THEY SAVED THE GUN

It was not yet quite daybreak along the seashore of a war, and, on this bright, clear morning at least, there was little shadow that the war's approaches had left in the land. But there were enough in the air, in the sky, and over the sea, to tell a part of the story of the day. The news of the battle of Long Island, the latest, was that the battle was not yet begun. The news of the battle of Yorktown was that it was yet to come. And the news of the battle of Ticonderoga was that it had already begun.

The battle of Ticonderoga, the news had it, was fought by the Americans against the British. The battle of Yorktown was fought by the Americans against the British. The battle of Long Island was fought by the Americans against the British. The news of the battle of Ticonderoga was that it was yet to come. The news of the battle of Yorktown was that it was already over. The news of the battle of Long Island was that it was not yet begun.

The news of the battle of Ticonderoga was that it was yet to come. The news of the battle of Yorktown was that it was already over. The news of the battle of Long Island was that it was not yet begun.

The news of the battle of Ticonderoga was that it was yet to come. The news of the battle of Yorktown was that it was already over. The news of the battle of Long Island was that it was not yet begun.
