Chang began designing courses in the mid-1970s, developing real-estate plans and working golf courses into the designs as a green belt or open space. Designing a community with a course makes for "a very natural marriage," he said.

Chang said part of the reason for his excitement at being elected an associate member is the organization's work in proving "the benefits of golf courses to the environment, the social well-being and to the urban area as a whole. I feel thrilled to be a course designer."

Chang has been heavily involved with Patriots Point Golf Course in Charleston, S.C., Skidaway Island in Savannah, Ga., The Oaks in Sarasota, Fla., Lockwood Links in Ocean Isle, N.C., and Port Royal in Hilton Head, S.C.

Bob Cupp worked with Jack Nicklaus for two decades before moving out on his own several years ago, and has been designing courses from the United States to the United Kingdom.

Meanwhile, five architects were elevated from associate to regular members of the ASGCA. They are: Jaroslav Jiri Olmr of Dortmund, Germany, who assumed staff responsibilities at Stonecreek's management group; Steve Harker of American Golf Corp. in 1971 and recently pointed to the newly created post of national sales director for Operation in the San Diego region.
