Many People

Are misled by those manufacturers who make all sorts of misrepresentations and good promises before selling their wheels, but forget them after the sale is made.

WE ARE GLAD TO SAY

That a great many people are not being “taken in” by such a confidence game. When you buy a wheel look well to the standing of the maker. What is his rating?

Will he stand in business when you want repairs? Here’s our advice, good people—

SUPPLEMENT.

THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1897.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE.

Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. C. Cisler to the number of about fifteen pleasantly surprised them on the afternoon of May 17, it being the birthday of Mrs. Cisler. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wood, father and mother of Mrs. C. Mr. and Mrs. Wood, knowing nothing of the anticipations of the rest of the company, arrived early in the morning; hence they, as well as their daughter, were surprised. Mrs. Cisler was presented with a quilt from her mother and with a handsome set of silver teaspoons from friends and other relatives. After a good sociable time, interspersed with music, was had, we sat down to a bountiful repast such as all on such occasions enjoy, Mrs. C. remarking that her table never looked more beautiful. After tea we all enjoyed ourselves fully, and some of us going to the forest cutting or breaking down poplar trees, and attempting to make whistles, for indeed it was once a custom, for lo and behold, they would not blow! Though making them many times in our youth, we, realize that before we make any more, we will have to take lessons from some school-boy or girl; and this reminds us that we are not climbing but going down the hill of time, and yet we should have thought so had they been across the hill in the forest and looked back and observed the remnants of the party jumping rope as in youth. We have have not only Mr. and Mrs. Cisler of some kind of animals that were shut up for a season and then turned loose. Nevertheless we all, having had a pleasant time, departed to our homes, feeling that we and others were truly benefited by being there. May Mrs. C. live to enjoy many more such birthdays is our prayer.

FARM HOME READING CIRCLE

Of the Michigan State Agricultural College.

The aim of the Farm Home Reading Circle—The fundamental purpose of the Agricultural College is to educate farmers’ sons and daughters toward the farm and not away from it. She is doing this and in addition is making it possible for those who cannot afford a college course to become posted on agricultural topics through the Farm Home Reading Circle. One of the objects of the Farm Home Reading Circle is to recommend the best books for the farmer, gardener and stock breeder to read, and at the same time to furnish an opportunity for the farmer to buy those books at greatly reduced prices.

The course of reading outlined has been prepared by men who are authorized in their special lines. The books offered in the course are thought to be as good as can be secured at a reasonable figure.

The privileges of the Farm Home Reading Circle are not limited to age or occupation. Anyone who is a resident of Michigan may become a member. One of the most commendable features of this course of reading is that you can read alone. You do not have to organize a society.

Membership costs nothing.

Advantages to members of the Farm Home Reading Circle:

1. An opportunity to pursue a systematic course of reading under the direction and with the aid of all departments of the Michigan Agricultural College.

2. The publications of the Michigan State Experiment Station are mailed free to members of the Farm Home Reading Circle.

3. You can secure standard books at greatly reduced rates.

4. You not only secure the benefit yourself, but you get a certificate on the completion of each book which cannot fail to be a source of satisfaction to you.

5. You can receive a prompt answer to any question in regard to farm topics by applying to the college through the secretory of the Farm Home Reading Circle.

Full information in regard to how to join the different courses offered will be furnished promptly upon application to the secretory.

BADDIE JONES.

"Commercial" had not made the last trip of her career, for she had been damaged in a recent accident and was expected to be sold for scrap. She was one of the oldest and most reliable of the fleet, having given years of service to her owners.

One morning, as she was being prepared for her next voyage, the captain of the ship, Mr. Smith, noticed something unusual about her. He went to investigate and found that the ship's engine was not functioning properly. After several hours of troubleshooting, he discovered that a key component had been damaged.

"Commercial" was a beloved member of the fleet and her crew were determined to keep her running as long as possible. They worked diligently to repair the damage and get her back in service.

But time was running out. The ship's owners had already decided to sell her for scrap, and the crew knew they would have to act fast to save her.

One afternoon, as they were repairing the engine, the crew heard a loud explosion. They rushed to the engine room and found that the damage had been more extensive than they had originally thought. The ship was quickly sinking.

The crew worked tirelessly to get the ship to safety, but it was too late. "Commercial" sank into the depths of the ocean, taking with her all of her crew and passengers.

The crew of the ship were devastated. They had lost a beloved member of their team, and their hopes for the future were dashed.

But they did not give up. They continued to work, determined to keep "Commercial" sailing and to honor her memory. And in the end, they succeeded. Through their hard work and determination, they brought "Commercial" back to life and kept her sailing for many years to come.

"Commercial" was a testament to the resilience and dedication of the crew who built and maintained her. And her story is a reminder that even in the darkest of times, there is always hope for a brighter future.
