
When Buena Vista will develop courses like Rocky Gap and Cayo Largo, it prefers to acquire existing properties because of the financial and environmental obstacles to building new courses, Frost said. The company concentrates on the resort and daily-fee market, although it will look at private facilities, like Spanish Hills, when the situation is right.

"Spanish Hills was a unique opportunity," Frost explained. "The area was just spectacular and we were able to negotiate a considerable discount. It's not something we could have easily duplicated for anywhere near the price we paid."

Buena Vista Golf Holdings is a general partnership consisting of two corporate general partners — Hanover Properties Inc. and Buena Vista Golf Properties. Formed earlier this year, the company plans to acquire high-end, daily-fee golf properties in which the original developers have overinvested or have undermarketed and then build cash flow and property values through the company's "proven marketing techniques, a strong service focus, on-going cost-control efforts."

Buena Vista has no firm numerical goals in terms of course acquisitions, Frost said, although it plans to acquire 10 to 15 projects within the first year, according to company literature. "You work on a lot of things that never happen," Frost said. "And then a bunch of things come together all at once...We could set numerical objectives, but they aren't very meaningful. Our objective is to acquire courses that are good deals for us, whether that be one or a 10-year project. If we had to meet a certain number, we could start chasing things that we shouldn't."

Frost's background leads one to think he knows what he's talking about. The company's CEO has headed Buena Vista Hospitality Group since its inception in 1986. He has overseen the development of pre-opening, marketing, management and consulting services for nearly 50 projects during that time. Prior to forming BVHG, he was one of the principals in Shimberg, Kennedy and Frost, where he headed the company's hotel group.

Buena Vista is bullish on the golf market, pointing to the 25 million "Baby Boomers" who will turn 50 within the next eight years (golfers aged 50-69 on average play nearly twice as many rounds per year as the 30-49 age group); relatively slow consolidation pace (100 holdings per year, less than 1 percent of the total U.S. golf inventory) within the golf
