as soon as it is cooked, as it tends to become tough and dry if it is left standing too long.

Healthy habits, including a varied diet and a balanced intake of nutrients, are essential for good health. By eating fish and vegetables, you can get all the nutrients your body needs to function properly.

Fresh fish should be selected from a trusted source and cooked using a healthy method, such as baking or grilling. This will help preserve its nutritional value and enhance its flavor.

A balanced diet is essential for a healthy lifestyle. By incorporating fish and vegetables into your meals, you can help maintain a healthy weight and reduce your risk of chronic diseases.

In conclusion, taking advantage of seasonal fish and vegetables is not only nutritious but also enjoyable. So why not give it a try this summer? Your taste buds and body will thank you.

Speaking of Style

By IRENE VAIL

If you are retro-reflection—and you are always up-to-date—are you the great new thing?—or is everyone else the great new thing? The thing for this thing for any one person or any thing is that it must be right for you. The very first indication of a color or a style is not to be followed in any case. Are you into the classic style or the modern one? If you are into the classic style, you will have a classic look and if you are into the modern style, you will have a modern look. It is not the idea of the look that counts, it is the idea of the people that counts. The idea of the people that counts is the idea of the people that counts.

Meads and Manners

Question: "It is considered to be a polite grace to "eat your vegetables". However, I do not know how to go about it. Can you suggest any manners to this rule of eating?

Answer: You should try to be mindful of your manners while eating vegetables. As long as one doesn't gape at the others, it's fine. Also, try to eat your vegetables in a way that is respectful to others. This will show that you are knowledgeable about manners and that you care about others. It will also show that you are able to follow the rule of eating vegetables without much difficulty.

At the Beach

By Dorothy Sorensen

A million shades of brilliant color suffused the golden sand, Gay blue and violet hued under the sun. The sea was golden and bright, a perfect picture of the beach.

Enjoying in rarefied air

Here’s a “water fight” in progress. Watch as the group on the beach is busy playing with each other. The water is clear and blue.

While they splash in the shallows, the kids are having fun. This is a great way to cool off on a hot day.

A recent article in the newspaper mentioned the health benefits of spending time in nature. Spending time at the beach is a great way to connect with nature and enjoy its benefits.

In conclusion, spending time at the beach is a great way to enjoy the outdoors and connect with nature. It is also a great way to relax and have fun with friends and family.
