SEWALL IS SECOND

Chosen as the Candidate for Vice President.

COMES FROM MAINE.

End of the Most Remarkable Convention in History.

More than a dozen Constituents for the Single ballot. Senator Upton's Running Mate—Comparison of the "Great Men."—Arrival in the Ticker's Tent—Visit of the Convention to the Mall—Election of Mr. Sewall for Chairman of the Democratic National Convention.

On the 5th day of the Chicago convention and on the 5th ballot, Arthur Sewall, of Maine, was nominated for Vice President. A few minutes after the announcement of the result, the full extent of the influence of the New England States on the convention became apparent. The news of the nomination was received with great enthusiasm. The delegates from the New England States immediately rose to their feet and shouted "Sewall! Sewall!" The result of the vote was announced by Mr. Sewall, and the delegates from the New England States immediately rose to their feet and shouted "Sewall! Sewall!" THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION IN SESSION.

When the news of the nomination of Mr. Sewall for Vice President was announced, the convention was in full session. The delegates from the New England States immediately rose to their feet and shouted "Sewall! Sewall!" The result of the vote was announced by Mr. Sewall, and the delegates from the New England States immediately rose to their feet and shouted "Sewall! Sewall!" The result of the vote was announced by Mr. Sewall, and the delegates from the New England States immediately rose to their feet and shouted "Sewall! Sewall!"

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.

President of the Democratic National Convention. The Democratic National Convention is a very important gathering of the American people. It is held every four years to nominate the presidential candidates for the upcoming election. The convention is a major event in the political calendar and attracts a lot of attention from the media and the public.

In the image, the text is quite dense and appears to be a page from a newspaper article. It contains a mix of paragraphs and headlines, discussing various political topics and events. The text is not fully legible due to the resolution and quality of the image, but it appears to be related to the Democratic National Convention, possibly discussing the nominations and speeches made during the convention. The article seems to be written in a formal, journalistic style, typical of what one would expect to find in a newspaper.

Despite the slightly blurred text, it is clear that the article is focused on the political proceedings of the Democratic National Convention. The mention of names and titles suggests that the article is providing updates on the convention's events, including speeches and nominations.

In summary, the image contains a page from a newspaper article discussing the Democratic National Convention, with a focus on the nominations and speeches made during the convention. The text is not fully legible due to the resolution and quality of the image, but it is evident that the article is related to the political proceedings of the convention.

The New Journey to the East.

THE PRAYER-DISCUSSION OF THE GOSPEL.

For Another's Sake.

Do unto others as you would be done by. In a trial and actual presentation of the Gospels, the law is the most important part of the case. When you have read the Gospel, you find it is a law to be followed. When you read it, you find it is a law to be followed. When you read it, you find it is a law to be followed.
