Mark O'Meara, winner of 23 professional tournaments worldwide—including the 1998 Masters and British Open—has teamed up with IMG Design's Britt Steenson and the ClubLink Corp. to design his first golf course at the Grandview Inn in Huntsville, Ontario. While O'Meara has consulted on several golf course designs, this will be his first signature layout. Golf Course News recently caught up with Mark between the Masters and his departure to play in the Chunichi Crowns in Toyo, Japan to talk about his first venture into golf course design.

GCN: Has design work been something that you've always wanted to do?

O'Meara: Actually it has. I remember in high school when I was playing on the golf team, I would sketch out different golf holes with bunkers and greens. I've always had a fascination with golf course design. And having played for 19 years as a professional, while I do not classify myself as an expert, I've learned a lot from playing all over the world and playing with all different types of players.

GCN: What made you decide to jump into the design business now?

O'Meara: I felt like at 42 years of age, my playing career, while still busy now, will be slowing down in the next couple of years. There wasn't any reason why I shouldn't take a look at golf design to see if this is something that I wanted to do.

GCN: You won two majors last year, what impact did that have on your decision to design golf courses?

O'Meara: For the last ten years, people have been trying to get me to design courses. I have consulted on some, like the TPC in Los Angeles. But since I won the Masters and the British Open, people have been asking me a lot more, the exposure helps.

Camelback GC undergoes $12M renovation

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Camelback Golf Club at Marriott's Camelback Inn has broken ground on a $12.1 million enhancement project that will include a complete redesign of the Padre Course and practice range, along with an expanded clubhouse, pro shop and restaurant. During the renovation period, through Dec. 31, the Indian Bend course will remain open and a temporary clubhouse will serve food and beverages on a limited basis.

The renovation of the Padre course will be designed and managed by course architect Arthur Hills. According to Hills project manager Chris Wilczyński, "The golfing experience at the new Padre golf course will be very unique to the Southwest. The course is not within a desert setting like most golf courses in this area. It is a parkland setting with large mature trees and lush green turf."

The finished product will be a classic design with strategic bunkering, traditional square tees and very subtle land forms. Every hole will feature a new green, tees and bunkers. While some holes will maintain their current routing, others will be re-routed to increase the overall playability, competitiveness and appeal. In addition to lengthening the course from 6,500 yards to 6,800 yards, three new lakes will be added to create extra beauty and challenge.

NORTH FORT WORTH, Texas — The Beechwood Co. has announced the construction of an 18-hole Greg Norman resort course at its new 900-acre master-planned development next to Texas Motor Speedway here.

Groundbreaking was April 27 for The Creeks at Beechwood course, which will be Norman’s first in the Dallas/Fort Worth area and his ninth in the United States. The $10 million track, directly across State Highway 114 from Texas Motor Speedway, will be completed in the fall of 2000.

“I really look forward to working with Beechwood Co. on such a fine piece of land with the creeks and such great topography for the North Texas area,” said Norman. Set among a lushly wooded landscape and three spring-fed creeks, he Creeks at Beechwood will be accompanied by a four-star hotel and conference center at the newly announced Beechwood Business Park, a 900-acre development for corporate campus office buildings, retail shops, restaurants and other commercial projects.

Eddie Gossage, general manager of Texas Motor Speedway, said Beechwood Business Park, The Creeks at Beechwood golf course and a soon-to-be-announced resort hotel will be a “perfect next-door neighbor” to the Speedway.

“The Beechwood development and Texas Motor Speedway perfectly complement each other,” Gossage said. “The Beechwood development and Texas Motor Speedway will certainly be beneficial to the members of the Speedway Club, as will the future hotel development and commercial growth.”

Jason McCoy, vice president of Greg Norman Golf Course Design Co. and lead designer of The Creeks at Beechwood course, said the course will be well-suited for major corporate events and tournaments that ties into Texas Motor Speedway.

“We think the idea of The Creeks at Beechwood being right next to Texas Motor Speedway is pretty unique,” McCoy said.

Bull Run to open

Jacobson said the need to create two man-made lakes and expand an existing lake to accommodate irrigation supply was one of the principle challenges of the project. While attempting to construct the originally proposed lakes, the bulldozers struck rock. Budget restrictions prevented dynamiting, so Jacobson adapted on the fly.

“We had to adjust the elevation of the original design and layout of several holes adjacent to the lakes,” Jacobson said. “For example, the 8th hole originally was a par-3 based on the original plan to expand the lake. But because we ran into the rock, the lake design had to be modified, so we changed it to a reachable par-4.”

Far from being a throwaway hole, the 8th is an example of the risk-reward theme Jacobson carried throughout the course. It’s a 350-yarder that plays downwind from a tee box elevated 60 feet above the fairway. Players who risk cutting their tee shots over the bunkers on the right could run the ball up on the green and set up a possible eagle putt.

The risk-reward equation for the double-fairway 9th hole invites players to cut 30 yards off their approach shots by driving down from the elevated tee to the lower fairway that’s adjacent to a lake.

The 13th hole rewards players with an open shot to the green if they choose to cut off much of the lake from their elevated tee shot.

The par-5 18th plays downhill with the prevailing wind. Players who risk hitting their second shots over a lake can reach the green in two, while those who choose the bail out area are usually destined to make at least 4 on the hole. The shot to the green is “between the uprights” of two sycamore trees that frame the putting surface.
