Arnold Palmer Golf Management has signed an agreement to provide management services to the city of Sevierville, Tennessee, for Eagle's Landing Golf Club. The championship 18-hole golf course is scheduled to open in 1995.

NEW APPRAISERS PUBLICATION

The Society of Golf Course Appraisers decided to create an annual publication dealing with golf course topics during the association’s semi-annual meeting in San Francisco. The SGA also admitted Gerald Teel of Houston as a new member and held a roundtable discussion on a variety of golf course valuation and analysis issues.

CASPER TO MANAGE SWAN POINT

Billy Casper Golf Management has been retained by USX Realty Development for their project at Swan Point Yacht and Country Club in Southern Maryland. Located in the town of Bebe, the club is part of a Potomac waterfront community that will include 1200 single-family homes when completed and an 18-hole Bob Cupp-designed course.

CMAA SPONSORS HOLIDAY CAMPAIGN

The Club Managers Association of America (CMAA) is sponsoring the “ Clubs Collecting for Communities” national campaign to aid communities across the country during the holiday season. Each of CMAA’s 52 chapters will designate two charities and the “Toys for Tots” program as beneficiaries of the donations. Participating clubs are to be used as drop-off sights. Phase I, the food drive, is scheduled to start in mid-October and run until mid-November. Mid-November marks the start of Phase II, the clothing drive. The “Toys for Tots” drive, or Phase III, is scheduled to start the beginning of December. CMAA-member clubs raised $83 million for charity in 1991.

AGC PROMOTES HARKER

American Golf Corp. has named Steve Harker vice president of marketing and sales. Harker has been with AGC since 1971, most recently as director of marketing. AGC manages 145 golf facilities in 22 states.

BRIEFS

Investment pools growing as funding source

Millions raised for golf development and acquisitions

By PETER BLAIS

Multi-million-dollar investment pools formed solely to build and/or acquire golf courses are becoming increasingly important as a funding source in today's credit-short market.

The largest ones involve Stewart Financial Co. of Palm Springs, Calif., and a joint venture uniting Jack Nicklaus' Golden Bear International and Marriott Corp.

The Stewart pool involves $130 million in securities that a $12 billion European pension fund has guaranteed to buy on the London, Brussels and Hong Kong markets, according to principal Bob Stewart. The money will fund 8 to 10 golf course projects that could include housing, resorts, marinas, practice centers and other amenities.

Among those signing letters of intent and/or joint venture contracts, Stewart said, are projects in Washington, Oregon, Wisconsin, Chicago, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Mexico and Fresno, Calif. Projects in Virginia and North Carolina could be funded in this or a second pool, planned for early 1993, he added.

Pool money will finance 80 to 90 percent of the deals, Stewart said. Developers had to be willing to surrender substantial management control since investors are demanding a 60-percent equity position, he added. The remaining investment will be debt.

Stewart spent a year reviewing 200 proposals. Those making the cut had to have the land tied up through ownership or option, post the necessary environmental and building permits, guarantee investors at least a 16-percent return on investment and offer future profits through land transactions, all of the course, memberships or other means, he explained.

"It's unusual in that the funding is guaranteed if the criteria are met," Stewart said. The second conventional method of advising golf developers to avoid real estate in the still-depressed U.S. housing market, "We like the real estate component," said Stewart.

ClubCorp takes to the airways

By PETER BLAIS

ClubCorp's first television commercial has been very successful in increasing the company's visibility and attracting new business, according to Marketing Vice President Jerry Gelinas.

It aired during the NEC and PGA TOUR events and will again at the Liberty Mutual Legends of Golf (May 3-9, 1993) at Barton Creek Country Club & Resort in Austin, Texas, also a ClubCorp property.

The message is: "Some of the world's finest courses have one thing in common. They are all part of the ClubCorp family. ClubCorp. Where members set the standard."

The new commercial is part of ClubCorp's drive to increase public awareness of the company's golf courses.

Coffin employees bemoan lack of security

By PETER BLAIS

Employees remain frustrated over what they view as a lack of security at an Indianapolis municipal golf course where a man was killed during a September robbery attempt.

Wilbur L. Colen, 69, died from a gunshot wound to the chest while playing golf Sept. 6 at Coffin Golf Course. James L. Sears, 22, of Indianapolis has been charged with murder in connection with the incident, according to the Indianapolis Star.

A man reportedly approached Colen and two golfers at the 4th tee. The man pulled a gun and demanded their wallets. One of the golfers grabbed for the gun, a struggle ensued and Colen was shot.

The location where the shooting took place is at the far edge of the course. Golfers are visible from nearby Cold Spring Road.

Public sidewalks border much of the course and a jogging path runs through it. "It's an accident waiting to happen," head pro Forrest Jones told the Star. "Joggers, baby-walkers, golf balls. They don't mix." A vandalism complaint was filed with the police two years ago, Star reporter Eric Franklin said. Franklin added she had also heard reports of theft and harassment of golfers at the course.

Jones said youths hiding in the bushes have stolen golf balls and that vandalism has occurred at the clubhouse. A ranger position was eliminated earlier this year for budgetary reasons.

Rehiring the ranger and installing fences have been discussed with town officials, according to assistant pro Jeff King.

"We bring it up every year and they say 'We don't have the money.' We'll probably keep on talking until we're blue in the face, or there's a lawsuit," he said.

Appraiser says course owners asking too much

By PETER BLAIS

Are many golf course owners simply asking too much for their properties as potential buyers suggest?

Yes, according to Society of Golf Appraisers President Laurence Hirsh. Hirsh said many owners are still setting their asking price based on the late 1980s when "the Japanese threw piles of money at several U.S. courses."

"While foreign investors remain in the market for certain properties, they are not paying the outlandish prices they did a few years ago," the SGA official said. "The market has become more sophisticated and owners must rethink their asking prices accordingly," he added.

"Many owners believe golf courses are often undervalued and good buys for "someone who can operate them properly."

Several factors, Hirsh explained, contribute to lower prices down. Golf courses are management intensive; susceptible to weather, agronomic problems and

Golfers say water made water sick

By PETER BLAIS

CARLISLE, Pa. — A Cumberland County judge should decide by Thanksgiving whether to certify a class-action suit claiming people became ill after drinking contaminated water at Cumberland Golf Club.

The suit was filed by four people who say they and others suffered nausea, diarrhea, cramps and other symptoms from drinking the well water in July. They claim course owner Dan Mowery and his family were negligent for allowing the contamination, using the water to prepare food after the contamination was known and concealing possible contamination from the public.

"We've seen no evidence that water at the course caused them to get sick," said Tim Marks, Mowery's attorney.

Notices to boil water were posted July 21, shortly after routine tests revealed high fecal and total coliform levels in the well water, according to a Department of Environmental Resources spokeswoman. Bottled water and fresh ice were brought in to protect people, The Carlisle Sentinel reported.

George Faller, the plaintiff's attorney, said the contamination was discovered by water experts who tested results and that the Mowerys should have posted the boil water notices. Marks denied this.

Continued on page 27

Continued on page 27

Continued on page 26

Continued on page 27
Wild Dunes helps Fla. course recover from hurricane

Destination Wild Dunes, the private oceanfront resort on the Isle of Palms 15 miles from Charleston, S.C., has initiated a goodwill effort to assist the Ocean Reef Club during its recovery from Hurricane Andrew.

Ocean Reef suffered damage when Andrew ripped through southern Florida. In addition, many of the resort's employees are residents of nearby Homestead and Florida City, two of the communities hardest hit by Andrew. Presently, Ocean Reef Club is providing shelter, food and clothing to more than 200 of its employees and their families whose homes were damaged by the storm.

Because the Ocean Reef Club is temporarily unable to honor previously scheduled conference business, Destination Wild Dunes will host some of these meetings for the resort. In addition, new business inquiries will be referred to Destination Wild Dunes until Ocean Reef re-opens on Dec. 18.

Dirty clubs are a part of golf. But, cleaning clubs with a tee is fast becoming a thing of the past.

Why? Because players have discovered club washers. More players are asking for them every day, so why not give them the best... the one club washer:

• That you can quickly mount on virtually any vertical or horizontal surface.
• With over 4 years of field-proven player satisfaction.
• With simple, quality construction to last longer.
• That actually takes just seconds to clean and fill.
• With simple, quality construction for years of service.
• With over 4 years of field-proven player satisfaction.

When it's time to look at club washers, make sure your dealer shows you the one designed with your needs in mind, the one your players will thank you for... the one from Par Aide.

Par Aide Products Company • 3565 Hoffman Rd. East • St. Paul, MN 55110 • 612-779-9851 CIRCLE #118