The grass and grounds of these famous places are just as important as the structure or complex itself. That's why knowledgeable turf superintendents insist on specially formulated PAR EX Professional Products.

IBDU releases nitrogen slowly, earlier in the spring, evenly through the summer, and carries nitrogen response later into the fall. Famous places like the park surrounding the St. Louis Arch, Deere & Company Corporate Headquarters and 53 of the nation's top 100 golf courses* are currently using PAR EX Professional Products. These include Muirfield Village Golf Club, Jack Nicklaus' home course, as well as most of the other courses he has designed.

Shouldn't you consider PAR EX with IBDU for your special place? Contact a PAR EX distributor and let him recommend a PAR EX program just for your grounds.

PAR EX and IBDU are products of Estech, Inc. Professional Products Division, P.O. Box 512, Winter Haven, FL 33882-0512.

President's Message

Professionalism of the Florida Golf Course Superintendent has evolved from the 50's through the 80's and is now ready to take on the 1990's.

Florida golf in the 50's and early 60's was a game of leisure for a very few. There were far less than 100 courses and the golfing season was 2 or 3 months at most. Budgets were a few thousand dollars; equipment, chemicals and fertilizer varieties were few. Courses were maintained by Greenskeepers with low salaries and there were few demands from the golfer.

During the late 1960's, 70's and 80's, retiring snowbirds came to Florida by the thousands, many because of golf. Today there are nearly 900 courses and golf is recognized as one of Florida's leading economic industries.

The demand for top quality golf courses began and persists today throughout the state. The "Greenskeeper" evolved into the "The Golf Course Superintendent" and then on to "Golf Course Manager." His responsibilities included care of multi-million dollar golf courses with budgets in excess of 1/2 million dollars annually. Old maintenance barns evolved into highly organized maintenance complexes. The low maintenance practices of years gone by changed to high maintenance, highly-groomed golf course facility for a non-stop, twelve month season. The golfer's demands became many and management salaries rose accordingly.

Today's Professional Golf Course Manager operates a highly organized maintenance operation in compliance with the demands of golfers and owners, various federal and state regulatory bodies, such as OSHA, EPA — Water Management Districts — and his own professional trade organizations. He met these demands by his own professional desire to achieve and by constantly furthering his education by attending seminars on management, accounting, computers, budgeting and forecasting, golf rules, communication techniques, turfgrass, golf cart operations, negotiating, plant nutrition, irrigation, business writing, pathology, and on and on.

Today's aggressive golf course manager is unquestionably a member of a learned profession.
That’s right! All of us have seen it before — that unacceptable area in our fairways or lawn. Just as important, an area where chemicals have been over-applied and a burned condition exists, and that can mean extra work for you. It’s difficult to spray accurately and consistently on golf courses because every golf course is made up of countless slopes, contours, and bends. But with Blazon™ Spray Pattern Indicator you can take the guesswork out of spraying, forever.

All you do is add Blazon™ right to your spray tank; it’s totally compatible with the chemicals you use. It reduces lost time by quickly identifying a clogged nozzle, untreated or overlapped areas. In addition, Blazon™ is temporary and non-staining. Blazon™ Spray Pattern Indicator is the new solution to a never-ending problem. So contact the distributor nearest you for the product that has taken an art and turned it into a science— "The Professional Solution for Professionals"...
For Maximum Emergence And Seedling Establishment, Ask For APRON Treated Turfgrass Seed.

Apron, a systemic seed treatment fungicide, works on contact to control Pythium on the outer surface of turfgrass seed.

As the seed starts to germinate, Apron is systemically translocated throughout the entire growing seedling. Since Apron systemically protects young plants from Pythium infection, you get maximum emergence and seedling establishment. This allows you more maintenance time for your green and tee establishment program.

After seedlings are established, it is recommended that you follow up with fungicide treatments of Subdue* to maintain Pythium control in turf.

Call your seed distributor and ask for Apron treated seed for all your professional turfgrass plantings.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Dan, Well, it's nice to be back in Florida and I hope you and your family have a great 1986.

Many, many thanks to you and the other members of the GCSAA Communications and Awards Committee for the Special Recognition Award presented in San Francisco on Thursday, January 30, 1986. It is truly a great professional honor which will be treasured always and thanks for your friendship.

I have a lot of fun writing the continuing series "Something Old — Something New" and look forward to writing it for many years to come. It's been exciting visiting other superintendents all over the country and learning new ideas about golf maintenance perfection. We are really true professionals.

Dan, again, thank you very much and am looking forward to seeing you in Florida real soon.

Have a good day.

Kindest regards,
R. Terry Buchen, CGCS
Golden Eagle Golf Club, Inc.

Dear Dan:

I would like to take this opportunity to introduce myself to you with the hope of The Florida Green highlighting our Club in one of your issues.

I have been assigned as Public Relations Director for El Conquistador Country Club here in Bradenton and aside from the fact that we have one of the best courses on the west coast of Florida, I would like to do a good job for the Club in projecting our image. I have read your magazine and I believe we have a story to tell. Just for your information, I am enclosing a copy of a press release recently issued detailing our new irrigation system. Our course has never looked better, we have a great Greens Superintendent and I think you'll find us interesting!

I would really appreciate the opportunity to talk with someone regarding the possibility of doing an interview/story and if there is anything on my end which needs to be done, please let me know.

You've got a great publication and I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Thanks!

Sincerely,
Sara J. Moniz, Public Relations Department
