Scotts has named its Tradition of Excellence winner, and the TPC Network has honored its best 15

Did you miss the show in Orlando? Worry not. We've recorded all the high points for posterity 30-35

— mergers and buyouts galore. 59

Lesco/ProLawn, Flowtronex/Amiad, Toro/Liquid Ag — mergers and buyouts galore 59

Beat your algae problems with adoring fans 23

Beat the Tax Man with savvy write-offs 15

Never mind the wait: State park gets course 51

Q&A with architect Lindsay Ervin 43

Juicy tidbits gathered on the trade show floor .... 59

What's new in the marketplace? 66

EAGL becoming major player in Southwest 53

Marriott takes over nine European properties .... 57

The strength and breadth of relationships forged last year at Pebble Beach will be tested this month when representatives of the golf course industry and environmental movement meet here at the second Golf and the Environment Summit, March 10-12. 5

This year's attendees will review and, ideally, approve a set of "environmental principles" formulated over the past 12 months by representatives of the golf course industry working with environmental activists. The principles are de

Frank dialogue earns industry respect from environmental activists

• 'Green' principles make debut in N.C.

By HAL PHILLIPS

PINEHURST, N.C. — The strength and breadth of relationships forged last year at Pebble Beach will be tested this month when representatives of the golf course industry and environmental movement meet here at the second Golf and the Environment Summit, March 10-12.

This year's attendees will review and, ideally, approve a set of "environmental principles" formulated over the past 12 months by representatives of the golf course industry working with environmental activists. The principles are designed to guide — not necessarily regulate — golf course siting, development and maintenance practices.

"It's important to remember, these principles have been put together by a consortium of people of both sides," explained Ted Horton, vice president of

The strength and breadth of relationships forged last year at Pebble Beach will be tested this month when representatives of the golf course industry and environmental movement meet here at the second Golf and the Environment Summit, March 10-12. 5

This year's attendees will review and, ideally, approve a set of "environmental principles" formulated over the past 12 months by representatives of the golf course industry working with environmental activists. The principles are designed to guide — not necessarily regulate — golf course siting, development and maintenance practices. "It's important to remember, these principles have been put together by a consortium of people of both sides," explained Ted Horton, vice president of

By J.A. BARRY MOTHES

砌 ANDOTTE, Mich. — An economic development tool traditionally used by cities to build downtown parking garages and revitalize neglected neighborhoods was used by city officials here to help build a championship-caliber, urban 9-hole golf course and riverfront park.

The tool is known as tax increment financing, TIF for short, and it may hold some promise as a mechanism for cities aiming to build courses within defined development districts.

TIFs may hold $ promise for municipalities

By J.A. BARRY MOTHES

砌 ANDOTTE, Mich. — An economic development tool traditionally used by cities to build downtown parking garages and revitalize neglected neighborhoods was used by city officials here to help build a championship-caliber, urban 9-hole golf course and riverfront park.

The tool is known as tax increment financing, TIF for short, and it may hold some promise as a mechanism for cities aiming to build courses within defined development districts.
Consolidation

Continued from page 1

also take over GEI's 23 lease and/or management contracts, Berndsen said.

Berndsen said GEI's decision to sell does not mean the company perceives any weakness in the golf market, but simply reflects the fact that the larger, more successful management firms are growing through individual course acquisitions and/or mergers with other companies. For example:

- With the help of NGP, AGC has far surpassed the 200-course mark.
- ClubCorp, which stands at 175 courses, moved out of its traditional private club niche and into the public golf market back in 1986 with its purchase of CCA/Silband GolfCorp. That subsidiary evolved into GolfCorp, ClubCorp's public course subsidiary.
- Brassie Golf and Club Operations and Property Management merged last year, giving the combined firm over 50 courses.
- KSL—which made a big splash with its purchase of Palm Spring, Calif.'s PGA West and LaQuinta Resort and Club in the 1993 Landmark Land Co. auction—followed up with the purchase of Fairways Golf, a 12-course public-access management company that has evolved into 22-facility KSL Fairways.

"The big are getting bigger to reap the benefits of clustering courses together and achieving economies of scale," Williams said. "The small could buy a single course for $2 million and think their costs are $1 per round. But the large would spend 20 times as much buying the group as they do the single course. There are efficiencies in buying in bulk."

With the help of NGP, AGC has far surpassed the 200-course mark. ClubCorp, which stands at 175 courses, moved out of its traditional private club niche and into the public golf market back in 1986 with its purchase of CCA/Silband GolfCorp. That subsidiary evolved into GolfCorp, ClubCorp's public course subsidiary.

"We've put together for you all of the crucial pathfinder information to save you time, money and to ensure you're making the right decision," Joe Black, president of Western Golf Properties, a 20-course management firm based in Scottsdale, Ariz., said. "We don't want you to be surprised if you see additional acquisitions of small management companies by the larger ones," he said. "Buying an existing management company is one way to get big in a hurry. You can spend less time and money researching and buying one course than you do 20. But you don't spend 20 times as much buying the group as you do the single course. There are efficiencies in buying in bulk."

There are a handful of large management companies (handling more than 20 properties) and many smaller ones (less than 10), said Randy Williams, ClubCorp's executive vice president of development.

"We track what the smaller ones are doing because there is potential there for larger companies, like ourselves," he said. "We've helped a lot of them get started because they may come see us some day. Buying a company is like buying a franchise. They could give us a presence in a market that we haven't entered, yet."

Joe Black, president of Western Golf Properties, a 20-course management firm based in Scottsdale, Ariz., said several firms had sought to buy his company. "With the money coming into the business from Wall Street, you're seeing a lot of overtures being made," he said. "We're doing quite well. But many companies have entered the field in the last four to five years. Some aren't doing as well as they'd hoped and consolidation is something they are willing to explore."

The large number of courses in this deal (43) and AGC's sheer size has some industry observers wondering if there is a conflict of interest could develop in markets where NGP owns some courses and manages others (through AGC). Black said the question is whether AGC will work as hard promoting courses it manages as it will for those NGP owns in the same market.

"That question always arises," said NGP Associate General Counsel Neil Miller. "[Founder and Chairman] David Price owns half of this company (NGP) and virtually all of AGC. It would be foolish for him to do anything that would hurt either one. If anything, AGC's size provides more marketing power for course owners who have AGC manage their facilities."

As for its deal with NGP, GEI will receive approximately $40.8 million in market value of NGP common stock and $17.2 million in cash. GEI stockholders will receive $12 per share in a combination of $6 in cash and $6 in market value of NGP common stock for each share of GEI common stock.

"It's a good acquisition for them [NGP]," said Randy Williams, ClubCorp's executive vice president of development. "It seems like a pretty rich deal, though. It works out to around $4 million per club. The revenues don't seem anywhere near that. But AGC is a lean, mean operating machine. And NGP's stock seems to do well."

Miller responded: "We did our homework and it seems like a good deal to us... It was an opportunity to pick up 20 courses in one transaction. It will improve NGP's funds from operations, help AGC's cash flow and give us [NGP] an opportunity to issue additional stock equity."

Prior to this deal, NGP owned 81 courses, 80 of which it had turned over to AGC (Cobblestone Golf Group manages the other). NGP plans to continue acquiring courses, Miller said, even though the company has exhausted the $97.8 million raised from its initial stock offering in August 1993 and the $100 million in debt from a late-1994 private placement.

"We have a revolving credit line and we'll do more debt deals down the road," Miller said. "As a publicly traded company we have access to many sources of capital."

GEI first reported in January it was holding discussions with a potential buyer. Berndsen said GEI decided to publicize negotiations when the firm noted a flurry of activity involving its securities. GEI stock climbed from $8 to $11 per share over a few days earlier this year, he noted.

"As a publicly held company, we have an ethical and legal responsibility to provide information to potential investors when something we know about our stock comes to light," the GEI executive said. "It was obvious someone got hold of information that we were talking with a potential buyer, so we made that information public."

The agreement is subject to stockholder approval from both companies. The deal is expected to close May or June.

As for GEI employees, Miller said most people retain their jobs at the course level when AGC takes over a new facility.

Golf Enterprises Inc. course listing

Following is a list of courses controlled by Golf Enterprises Inc., which has tentatively agreed to sell its 43 owned courses and management contracts to National Golf Properties:

Magna Minerals For Healthy Green Turf

ProMag™ 36 is a combination of magnesium sulfate and magnesium oxide, supplying both immediate and long term nonburning magnesium availability.

ProMag 36 is the choice magnesium in microprilled form necessary to balance calcium and potassium in the soil. Such nutrient balance increases root mass resulting in healthy green turf.

ProMag 36 is versatile, allowing direct application or blending with other plant food ingredients in a wide variety of formulations. Call 800-648-7400 for your nearest distributor.

P.O. Box 15470 • Baltimore, MD 21220-0470 USA • 800-648-7400