temperatures are low (hence its inclusion in many autumn/winter and spring starter formulations). It acidifies the surface of turf, but has a high scorch risk. Urea on the other hand, requires bacterial activity for the conversion of nitrogen to plant available forms. This in turn requires good soil temperatures and moisture levels.

So if I was looking for a product to apply as a spring starter to give me a good response, after coring maybe, I would use product A. However, if I was looking for a summer product to give ample growth and less flush, I would choose product B.

Potassium Source
It’s not just the source of nitrogen that can affect how a fertiliser works and how it should be used. Potassium in fertilisers can come from one of three main sources - potassium sulphate, potassium chloride or potassium nitrate, and each have specific characteristics. Potassium chloride is often used in fertilisers because it is readily available and cheap, but it possesses a high scorch risk compared to potassium sulphate. Thus, two fertilisers of identical analysis may have widely different scorch risks because of the potassium source utilised. Fertilisers derived from potassium nitrate are usually sulphur-free and contain nearly 50% oxygen as part of their analysis - both of these features are especially useful when dealing with anaerobic (Oxygen-lacking) rootzone’s.

The take-home message is that rather than just looking at the analysis of the fertiliser, one should also look at the sources of nutrient it is derived from to get an idea of how it works.

Longer term Fertilisers
Some products release their nutrients over longer periods. These would include slow release, controlled release and organic fertilisers. They can rely on soil temperature, moisture, as well as bacterial activity (or all three) to regu-
Different types of Potassium Nitrate Fertiliser

4. Water soluble fertiliser
5. Standard prill for coarse turf

Late the release of nutrients over a given period of time. Such products can provide clear benefits, including the saving of time and labour, avoidance of growth flushes and low scorch potential.

Again, it is important to understand how the particular product works, i.e. what factors it depends upon for its release, how long it works for, etc, before making a product selection.

Coated or controlled release fertilisers are one such group providing long term nutrition and have become widely used over the last 12 years on tees, approaches, fairways and latterly greens as part of a base feeding fertiliser regime. Resin or polymer coated products release their nutrients through a semi-permeable coating, governed by soil temperature. As temperatures rise more nutrient is released into the rootzone, closely following the requirements of the grass plant. Release of nutrients is unaffected by increased moisture levels, making such products ideal for use in wet conditions. Other coated fertilisers such as (poly) sulphur coated ureas (PSCU/SCU) depend upon temperature as well as other factors such as soil moisture levels and microbial activity for nutrient release.

Base Feeding - A new approach
The concept of base feeding is relatively new on fine turf, but is becoming accepted as a different way of applying fertiliser, with particular relevance to high sand content rootzones. In this scenario, a controlled release mineral fertiliser is applied in the spring and autumn, at renovation time, to provide a long-term base feed of nutrients. (Some products feature controlled release potassium in addition to nitrogen). These applications provide a base of nutrients for the season, upon which supplementary applications, in the form of light rate granular, water-soluble or liquid fertilisers, can be made.

Advantages of base-feeding include:

- Granular applications can be confined to the times of year when they interfere least with the playing surface (cutting heights are higher and the cutting frequency is less).
- Supplementary fertiliser applications can be made in the form and at the rate the plant requires for that particular part of the season, thereby maintaining control.
- The controlled release of nutrients ensures a gentle supply to the plant, in line with its requirements, because both the grass plant and fertiliser are dependent on soil temperature for growth and release respectively.
- Continuous nutrient availability avoids 'peaks and troughs' associated with other fertiliser regimes, providing more consistent growth and more efficient fertilisation.
- Excessive rainfall will not effect the release, minimising the risk of leaching, ensuring excess nutrients are not lost.

Fertilisation on golf courses is dependent on a wide range of factors, not least, the weather.

Knowing about the different types of fertiliser, their nutrient forms and release characteristics and applying this knowledge to get the best results is a key part of modern day greenkeeping.

Following the success of the first BIGGA Delegation which took 10 BIGGA members to Vancouver for the CGSA Conference and Show earlier this year, courtesy of our friends at Bernhard and Company Ltd, 10 more BIGGA ambassadors will fly to Orlando, Florida next February for the GCSAA Conference and Show...

Will you be flying to Florida in February?

Do you want to benefit from participating in the GCSAA Conference and Show?

If so, now is the time to seek Regional selection. Just forward details of your career, education and training and a brief history of your BIGGA membership. You need to explain why you should be selected and how you feel you would benefit from the trip.

You will need to demonstrate your ability to represent BIGGA and the greenkeeping profession in a public relations role at an International event.

It is a rare opportunity to mix business, education and pleasure in the wonderful surroundings of Orlando, the Theme Park Capital of the World. You could be discussing the latest innovation on a new triple in the morning, learning of the latest developments within the industry in the afternoon and having your photograph taken with Mickey Mouse in the evening. A well rounded day by anyone's estimation!

Will you be one of the 10 man Bernhard and Company Ltd BIGGA delegation?

To give yourself every chance, submit a personal profile - no more than one side of A4, and remember this must be received by your Section Secretary no later than July 31, 2001.

Good Luck!

Two BIGGA members will be selected from each Region and if successful all costs of travel, accommodation and entrance to the Conference programme will be met by Bernhard and Company Ltd.
The last nine months in this country have been quite remarkable. Floods have been followed by a disease not seen here for 34 years and as I write we are still to see the evidence that the pronouncements of a scorching summer have any truth in them.

Into this unique set of circumstances has arrived American, Clay Sherrill, the new General Manager of the UK John Deere headquarters.

Since taking over the reins at the beginning of the year Clay has seen the Langar base caught in the middle of a Midlands Foot and Mouth exclusion zone - there is still a disinfectant mat at the entrance to the company's superb building - while markets for much of the company's product have shrunk as revenue streams at many golf clubs have reduced to a trickle thanks to extended flooding induced course closures up and down the country.

Surprisingly this has not prevented Clay, previously the General Manager of the company's Minneapolis branch, from turning on his heels and heading back across the Atlantic and he is delighted to have landed his new job. "Earlier in my career I can remember being in Fargo, North Dakota, in the middle of winter with the temperature 30 degrees below and the wind blowing at 60 miles an hour. I started to think back to who I might have angered in the company. I certainly don't view the UK that way as it's an extremely important part of John Deere's business," said Clay, as we spoke in his new office, housing in a building which boasts five huge training rooms and state-of-the-art conference facilities.

And while many have suffered through the financial downturn John Deere seems to have continued to trade relatively unscathed.

"Actually, Foot and Mouth has not affected our business as badly as we thought. It has had an impact because without Foot and Mouth we think we would have had another really good growth year. With Foot and Mouth we're not going to have as much growth as we'd expected but we are still going to be slightly above where we were last year. So that's not bad," said Clay, who, although a non-golfer, is originally from South Carolina, an hour inland from the golfing hotbed of Myrtle Beach.

To reinforce the point on the state of the market, Graham Williams, Division Manager for Commercial and Consumer Equipment and the owner of a face well known within the UK greenkeeping industry revealed some interesting statistics.

"Figures around at the moment show a decline in the golf turf business brought about by the flooding of something like 20%. The effect of the Foot and Mouth has not been evaluated yet but budgets have been cut, that's for sure. However if we have a good summer season I don't think we'll have any long term problems. There is a lot of business being done at the moment and in the Commercial and Consumer Equipment sector we're actually up 10% on last year, and that's in a down market," revealed Graham.

The C&CE Division is responsible for home owner products, including lawn tractors and walk behind mowers; commercial mowing equipment, which comprises the compact tractor range plus front rotary and wide area mowers, as well as the golf and turf equipment.

"So the C&CE division encompasses all three of these different market sectors and right now we are ahead of last year which is good news," he explained.

For many years John Deere cast a huge shadow over agriculture, and the impact such a massive company would make if it did turn its attention to other areas could only be imagined.

When it did turn its attention to the market which encompasses the golf industry about five years ago it was not a case of half measures. A goal was set of becoming clear market leader, a target which they feel they will hit within five years.

"If you go back five years we were hardly a player in the golf and turf business. There were three main companies, Toro, Jacobsen and Ransomes. Now, with the merger of Jacobsen and Ransomes into Textron, there are still three main players and we are one of them and it is very difficult to pick out who is the market leader," said Graham.

Clay is very keen to grow the UK and European business as much as possible over the next few years.

"Part of my own goal is to support the company strategy which is growth, and the UK and Western Europe is an important part of that. We believe that Western Europe is a huge opportunity for us. There is enormous potential with the amount of business that is here, coupled with the ability of John Deere to increase its market share," he explained.

The delayed entry into the market was due in part to the fact that without diesel powered products - the staple fuel of the UK and Irish markets - they didn’t have the product line to meet customer requirements.

"A desire to grow into a completely different customer base and the knowledge that there was so much shared engineering technology between the agricultural business and the C&CE market hastened the change of focus, into four main sectors - agriculture, C&CE, construction equipment and John Deere finance."

"Our agricultural customer base is shrinking. We all know that there are fewer, bigger farms and fewer farmers so C&CE allows us to grow our business into a completely different customer base yet the design and engineering of quality power products and the services which go with them are very much our strengths," said Clay.

"One of the key components of our business track the general economy, whether it be in the UK or USA - house building, consumer confidence and more general factors while agriculture, construction equipment and C&CE, construction equipment and John Deere finance."

"Our agricultural customer base is shrinking. We all know that there are fewer, bigger farms and fewer farmers so C&CE allows us to grow our business into a completely different customer base yet the design and engineering of quality power products and the services which go with them are very much our strengths," said Clay.

"It is a pretty good mix. The construction equipment and C&CE business track the general economy, whether it be in the UK or USA - house building, consumer confidence and more general factors while agriculture tracks the price of wheat, soya beans, corn and cattle."

"To us it has been a superb diversification as we have been able to spread our existing skills and technology over different markets," said Clay.

Graham believes that the key to the golf and turf market was the introduction of the 2653 tees mower and the 3233 fairway mower.

"Those two machines changed the market with their concept. Prior to that, the only John Deere equipment on golf courses would have been compact tractors and out front rotary mowers."

"Having made the commitment to move into the golf and turf market the special nature of the industry meant initial progress was steady rather than spectacular."

"Frankly it took us a while, both in North America and Europe, to develop the products we needed to penetrate the market and establish relationships within the industry itself. That is key and you don’t just do that overnight. You must earn respect and credibility," said Graham.

"One of the great successes which has enabled John Deere to develop machinery and build relationships are the feedback trips which in recent years has involved large numbers of greenkeepers from all over the world converging on Germany and the States to ensure that the new machinery being developed was what greenkeepers wanted to buy."

"The feedback sessions do produce tangible benefits, there is no question about that," said Graham.

"For example a recent success for us has been the 2500 greens mower which has been fantastically successful. Without the input of greenkeepers that wouldn’t have happened. The whole operator station, the controls and adjustable steering arm came about purely because of feedback. We went to an awful lot of trouble to ask them what the operator wanted and this was designed with those guys in mind," explained Graham.

"Clay is quick to reinforce the point about the benefits that come from such events."

"One of the key components of our product development process is the early involvement of customers. The best way to get the attention of a design engineer is to put him in the same room as a set of customers. We do exactly the same in the agricultural sector," he said.

"The company is also extremely proud of its parts support and recognises the importance of minimising downtime."

"Part of our commitment to customers is to keep our machines up and running to help protect our customers’ revenue. We have put a substantial investment in parts supply and offer true 24 hour turn-around. I think we do a better job than anyone else in that score," said Clay.

"Looking ahead, John Deere aims for steady innovation and evolution rather than any quantum leaps and this is likely to be seen in the area of environmentally friendly equipment."

"We introduced the electric Gator last year which has been a big success and I can see an extension of that technology into other machines as well," said Graham.

"Uniquely among the major manufacturers John Deere sponsors an event in Tiger Woods’ playground - the US Tour. The John Deere Classic is played on a TPC course Deere Run built on land donated to the US Tour and runs in the same week as the Open Championship here."

"Another event which will be of great interest to BIGGA members next year is the John Deere Team Championship involving the club professional, a greenkeeper and two club officials."

"This is an established event in the States but one of the wishes is to extend it worldwide and the likelihood is that two teams from the UK will be sent over to play in next year’s event," said Clay.

"But there is another golf event, in which John Deere has an input, which is causing huge interest all over the world. John Deere is the exclusive supplier of equipment to The De Vere Belfry which this September hosts The Ryder Cup."

"We are running an incentive programme on a worldwide basis and a number of dealers will be attempting to win a trip to the Ryder Cup. Everyone is fired up about the Ryder Cup and from our point of view it will be the first time that the North American and European guys will have come together," said Graham.

"The key question, however, is which side will the new General Manager of John Deere’s Lancashire headquarters be supporting?"

"I am supporting Europe. I go where my customers are and my customers are in the UK and Europe. They’re the ones who sign the cheques," said Clay, with just a trace of a smile.

Since there was no article last month as I had one or two problems getting the column written up before the deadline, but don’t worry as it is all here this month in its entirety so you won’t miss a thing.

The Section held the first major of the year at Dunbar Golf Club at the end of April. As usually happens at our spring tournament the weather was terrible, with wind, rain and chilly conditions greeting us on our arrival to the course and continuing throughout the day which made a lot of people decide not to play and stay within the confines of the clubhouse, which was a wise decision by the people who didn’t go out, so next year we are going to book the decent weather in advance?

We would like to thank the Captain and Council for the courtesy of the club, the catering staff for the superb food and the equally magnificent refreshments which I believe they had to re-stock the bar completely the day (well it felt that way the next day). The bus driver for the day was an absolute gentleman, as he got us there safely and made sure we all got home safely. Thanks to our sponsors for the day SGM (Brian Goodie & Ewan Theal) and the Henderson Finance (Ian Henderson).

Thank you gentlemen you looked after us superbly, and it was a pleasure to be in your company for a good social day, and we look forward to continuing this partnership next year. Thanks.

Last, but not least, Course Manager, Davy Coull, and his team for having the course in great shape considering the weather we had on the run up to the tournament. Well done lads all credit to you all. We would also like to thank our team at bigga.org.uk for giving us so many prizes for our raffle table. If it wasn’t for these guys we wouldn’t be able to have such a good raffle at our outings so thanks once again to all of you.

It was also nice to have Peter Boyd our Regional Administrator in attendance on the day. Peter, you are most welcome to our events throughout the year and have been a great help while having some very good scoring on the day in very testing conditions so well done to all who played round and all the prize winners on the day.

The spring outing to Brechin GC started off with a wet and breezy day, but most people were happy as some rain at last and much fertilising had been done in the previous days. As the day wore on the weather got better and most got round a good day.

Andy Wilson and his staff had the course in great shape especially after the awful winter we had endured. We are indebted to Andy and all at Brechin for a great day out for the 74 members, staff and guests who attended.

Well that’s it all for this month and hopefully we have not missed anything if we have let me know on all the usual numbers or you can e-mail me, so that it till next month with news and results from the summer tournament from Dun's GC.

Chris Yeanan.

Visit Brighouse Bay on September 27, for our autumn outing. Thanks to all at Brechin for your patience on this matter and we look forward to our visit.

The rescheduled spring outing was held at Rottenburn Golf Club, in Langs, on May 15. This was necessary because of Foott and Mouth disease close to our original venue of Bishopton Golf Club. We will now visit East Kilbride Golf Club for our autumn outing. Thanks to all at Bishopton for your patience on this matter and we look forward to our visit.

Northen Scotland had a small but impressive turnout of the hardened regulars and a couple of new faces. An enjoyable day was had by all in the pleasant weather. Thanks goes to North Ayrshire Leisure Trust for allowing us to use the course for the day, Colin Sutherland and his staff, for presenting the golf course.

Other prize winners were Robert Bruce (trade prize), G. Brun, longest drive, L. Wilson nearest the pin & J. Gowan visitor’s prize. It was good to see a good turnout all the same.

Those who read the Section news will remember me writing in the April report about the offer of a place at BTME next year made by Mike Dooneer of Thermique Landscapes, tw an assistant or trainee who is a member of BIGGA. To win this great prize the committee decided an essay competition be used to throw open the prize to all West Section assistants and trainees. Central

What's happened this month? No new members to welcome, this is the first time we have failed to increase our numbers this year, surely there are still a good number of greenkeepers within our area who are not members and don't know what they are missing. So let's make sure we welcome some new faces soon.

There is not great deal of newsgos- siptinformation whatever to report at the moment as everyone seems to be too busy trying to combat this appalling weather we have been experiencing so far this year, we are only two weeks away from the longest day and the wind is blowing like mad, it's raining, there are hailstones and frost is forecast for tomorrow. Who would be a Greenkeeper? Still it will soon be time for Harrogate again!

Discussions are taking place with regard to the venue for this year's AGM, but at the moment nothing has been finalised so I can only give you a clue as to its whereabouts. The location is referenced to in one of Phil Collins's songs (I've been thinking, well almost!) if anyone can work it out then send the answer to me on a post card and you will win a much sought after prize of a free ticket for next year's "Club 2000". Speaking of which, the tickets for next year's draw will be arriving with you shortly, I can just hear you all saying "I must remember to send John the money for my tickets this time." Well the 240 members who forgot last time! Next year's draw will be an even bigger bargain than before with the cost of the tickets being reduced by £1 to £5, but the prize money will remain the same. Now there is bad can it, something coming down in price.

Entry forms for the Autumn Tournament at Murrayshall on Thursday, September 27 will also be arriving shortly, and as the maximum number of entries will be 50, if you wish to play and test your golfing ability over one of the most scenic and testing new courses in Scotland, please get your entries in pronto!

Glenelagles Chapter

Just a brief note this time to keep you all updated on the student chapter's progress after our inclusion within BIGGA as discussed in May's issue.

Last month (May 21) we attended a lecture here at Glenelagles hosted by Dr. Joe Duich. For those who are unfamiliar with the name, Dr. Duich is Technical Advisor and Consultant for TEE-2-GREEN in the USA. Prior to this appointment, Dr. Duich was Professor of Turfgrass Science at Penn State University for more than 36 years. While at Penn State he played a major role in the development of Pencross Creeping Bentgrass, which was released in 1955. Pencross was the first advanced creeping bentgrass cultivar exclusively for golf course use, and since then he has gone on to develop Penneagle and Penlinks Bentgrasses in conjunction with Penn State and TEE-2-GREEN. Dr. Duich remains a consultant to Augusta Golf Club and is renowned for his forward thinking on Bentgrass development.

The talk started with the history of the turf care programme at Penn State and how development is financed and progressed. Dr. Duich then talked about genetics, choosing seed, watering and fertilisation. Finally the point which he could not emphasise enough was the value communication and networking. He was visiting Glenelagles with John Bradwell, from Turf Seed UK, to show new material which is at the development stage to the Glenelagles Golf Maintenance team who will be evaluating and commenting on the merits of these new Bentgrasses.

Students are going to have an opportunity to run trials and maintain these new developments by aiding in the construction, maintenance and management of a new test site.

Other student news involves Glenelagles looking into the possibility of employing three Chinese students for seasonal work, the students who attend Elmwood College in Fife are over here on work experience and are training to teach turfgrass management to colleges in China when they return. The students would gain invaluable experience and it gives them a chance to put all their theory into practice in a championship working environment and equally important it allows the student chapter to develop links and contacts with one of the fastest growing golf markets in the world.

North Wales

Sorry about lack of notes last month I was on me hols. I met Paul Massey in Corfu airport and he was telling me about his problems and vice versa. What a year, no spring, just the longest winter on record and then a flamin' heatwave, my poa has been laying in water for seven months and then gets waterlogged. It had no chance! The Bent's have been happily growing away making some of the most uneven putting surfaces this side of the moon. If I threw top dressing on it would be fusarium city. Great job this greenkeeping world!

Due to various reasons the annual Gem sponsored N. Wales vs N. West match was cancelled. However Gem will still be looking to sponsor the event again next year. We are very much looking forward to go along side the one we won against the opposition of not just the N. West but the Midlands as well in the inaugural Sportsworld sponsored event. Remember Bert, that Gem Shield is ours, and you only won it through default, because we have obviously got the best golfing team bar none.

Just one last shout to Andy Campbell and his team I hope it all went well for your British Seniors event and to Roger Perry and his team for the Welsh Seniors open and to all of you poor unfortunate fools out there that decided that greenkeeping in this climate was a good career decision.

North-West

Not much happening in the N/W section, or so I assume, because nobody has contacted me with any news, good or bad. Further afield the staff at The Belfry must be congratulated on the wonderful condition of the course for the recent Tour tournament, because they like everybody else must have suffered problems with the course, brought on by the atrocious weather over the last 12 months. Fortunately the weather picked up and allowed them to produce a course that was a credit to them, and British greenkeepers.

The next Section golf is the "Roses" match against the Northern Section at Sandmoor Golf Club, on Wednesday, August 22. I will require a team of 16 to win the Pattisson Trophy. If you are available contact me as soon as possible.

Education? Each month the education page in the magazine gives lists of courses available at Regions and HQ.

If you feel there is a subject that particularly interests you, let me know and, through our Education Officer, Ken Richardson, we can arrange a venue for a course in our Region.

Before I finish how about Liverpool Football Club getting the treble. Worthington Cup, FA Cup, and the UEFA Cup. Not bad stuff (That should get my phone ringing).

The Roses Match against the North West Section which we are proudly

www.bigga.org.uk/events.html

It can drive its 6" tines, solid or hollow, at a faster rate than any other aerator, which makes it the perfect machine for high speed runs down the fairway and for even shorter work on the greens.

The new Mustang joins the market-leading range of Verti-Drains that have outsold and outperformed all competitors for the past 20 years.

And, with an aerator to suit virtually every application, it's the widest range available anywhere.

But one word of caution.

The new Mustang is fast; so fast that you may get done in a flash.

Contact us now for further information or a demonstration of the new Verti-Drain Mustang on 01428 661222.
