JCB recently announced record pre-tax profits of £187 million for 2007 following the most successful year in its 62-year history. The result was achieved in a year when machine sales rose to more than 72,000 and turnover reached a new peak of £2.25 billion.

JCB Chairman Sir Anthony Bamford said: “2007 saw JCB make great progress and it was our best-ever year. The outlook for the remainder of 2008 does look challenging but I believe we are well-placed to adapt to these difficult conditions.”

It makes a refreshing change that positive financial success in the USA results in price reductions for the UK. However, JSM Distribution has announced just that for their Sand Storm screening system.

Principal aimed at the renovation of golf course bunkers, the sand storm can also handle other materials that may benefit from a screening process. Vibrating screens on the Sand Storm work to remove debris such as leaves, twigs, needles, weeds, stone and clay particles.
TWO TOP CLUBS SIGN DEAL

In testament to Toro’s top-quality turf machinery and customer care, two leading golf clubs have cemented their long-term relationships with the company by signing exclusivity deals.

JACOBSEN WINS OVER WORTHING GOLF CLUB

New turf maintenance equipment, supplied by local Ransomes Jacobsen dealer Harper & Eede of Albourne, has been delivered to Worthing Golf Club.

The Club, which features two 18 hole golf courses, is probably the finest downland course in England and occupies a commanding position on the slopes of the South Downs, immediately below the site of the Roman fort at Cissbury Ring.

Course Manager, George Barr, has been refreshing his turf maintenance fleet over the past couple of years and has returned to Harper & Eede to purchase two Jacobsen TR3 tees mowers, an HR3300T out-front rotary, an AR250 semi-rough mower and a Jacobsen LF fairway mower.

EQUIPMENT LENDS FINISHING TOUCH TO US OPEN COURSE

With the right support, you can do anything. Just ask Mark J Woodward, CGCS, the golf operations manager responsible for elevating a tournament quality municipal golf course to one worthy of hosting the 2008 US Open.

Only the second public and first city owned course to host the Open, Torrey Pines Golf Course in San Diego looked as good as its predecessors thanks to Woodward’s management, his support team and grooming from a fleet that includes John Deere equipment.

When Woodward first came to San Diego three years ago, the city was dedicated to improving the South Course at Torrey Pines, having completed a full renovation by Rees Jones in 2001. But even for a man with more than three decades of experience, nurturing the course to championship condition was a challenge. He credits the course’s successful transformation to the support of his team; Jon Maddern, the city’s assistant golf operations manager, who also served as GCSAA president in 2003; Candice Combs, superintendent of the South Course; and the rest of the staff at Torrey Pines.

Support for the turf has also come from Woodward’s John Deere fairway mowers. “We spent years working on the course from an agronomic perspective, so ensuring that the turf was shaped perfectly for the US Open was vital,” said Woodward. “Both my team and the players were very pleased with the cut quality our John Deere fairway mowers have delivered.”
