New Reality: Find funding or fall back

• Legends Group forms management REIT

By PETER BLAIS

Golf Trust of America—a real estate investment trust established by the founders of Myrtle Beach, S.C.-based Legends Group—will raise $300 million over the next three years allowing it to acquire at least 30 courses by the end of the decade, according to the investment banking firm that helped develop Golf Trust’s original February stock offering.

“Golf Trust owns 10 courses at this time,” said Christopher Haley, senior research analyst with Wheat First Butcher Singer. “It expects to acquire another $55 million in 1997, $110 million in 1998 and $140 million in 1999. That should allow the REIT to more than triple the size of its portfolio.”

Golf Trust of America’s goal is to use the estimated $49.9 million raised through its initial Feb. 7 stock offering and a line of credit to acquire high-quality, daily-fee and private courses and lease them back to independent lessees, usually the prior owner.

Study: Golf has minimal impact on water table

By MARK LESLIE

WHEATON, Md.—Preliminary findings of studies monitoring ground- and surface-water quality at nearly 40 golf courses reinforce industry claims that courses are not a danger, particularly when compared to other sources of chemicals, according to Stuart Cohen, president of Environmental & Turf Services, Inc. here.

“Overall, these results show that golf courses are not having a significant impact on human health or aquatic organisms relative to other sources of chemicals in the environment,” Cohen said of the study he conducted for the Golf Course Superintendents Association of America (GCSAA) Foundation.

Cohen said he was pleasantly surprised by the surface-water data, having FLAMINGO BEACH, Costa Rica—First it was fishing. Then surfing. And now, with the advent of its second and third courses, Costa Rica has joined the world of tourism.

Rancho Las Colinas opened nine holes in November and anticipates opening the second nine around Labor Day. The Robert Trent Jones II-designed Melia Conchal Golf Club intends to open the back nine holes in June. These are the first 18-hole courses built here in 23
