Acquisitions
the aim of AGC spinoff

By PETER BLAIS
American Golf Corp. founder David Price's new company, National Golf Properties Inc., expects to spend $64 million buying new golf courses over the next 18 months. The purchase will be financed through NGC's recent stock offering, which is expected to eventually raise more than $186 million. The company's initial portfolio includes 47 golf courses in 17 states — 23 daily-fee, 13 private and 11 resort operations. All have been and will continue to be managed by AGC.

Okay. Sit down. A near-record 350 to 365 golf courses are projected to open in the United States by year's end, according to the National Golf Foundation (NGF).

NCAMP head to address RISE annual meeting

By HAI PHILLIPS
MCLEAN, Va. — The phrase, "Know thine enemy," will take on new, deeper meaning for those members of the chemical industry attending the RISE (Responsible Industry for a Sound Environment) Annual Meeting, scheduled for Sept. 10-12, at the Ritz Carlton here.
