Never stop learning!

Says Ed Ramey, who got his advanced degree from the school of hard knocks

BY JOEL JACKSON, CGCS

Frank Sinatra’s song “My Way” seems like a fitting theme for Ed Ramey’s career. Born in Logan, W.Va. in an era that preceded well-publicized turf programs.

After graduating from Chapmansville High School, Ed served in the Marine Corps from 1955-1959. He earned his advanced degree in the school of hard knocks. He learned his trade by hands-on methodology, as did so many of our pioneering peers.

He fell in love with golf and he pursued it from PGA apprentice to golf course construction and management.

Finally, when the expansion of turf education caught up with the pioneers who had been out there blazing trails for the rest of us, Ed fine-tuned his practical knowledge of turf management with courses at Palm Beach Community College in 1973.

Ed Ramey is not your prototype superintendent. Once, at Keys Gate G.C. he designed the course, and then served as superintendent, golf professional, and golf director! Ed was used to serving in several capacities at most of his courses. That makes him unique in his time, but more and more superintendents are finding themselves in project management positions as their talents are recognized and utilized.

Ed was a PGA apprentice for eight years. His dream had been to become a touring pro. About the time a young Arnold Daniel Palmer was winning his first PGA tournament, William Edward Ramey realized that he was not going to join Arnie on the tour. When he found out that Arnold’s dad was a superintendent, a new direction in golf opened up for him.

“I started out in this business as a caddie and I decided that one day I would love to build a course from the ground up. That dream came true in 1972 when I helped construct the Carolina Club, originally called Holiday Springs C.C.

“One of my fondest memories of my career is taking that jungle and transforming it into a beautiful golf course, and seeing the enjoyment of the people who played the course.”

“The best thing about this business is the people you meet and associate with. Not too many professions give you the opportunity to travel to different parts of the country and see the many sides of a golf course. I have enjoyed this profession more than any other type of work I have done. Nothing is as great as the sun on the dew at daybreak!”

For young people or anyone interested in the turf industry, Ed had this advice, “Get as much hands on experience as you can! If you decide to go on and become a superintendent, then get as much education as you can!. Never stop learning! Today, with all the regulations, you must keep up!”

And for someone like Ed, who did keep up, there is the President’s Award.
As Time Goes By

BY ED RAMEY

As time goes by, so does the greenskeeper. In the early years, he was known as the keeper of the greens. He had no computers, automated systems, or the like. He relied on his ability to accomplish his daily tasks.

He arose early every morning. He got his hands dirty. He took great pride in his work. This man was a jack-of-all-trades. He was an operator, mechanic, sprayman, and waterman. More than likely, he was overworked, understaffed, not often recognized by his members, and his peers were scattered. This man could build a golf course from the seat of his pants, and he did some very nice courses.

As time goes by, we acquire a vast amount of knowledge of our profession, and our memberships benefit from this knowledge. We have access to modern technology and science, but let’s not overlook the human factors. Every once and awhile we should take a good look at ourselves. Do you go out of your way to say thank you to your staff for a job well done? Get out in the dew! Get your feet wet and let your staff see you! Let them know you appreciate the job they do!

The modern superintendent has to be a very well-educated businessman. We have come a long way in a short time. Let’s all continue to learn and grow.

“I never had a day that I did not want to go to the job. It has been a great life”
