Finds Favor As Business Center

Attesting the strategic location and prominence of Lansing as a business center, it is announced that the 28th annual Capital Bank Dinner and Dance was held last night. The dinner was attended by over 300 guests, including business men from all parts of the state. The keynote speaker was Governor John R. David, Governor of the state, who spoke on the economic conditions of the state and the importance of Lansing as a business center.

POSTAGE MAY BE REDUCED

A new scheme of postage, proposed, was inaugurated at Lansing during the last week, and represents a great increase in the provision of low-cost handling facilities for mail and mail senders in Lansing.

The new scheme, briefly described, consists of a reduction of postage rates of 1 cent to 2 cents per ounce, which will result in a saving of approximately 25 cents per ounce on all mail sent.

The system is based on the principle that the greater the volume of mail, the lower the postage rate. In other words, the more mail that is sent, the lower the cost per ounce.

Construction of the new enlarged post office building was started in June 1915, and the building was completed in December 1916. The building consists of 100 office spaces and has a capacity of 100,000 mail spaces.

The post office will operate on the new system as soon as the building is ready and the postal personnel are trained to handle the increased volume of mail.

The postal personnel will be trained in the new system as soon as the building is ready.

In conclusion, it may be said that the new system of postage is a great improvement over the old system and will result in a saving of approximately 25 cents per ounce on all mail sent.

Supernatural is Attracting Many Wild Fool

A flock of 100 wild mallards and 25 woodcocks is frequenting the area around the new city park at Big Sable Point, according to the latest reports from the experts in ornithology at the state park headquarters.

The birds were observed by William L. Johnson, in charge of the bird study at the state park, who has been watching the birds for several weeks. The birds have been observed to feed on the ground and to drink from the nearby lakes.

The birds are migrating to the warmer regions of the state and will spend the winter in the area around the state park.

Sanctuary is Attractive

The sanctuary, which is located in the southeastern part of the state, is a popular place for bird watching and photography. The area is open to the public and is maintained by the state park authority.

The sanctuary is open to the public daily, and admission is free.

SAFE TO DRY UP COWS SLOWLY

If dairy cows are giving 20 pounds or less of milk it is advisable to proceed slowly to complete milking. This was done at the recent University of Minnesota station and the cows were milked in steps of 3 or 4. The technique is similar to the stepwise method commonly used for other livestock.

The Minnesota station workers concluded that it is advisable to milk cows slowly and to divide the task over several days. This method is not only more comfortable for the cows but it also helps to prevent overmilking.

Fall planting and fire are the more prominent activities suggested by the department of Agriculture at Michigan State College for improving conditions in orchards and pastures of corn.

Many of the pests that damage fruits and vegetables pass the winter hidden in trunks or vegetation in the soil. Winter injury to fruit and vegetable plantings can be prevented by following some of the suggestions for fall planting and fire.

The insects which live over the winter in the soil may only be killed by fall plowing, but the burning of trash and other vegetable materials which serve to feed the insects is the most effective method of destroying the insects for the coming year.

This young man, Edward Raymond, from Pittsburgh, Pa., is making the surprising discovery that he has hearts. Non-Skid Tires
Fiscal year closes October 31.

October and November are the darkest months of the year for driving. That is the time for non-skiid tires, used by race drivers because they are the tires in the world for speed. They are also tires for the man who drives his car often and likes to save. The car that does not use non-skiid tires is not the one that is worth saving.

Glen Schulte recently set a new world's record for the Pike Peak climb, where he used non-skiid tires. He set a new world's record for the Pikes Peak climb, where he used non-skiid tires. CHAPTER XXVIII—Continued.

The next morning, Maltby rose early to the apartment and the streetcar, and her hands in her pockets, a delighted, satisfied, thrifty Maltby walked along the streetcar, her head held high and her step lifted with the promise of a brand new day. The sun was warm on her shoulders, and Maltby knew that she was ready for anything.

The street was alive with the sound of horses' hooves and the clatter of trolleys, and Maltby felt a sense of excitement wash over her. She took a deep breath and stepped onto the street, ready to take on the world.

The world was her oyster, and she was determined to make the most of it.

She bought a new dress, and a new hat, and a new pair of shoes, and she went to the movies and had ice cream at the parlor. She was a woman on a mission, and nothing was going to stop her.

The world was her oyster, and she was determined to make the most of it.

The end.

The end.
