Welcome

NO KNOWN CURE

Most years around this time we allude to Augusta Syndrome in the pages of Greenkeeper International. This month, however, we have gone one stage further and featured it as a major issue. Incidentally I hope you like our cover, drawn by award winning cartoonist Tony Husband. We have an article with highly respected golf commentator, Peter Alliss, who has been visiting Augusta National for almost 40 years and who has strong views on the course, while Assistant Editor, Gareth Jones, has been canvassing opinion on the subject for this month's Talking Heads.

You may ask why it has taken until 2005 to tackle an issue which has been at the forefront of the minds of many greenkeepers for many years, and which genuinely does cause headaches within the Maintenance Facilities of clubs up and down the country.

You'll be glad to hear that I can answer that. As it is discussed in our own magazine there is a danger that we would leave ourselves open to the line, "We would say that wouldn't we." In other words it could be seen as the magazine equivalent of whining to each other say that wouldn't we. In other words it could be seen as the magazine equivalent of whining to each other.

However, having had the chance to speak with Peter Alliss, a man who is known and respected by television-watching golfers the world over, his views, as expressed in Greenkeeper International, would be of real interest to golf club members.

With that in mind it might be worth leaving your copy of the magazine in the clubhouse for a while or photocopying the front cover and the Peter Alliss and Talking Heads pieces and pinning them to the notice board.

You never know, it might allow for some balanced discussion within the membership at a time when the usual Augusta debate rages and perhaps it may raise awareness of unrealistic expectations within golf clubs. If the articles are seen by the membership you might just make a few converts, or at the very least silence a few critics for a while.

Unfortunately Augusta Syndrome does exist but I don't believe that many club members - although they are a major factor in its existence - have ever heard of it. Perhaps that's no surprise as they are not the people who succumb to AS, it's only greenkeepers who are afflicted and there is no known cure.

However, having Peter Alliss talk about it and say that expecting a regular British course to be like Augusta National is about as realistic as thinking you can live in Buckingham Palace carries much more weight than Kerran Daly, John Pemberton or Scott MacCallum saying exactly the same thing.

To many golfers, "If Peter says it, it must be true." That says much for the esteem in which Peter is held.

That's no surprise as the people who succumb to AS, it's only greenkeepers who are afflicted and there is no known cure.

Scott MacCallum, Editor

PRIZE GIVING TRACTORS

The BTME & ClubHouse Banquet had a unique twist this year, as all the guests were given a model of a Carraro Tractor, as part of the company's sponsorship of the evening, which marked the end of the Exhibition.

Tickets were hidden in three of the tractors and Stephen Cabrol, of Carraro UK, was on hand to present the three lucky winners, who found these tickets in their tractor, with their prizes.

EXTRA POSITION FOR GTC DIRECTOR

The Greenkeepers' Training Committee Education Director, David Golding, has been appointed Vice Chairman of Lantra's Landscaping Industry Group. Lantra is the Sector Skills Council for the environmental and land-based sector and the GTC has been a member of the landscaping industry group for nearly 10 years. David's appointment follows former vice-chairman Eddie Wardrobe's promotion to Chairman of the group.

"I think the nomination is recognition for the GTC in its commitment to the promotion of education, training and qualifications to the golf club employers and greenkeepers it represents," said David.

"The GTC has worked with Lantra to develop, promote and implement the government framework of qualifications and apprenticeship schemes. "On behalf of the sector I will continue to work with all the relevant bodies and organisations to ensure that both employers and learners can access a quality range of qualifications from the increasingly popular vocational to the more academic awards."

THE RUNNING MAN

While many consider Sunday to be the day of rest, for one man Sunday April 17 will be anything but that. As countless people will be sitting down and tucking in to their traditional roast dinner Billy Merritt, of Beacon Park Golf Club, will be pushing his body to the limit as he runs the London Marathon.

Billy last ran the 26 mile course in 1997, completing it in just three hours and four minutes. The Beacon Park Head Greenkeeper is part of the Liverpool Running Club and is raising money for Marie Curie Cancer Care. Donations to this worthy cause are welcome and can be made by logging on to www.justgiving.com/daffodils.

Billy, 43, has now been running for 10 years and in that time has entered hundreds of races, including 10k, 10 mile and half marathons. The Marathon in the English Capital received a record 98,500 applications for the 2005 race, and Billy was one of the lucky athletes who successfully got through. The international event has been running since 1981, when just 7,747 individuals were accepted to race.

Billy has competed in numerous races in his 10 years of racing.

INTURF BOUNCES BACK

Turf producer Inturf has signed a new three year deal to sponsor Wilberfoss FC, who are in Division 1 of the York and District League, having won promotion last year.

“We’re delighted to get behind our local team this way,” said Stephen Edwards, Joint Managing Director of Inturf. “Sport at the grass roots is important for us all yet it’s remarkable to think that in the very same week that we teamed up with Wilberfoss we also signed up for turf orders with the likes of Everton and Burnley Football Clubs and Carnoustie and The Belfry Golf Courses. It’s an exciting time for our business, which celebrates its 20th Anniversary in May.”

The performance of nine Charterhouse Turf Machinery dealers has resulted in them being named as the company’s Target Breakers for the 2004 sales year.

The dealerships that surpassed their target sales levels are Ben Burgess Garden Equipment, FG Adamson & Son, Geo Brown Implements, Keith Morgan Mowers, New Forest Farm Machinery, Parks & Grounds Machinery, Campey Turf Care Systems, Rickerby and Tomlinson Groundcare.

Representatives from the nine Target Breakers recently attended a special presentation ceremony with Philip Threadgold, Managing Director of Charterhouse Turf Machinery. Also in attendance was Cees de Bree, of Holland-based Redexim, Charterhouse’s parent company.

Two special awards were made in recognition of particularly outstanding performance. Keith Morgan Mowers were named as Charterhouse Dealer of the Year, and David Common scooped the Charterhouse Salesman of the Year Award.

Golf Tee Signs has appointed Charmian Robinson as Sales and Marketing Manager for the UK, with the aim of increasing the market share of Golf Tee Signs in the golf and Leisure signage market.

Charman has many years experience in promoting machinery and associated products to the Golf and Amenity markets. For the past year she has been employed by Golf Tee Signs as a Marketing and Publicity Agent, resulting in a significant increase in sales and general awareness of the company within the market.

“We felt that there was a requirement for a more coordinated sales and marketing strategy that required the expertise of someone with a broader perspective of the sales potential,” said Simon Challoner, owner of Golf Tee Signs.

“Charmian has a vast knowledge of the golf and associated industries and has proved that she can generate enquiries not just in the golf sector, but in other markets as well. We welcome her to our management team and look forward to even greater success in the future.”

Eastern Garden Machinery, based in Gorey on Jersey, has taken on Tracmaster’s BCS Dealership for the island of Jersey.

Tracmaster’s Managing Director, Stephen Pitt, said: “We are delighted to welcome Bob Messervy and Eastern Garden Machinery to our growing team of BCS and Camon Dealers. We are currently looking to expand our Dealer Network as we are changing the way we trade in the UK. We propose to offer our entire BCS and Camon range through Dealers.”

SUPATURF GO ORGANIC

Supaturf Products Limited and Sport Organics Limited have entered into a sales and marketing partnership for the products and services offered by Sports Organics. The new arrangement provides Supaturf Products Limited with complimentary sales and services for the local authority and sports turf market.

Marcus Palmer, Supaturf’s Managing Director said: “With our sales team’s activity in the local authority and sports turf market we will be able to provide our customers with a wider package of products and services. Sports Organics has developed products that provide sports turf and amenity managers with powerful management tools in the form of Plan IT and technically proven alternative methods to current drainage methods.”

“ This new venture is very exciting and enables our technologies and services to be exposed to a broad, targeted audience through the Supaturf sales team,” explained Justin Smith, of Sports Organics.
ETESIA AND SGM ANNOUNCE PARTNERSHIP

Etesia and Scottish Grass Machinery have announced a new partnering agreement between the two companies.

Under the arrangements SGM Hire’s customers nationwide will now be able to contract hire new Etesia machines.

“While Etesia is heading this venture nationally, all machines will be supplied though our local specialist dealer network in order to maintain our high standards of supply and back-up. We are very pleased to be taking a proactive role in this partnership which we believe will make Etesia products more widely available to end users,” explained Les Malin, Etesia UK’s General Manager.

SGM have also signed an agreement to distribute Yamaha golf cars and utility vehicles in Scotland. In the past 3 months SGM has signed up distribution agreements with CLAAS UK, Shibaura and Kioti.

“In building this business, our focus has always been to add top quality names to the list of manufacturers we represent and, with Yamaha, we have certainly achieved that,” said David Mdnroy, Chairman of Scottish Grass Machinery.

NEW HEADLAND DISTRIBUTORS

Headland Amenity has appointed Stewartsturf Ltd as the company’s main distributor for Scotland. Based in Mayfield, Dalkeith, south of Edinburgh, Stewartsturf is a family company with over 100 years in the Amenity Turf Market.

“Stewartsturf has built a sound reputation over many years and developed an impressive coverage,” said Headland’s Andy Russell. “The key thing for us is that they understand our products more widely available to end users,” explained Les Malin, Etesia UK’s General Manager.

NEW ROLE FOR MCGILVRAY

Duncan McGilvray, Divisional Manager of Power Products, Yamaha Motor (UK) Ltd, commented: "We are confident that the sales, service and support network established by SGM in Scotland will provide a major boost for our products north of the border and we look forward to a long, mutually rewarding business relationship with SGM."

In March we placed the incorrect photo of Lee Strutt MG into the Tip of the Month. We wish to remedy this now.

SEVENTH HEAVEN FOR PATTERSON

St Andrews Links Trust has appointed a Head Greenkeeper for its seventh course, which is being created just outside St Andrews.

Allan Patterson, Head Greenkeeper on the Kings, Queens and Wee courses at Gleneagles, will oversee the construction, opening and long-term development of the cliff top course.

The appointment was made following a thorough selection process involving over 70 applicants from as far a field as Australia, Canada and the USA. The decision, as the Trust’s Links Superintendent Gordon Moir indicates, was based on Allan’s experience and knowledge.

“Allan has the desired greenkeeping skills to develop a golf project of this size and quality. His experience at Gleneagles combined with his ability will help ensure that the new course complements the broad range of golfing experiences available at St Andrews.”

Allan held the position of Head Greenkeeper at Gleneagles for seven years following an apprenticeship that saw him take on a variety of roles including Deputy Head Greenkeeper and Assistant Greenkeeper at the resort. Prior to this, Allan spent nine years at Powfoot Golf Club, Dumfriesshire.

His appointment at St Andrews Links is a move that the 38 year old greenkeeper is relishing: “This is a great opportunity to work at the Home of Golf. The course design is fantastic and the location couldn’t be better. It promises to be an outstanding golf course.”

At over 7,000 yards, the seventh public course at St Andrews is being created in response to demand on the existing Links courses where approximately 210,000 rounds are played every year. Designed by David McLay Kidd, the new course is expected to open in 2007.

Duncan McGilvray with Kerin Conn, Marketing Manager, Haztek International

Duncan’s role will be as Sales and New Business Manager for the UK and Europe and he will be looking to expand the company into new areas. "I am thrilled about Duncan’s appointment to the team. He has over 30 years experience in greenkeeping and golf club management and will be a valuable addition to the company. His expertise and contacts within the industry will enhance our operations to a large extent," said Jennard Winter, Haztek Director.

Duncan added: "With the advent of Health and Safety legislation the need for simple, robust, Health and Safety systems has become paramount. I am looking forward to the new challenge not only from a personal viewpoint, but also in doing my bit for the industry as a whole in ensuring safer places for people to work and play golf.”
PROMOTION FOR DAVID ROBERTS

David Roberts has been appointed Sales and Marketing Manager of Kubota UK Limited’s tractor and groundcare division. Taking on responsibility for directing the sale and marketing of tractors, tractor attachments and ride-on mowers for the Thame, Oxfordshire based business, David had been previously the company’s Sales Manager. In his new integrated role, David’s principal responsibility is to ensure the effective distribution, sale and support of Kubota agricultural and horticultural products by the company’s appointed dealer network in the United Kingdom and Ireland.

David joined Kubota’s sales office in 1989, having gained higher education qualifications in agricultural engineering. During the 1990’s David worked both as Distribution Manager and then a Regional Sales Manager for Kubota UK before becoming the company’s Sales Manager in 2002. “My intention is that the name Kubota becomes a by-word not solely for product quality but also for customer service and support, building on the excellent dealer network that we have appointed throughout the UK and Ireland,” said David.

SOUTH COAST SEMINAR SUCCESS

The South Coast Section held its annual seminar at Canford Magna Golf Club in February. The seminar is part of the BIGGA Continue to Learn Programme and the close working relationship with Ken Richardson and Sami Collins has seen it continue to develop and become a huge success.

As well as receiving sponsorship from BIGGA, the day was also sponsored by Farmura and Bredy Irrigation Services and received excellent support from both the GTC and the R&RA. The day had 110 delegates and was sold out well in advance with a long reserve list too.

The theme was ‘A natural golf course’ and was promoting traditional greenkeeping and a sustainable golf course. Jim Arthur, who chaired the day, opened the proceedings. The morning saw three excellent presentations from Rungsted Golf Club’s Course Manager, Ian Tomlinson, Royal Cinque Ports’ Course Consultant, Gordon Irvine, and Temple Golf Club’s Course Consultant, Malcolm Peake. The afternoon session saw two more excellent presentations from Tyrell Wood’s Course Manager, Billy McMillan, and BIGGA National Chairman Kerran Daly.

MACMILLAN QUALIFIES AS PARALEGAL

Ian MacMillan, of the Scottish Central Section, has recently qualified as a Fellow of the Society of Specialist Paralegal. Ian, Course Manager at Murrayshall Hotel and Golf Courses, has gained the specialist degree in order that he could aid other greenkeepers who are having difficulties in their employment on top of the BIGGA Legal Helpline.

Ian sailed through the degree course, completing it in just six months and the Headman was the only student out of the 38 sitting the exams that was not practising law as a profession.

COLLEGE ACHIEVES EXCELLENCE

Plumpton College has achieved full status as the Centre of Vocational Excellence (CoVE) for Rural Business Management Training, after a year of developmental work. The award has brought with it over £500,000 of investment from the Learning and Skills Council to the colleges.

In recognition of this achievement, Plumpton has invested in a fully equipped training centre, The Sussex Rural Business Centre, which enables the College to deliver courses and seminars tailored to rural business needs. “This has been an important development in the future direction of the College,” said Des Lambert, Principal of Plumpton College.

EDWARDS TAKES OVER

Past Chairman Chris Carr (left) hands the Chairmanship of the TGA to Stephen Edwards

Stephen Edwards, of Inturf, has taken over the Chairmanship of the Turfgrass Growers Association when members gathered in Cardiff for its AGM recently.

"I'm committed to the turf industry as a whole, not just those growers who choose to be members of the TGA," commented Stephen. "As Chairman I plan to encourage the TGA council to work proactively with existing members to encourage new membership and to promote its benefits to both the grower and the end-user."
David Golding emphasises both the role and importance of the employer in greenkeeper training.

The ‘employer’ at golf clubs has been the topic of many a conversation during my years involved in the sector.

The Home Unions have continually tried to engage employers by hosting seminars and workshops during recent years that have included a wide range of subjects all aimed at ensuring the most up to date information is available to the affiliated clubs they represent. The GTC has the English, Scottish and Welsh Golf Unions’ representatives as Board Members and I am aware of their frustrations when delegate numbers for many of their events have been disappointing.

In Britain we are fortunate that the Unions do play an active role in terms of supporting greenkeeper education through their funding support to the GTC and their pro-active Golf Course Committees or Services Committee. I know it is a responsibility the Home Unions take very seriously and they are always looking for new ideas on how to ensure the employer is supported in all the key matters relating to the management of the golf club and course.

The Royal & Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, the major funding body of the GTC, has also been very active in its efforts to support golf clubs by establishing a Golf Course Committee with a full time Secretary. Steve Isaac, continually trying to share good practice with golf clubs. The uptake on registrations on the www.bestcourseforgolf.org website is very encouraging and I am sure, once a club has registered, many of the checklists will need the Course Manager’s input successfully to complete many of the categories. Please check if your club has registered and, if they have, who is responsible for updating the progress. I urge all Course Managers to become involved in the R&A initiative to assist clubs in accessing best practice and principles for golf course maintenance and management.

One major problem we seem to have is in identifying the ‘employer’ at the majority of our clubs. I believe this accounts for much of the frustration from Course Managers, who often feel they cannot maximise their own knowledge and experience due to the fact that they are not able to liaise directly with the employer.

Often a club will give the Secretary/Manager overall responsibility for the day to day administrative running of the club including the golf course but, while there has to be someone identified as the overall Manager, they too are an employee and I believe there should be a mutual respect between the Secretary and the Course Manager for each other’s responsibilities. The Course Manager’s position can often be a lonely one but hopefully through training and experience they can also educate the club to be active in their support for staff development as well as supplying adequate resources to implement agreed policies.

The policies now include matters such as Health & Safety, the environment and course maintenance principles. These should all be embraced by a club policy document, which must be approved by the membership. The membership must have the confidence to allow the Course Manager to manage the course and this is why management training is made available to give greenkeepers the confidence and competence to add to their greenkeeping skills and knowledge.

At the proprietary clubs it is obviously the owner who is responsible for all the issues and decisions to be made to ensure the desired standards both on and off the course are maintained. However at resort type courses it is often the General Manager and the Course Manager who liaise on behalf of the owners, whoever they might be, working together to an agreed budget which is often a recipe for a business like approach to producing an all round product which customers require.

Is this then the way forward for our traditional golf clubs? Do we need to keep talking about the missing ‘employer’ or should Course Managers be allowed to manage the course in line with the agreed policies liaising with the Manager as and when necessary?

It has to be said that some clubs do have excellent Chair of Green/Green Convenor and those who have been sufficiently interested in remaining in the post more than a year or so often prove to be ideal employers. I think Mr J. H. Arthur B.Sc. may well have got it right with his quote: “The best committees consist of an uneven number, and three is too many.” While those of us continue to promote this ideal let us try to encourage that one person, hopefully strong in character, to take on the responsibility of the employer.

In the past I have heard from Course Managers who feel that their Chair of Green should not be encouraged to educate themselves in turf maintenance. We all know the dangers of the ‘surrogate Course Manager’ role but somebody has to be identified as the employer. We all know the problems associated with the ever changing Chair of Green/Green Convenor at some clubs, but maybe if when appointed they were registered onto the first available STRI short course specifically designed to give an overview of best principles for maintaining a golf course, this might encourage more to enjoy their position and to be more understanding of the work of his/her Golf Course Manager.

It is also so important that Course Managers and Head Greenkeepers take every opportunity to keep their own professional development updated so they can manage the golf course and not have to rely on someone else to carry out that role. The excellent management training courses organised by BIGGA all address the key areas of effective communication and tutors are appointed because of not only their credentials as trainers in management skills but also their empathy for the role of the Golf Course Manager.

The numbers of people who I would describe as typically knowledgeable, experienced Head Greenkeepers who have attended a short management course and returned for more sessions because they got so much out of the course are countless. Do you take advantage of these courses? If not, if you see your role as a Manager please consider this option for your personal development as they can be both enjoyable but also inspirational.

It seems that the debate will go on, with most traditional clubs still preferring the committee rule structure, but one very pleasing aspect of my work for the GTC is that all bodies involved in golf have never worked closer together in an attempt to provide information to clubs.
Unlock the doors to progress through BIGGA’s Education and Development Fund - the key to a great future for greenkeepers, golf clubs and the game of golf.

FREE Training

It’s not often that you can get anything for free, however, free training is available for golf greenkeepers. The first way of obtaining free training is to enrol your trainee onto an apprenticeship. Contact your local training Council (LSC) office for further details.

Free training is available in other parts of the country for all trainees. I mentioned a scheme in the Midlands in a previous article and South Yorkshire has become the most recent area to offer this deal. Again, contact your local LSC office for details.

BIGGA Education and Development Fund

BIGGA has been able to produce a wide range of training support material and to subsidise training courses thanks to the generous contributions made to its Education and Development Fund. Over the past year, more than £25,000 has been used to subsidise Regional and Section Seminars and Conferences and to subsidise local training courses.

Many greenkeepers, who have had to pay their own fees, have benefited from the Refund of Fees Scheme and we have awarded a contract to produce the long awaited Training and Development Manual.

We are very grateful for the contributions made by companies and by individuals to the Education and Development Fund. However, if you wish to contribute or you know of a company or individual who is interested in joining the Fund then please let me know.
