Ford Lauderdale’s Fairchild Garden to host first international conference on palm horticulture

FORT LAUDERDALE — The First International Symposium on palm horticulture will be Oct. 5-6 in the Corbin Building at the Fairchild Tropical Garden, reputed to have one of the finest collections of mature palm species in the United States.

According to the University of Florida’s Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, co-sponsor, the symposium will present “the latest information on the cultivation of ornamental palms, with reports by industry and university leaders in mineral nutrition research of palms, pests and diseases, field production, seed germination, seed plantations, interiorscape use, landscape use and much more.”

Registration fee of $25 ($15 for members of Fairchild Tropical Garden or the International Palm Society) is payable no later than Sept. 1. Checks should be made payable to the University of Florida Foundation. Admission will be $10 higher at the door.

come down because, for the record, they have scored better against the ‘official’ course.

“Unless, of course, you compound the problem by setting the pins on the front edge of the greens. Remember, most of them are coming in there with woods!

“In fact, most women won’t even try an iron unless she has a carry of 75 yards or less,” Dye said.

“Five iron or nine iron, it doesn’t really make too much difference,” said Dye, whose 223 in the 1979 Senior Women’s Amateur still stands as the record. “I would hate to say this in front of a group of club manufacturers, but women tend to hit all their woods the same distance and all their irons the same distance.”

Throughout her presentation, Dye reminded her audience that she was advocating the construction of a second set of tees for women players, not moving the current set forward.

“Just as the men have a choice of three, and sometimes four, sets of tees,” she said, “the women should have some realistic choices, too.”

FGCSA board votes to fund technician at Fort Lauderdale

NAPLES — A Florida superintendent has become the second woman in the nation to become certified, the University of Florida’s Research and Education Center at Fort Lauderdale will get a turf technician and the FGCSA will oppose the establishment of a second community college program to train assistant superintendents.

Those were the items of general interest to come out of a five-hour FGCSA board meeting May 21 at which President Cecil Johnston announced that the herbicide Hoelon most likely will be labeled for special use in Florida.

Kim Hemauer, superintendent of the Oak Bridge CC in Ponte Vedra Beach, earned her certification early in April. Had the paperwork been completed a few days earlier, she would have beaten Terri Heaphy of Norfolk, Va., who became the nation’s first female certified golf course superintendent March 29.

The FGCSA board voted to pay half of a $60,000 proposal by the UF’s Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences to finance a turf technician for two years at the Fort Lauderdale Center if the Florida Turfgrass Association will fund the other half from the Florida Turfgrass Research Foundation.

Dennis Lyon, president of the Golf Course Superintendents Association of America, is flanked by FGCSA President Cecil Johnston, right, and Vice President Joel Jackson. Lyon said that, according to preliminary surveys, the international convention in Orlando next February will set an attendance record.
One of the technician's primary jobs will be to maintain playing conditions on a new 20,000-square-foot putting green to be built for research at the center with volunteer labor and donated materials.

The FTGA should have no trouble coming up with its half of the money, said Ray Hansen, FGCSA secretary-treasurer, since the FTGA's research foundation already is holding $13,000 donated by the South Florida GCSA and earmarked specifically for support of the new green.

"And we've raised another $14,000 this year that will be donated to the FTGA and earmarked for the same thing," said Hansen. "That means all you have to come up with is $3,000," he said to John Luper, FTGA president.

"I'm sure the (FTGA) board won't have any problem coming up with the $3,000 (out of the general fund) if it is sure that is what the Florida superintendents want," Luper said.

A poll of the external vice presidents — Gulf Coast and Suncoast chapters were not represented — indicated unanimous support.

Action on the community college issue came in response to preliminary inquiries by Palm Beach Community College and other institutions interested in starting programs modeled after the highly successful one at Lake City.

"It's very lucrative for the colleges because it is agri-business and they can get matching federal funds," said Kevin Downing, former FGCSA president and current chairman of the research committee.

"This is very premature," said one board member. "Lake City can graduate 50 assistant superintendents a year. Any more than that would flood the market."

"What is needed," said Downing, "is a program that would give credits that can be transferred to a four-year program at the University of Florida."

He also cited the need for short-term certificate programs for irrigation technicians, equipment operators, pesticide applicators and other skilled workers.

Palm Beach, Buckner win Poa Annua titles; scramble nets $4,300

NAPLES — Palm Beach won the team title, Marlon Buckner and Dick Harrell took the individual trophies and Glen Klauk and Mark Henderson won the scramble but the real winner of the Eighth Annual Poa Annua Classic May 20-22 will be a graduate student in turf research at the University of Florida.

Nearly $4,300 was raised by 116 players for the Dr. G.C. Horn Endowment Fund at the second annual Granny Horn Memorial Scramble, which kicked off activities of the three-day weekend sponsored by the Everglades Chapter at the Naples Beach Club and Hotel.

Horn, mentor of a generation of University of Florida turf students, was killed in an automobile accident in December, 1987. Proceeds from the endowment in his honor help finance graduate studies at the university.

Sandwiched in between the two tournaments was a five-hour seminar on architecture by Brian Silva and, for FGCSA board members, a four-plus meeting. The hundred-or-so others not involved in either Sunday’s official activities had the day for sand, surf and sightseeing before the annual buffet banquet.

What exactly is a budget?
A budget can be defined as a working plan showing the amount of funds needed to maintain the normal operation of an organization for a given period of time.

Budgets may be prepared on a quarterly, biannual or annual basis. From here on, I will be referring to an annual budget designed to be used by the golf course superintendent.

In order for a budget to be successful, it must be carefully planned. Not only is it important for a superintendent to formulate his budget accurately, he also must be able to sell it to his superiors.

The failing of a budget is most often due to improper preparation.

You can’t begin planning a budget by blindly guessing what your needs will be for the upcoming year. You must have facts to go on. This requires careful research and the use of as many resources as you can get your hands on. It’s also a good idea to start planning your budget as early as possible. This will give you plenty of time to gather all the information you need so that you will be prepared before the budget deadline.

When first preparing a budget, a superintendent’s primary objective should be to outline what he needs for the upcoming year. This is usually evident to the superintendent who has been at the same golf course for several years. For the superintendent who is creating a budget for the first time, this can be a real challenge. In either case, there are always some available resources to use.

Other things to consider are long-range projects including capital improvements for the next three to five years. Taking this

(Please see COMMITTEE, page 50)
Committee likely to approve a budget it helped write

into consideration may save you unnecessary costs in the meantime.

Take inventories. This tells you what you already have. Last year’s budget may have purchased items which will not be used up by the end of the fiscal year.

Make sure you find out what your superiors and membership expect to be covered in the budget. Be aware of any special events, projects or purchases which might be expected to come out of your budget.

After closely evaluating all areas mentioned above, you should have a fairly accurate account of what your budget needs will be for the upcoming year. It is also advisable to consider a contingency factor for each category which is applicable.

After you have established your proposal, your next step is to sell it to your greens committee and/or membership. By using a little tact and careful planning, you can bring the odds into your favor.

One approach to selling your budget is by having your greens chairperson or committee formulate it with you. By going over costs and expenditures together, you won’t be presenting any surprises come proposal time.

Let’s face it; a greens committee is going to be more apt to respond favorably towards a budget proposal that they helped formulate. Another advantage to this approach is that the greens committee is aware of any capital improvements or events in the planning stages, thus helping you out with the planning of this year’s and maybe even next year’s budget too.

But no matter what method you decide to use to sell your budget, the objective should always be the same: to make your proposal look as attractive as possible. Even the most thought-out budgets are useless unless they can be justified and approved.

The time spent preparing a budget can also be looked at as an investment. By careful planning, you may eliminate problems which might occur later, especially during the last months of the fiscal year.

By considering the guidelines mentioned above, you can greatly increase your chances of success in preparing a budget which will work for you.

Help is all around you...

Where can you get help? Here are some places to look for ideas:

- Previous budgets are always an excellent reference. If you prepared the previous budget, go over it and find out how accurate you were. If you made mistakes, find out why and compensate in those areas for the upcoming year.
- Key employees. They may have ideas which may help you.
- Club accountant may also assist you.
- Trade publications and periodicals also are good.
- Superintendents at neighboring golf courses, especially the more experienced ones who have been in your area for awhile.
