POULTRY

AVOID CARRABAGE AND RAOE

Cabbage and rape are poor foods for laying hens, and should be completely eliminated from their ration. They are both high in a milky white, sticky juice which contains no vitamins, and is a poor food for the hen and an undesirable flavor for the eggs. Cabbage is particularly bad. The juice draws moisture from the albumen, andAlbumen is barely enough of use at all. It is difficult to eliminate these two items from the diet without reducing the size of the flocks, and it has been found that hens are février in the case of cooked cabbage and rape, but it is necessary to get rid of them in order to maintain the proper size of flocks.

A practical system of handling these plants involves bringing in and utilizing them in a controlled manner. The plants should be cut and brought in as soon as possible after the first frost, and should be kept moist until they are thoroughly dry. They should be then chopped up into small pieces and mixed with the other feed ingredients.

Egg PRODUCTS COMPARATE FAVORABLY WITH OTHERS

Old school is helping to keep the demand for eggs high. The egg market is again on the rise, and the price of eggs is higher than ever before. The demand is due to the fact that eggs are a nutritious food, and that they are good for the health.

EGG MIX SALT WITH PEPPER

To prevent the danger of eggs getting salted, the United States Department of Agriculture recommends that egg boxes be salted with pepper. The use of salt with pepper is an important factor in the proper storage of eggs. The addition of salt with pepper helps to prevent the growth of bacteria, which can cause the eggs to spoil.

BLOODE SPOT IS NOT SIGN OF STALE EGG

The presence of blood spots in eggs is not necessarily an indication of the egg's freshness. The blood spots are caused by the rupture of the egg's shell membranes. The eggs are usually packed under refrigeration, and are therefore not likely to be affected by the presence of blood spots.

STATE POULTRYMEN WIN CHICK

Nine Michigan poultrymen won in a national chicken rearing contest conducted by the Farm Service Administration. The contest was open to all Michigan poultrymen, and the best eggs and chickens were selected.

WATER EGGS IN GROUNDS

In grounds, those that appear before the chicken's eye, the flavor and eating qualities of the eggs are greatly enhanced. The chicken will eat them eagerly, and the effect is a great improvement in the quality of the eggs.

The question is: what causes the eggs to become watery? The answer is: when the eggs are not properly handled. The cause is usually due to the fact that the eggs are not refrigerated properly.

The eggs should be washed and dried thoroughly before they are refrigerated. They should then be stored in a cool place, and should be checked regularly to see that they are not becoming watery.

And Try This One, Mr. President! A brief note on this subject of 'unemployment' has been received from the White House....

“Dinner Stories”

The Doctor’s Last Meal

Last night, during dinner, Mr. Brown was asked if he was going to be at the Family Reunion, held by Mrs. Green on the following Thursday.

“Why, yes,” he replied. “I’m sure I will be there. What’s the matter with you?”

“Nothing,” said Mr. Brown. “I just wanted to know if you were going to be there.”

Where’s your empathy? Where is the bond of community?

Three Wise Others

Jack, John, and Bob were hanging around the offices and grumping by the pitcher’s hand.

“I explained the other,” said Jack. “You know what I mean?”

“Sure could be, then,” said Bob. “You know what I mean?”

One day, John came in and said, “I’m going to be at the Family Reunion. I want to bring my wife with me.”

The Wife

She asked, “Why, John? What’s the matter?”

“Nothing,” said John. “I just wanted to know if you were going to be there.”

In the end, they both went to the Reunion and had a great time. The bond of community is still strong.

Sweet and Tender

The last line of the newspaper said, “The bond of community has been restored.”
