Doak’s Apache Stronghold ‘new-fangled’ for desert

By MARK LESLIE

LOBE, Ariz. — The San Carlos Apache Nation had The Apache Golf Casino, a couple thousand square miles of Apache land and plenty of Apache labor. What were they missing? A golf course.

But that will be remedied in May or June when the Tom Doak-designed 18-hole Apache Stronghold opens to public play here.

It will be a new-fangled type of course for the desert: wide (200-foot) landing areas, a lot (100 acres) of turfgrass, plentiful water supply, immense length (7,500 yards from the back tees), and cooler weather than most desert tracks (leading to a choice of dwarf bluegrass fairways and Dominant bentgrass greens because Bermudagrass would die at this 3,200-foot altitude in the mountains above Phoenix).

“The Apache Nation wanted to build a golf course that was good enough to make people want to stay,” said Doak who, with Apache Stronghold, has his first design west of the Mississippi River. “We think we’ve done that.”

The 2nd hole at Tom Doak-designed Apache Stronghold, built by the San Carlos Apache Nation, sits on the edge of the mountains above Phoenix.

Given a couple thousand acres to choose from in building his course, Doak said he found “a terrific piece of land.” So

Architects honor Palmer, elect president and new members

By MARK LESLIE

Charleston, S.C. — John LaFoy of Greenville, S.C., who has built a national reputation with his new course designs and remodeling projects, was elected president of the American Society of Golf Course Architects at the group’s recent annual meeting here.

“His is a great honor for me,” LaFoy said. “I am proud to be president of the society, whose members are the most experienced, creative and professional practitioners of golf course architectural design in the world.”

As head of his own golf course design firm and a former partner with prominent golf course architect George Cobb, LaFoy has designed, renovated or master planned more than 100 courses.

A DREAM REALIZED

Affordable golf in Kansas’ sand hills

By MARK LESLIE

Abilene, Kan. — The sand hills of Kansas produced Perry Maxwell's top-rated Prairie Dunes in nearby Hutchinson in 1937. Dr. Jon Thayer hopes the same magic has been woven through the sand hills of Abilene — specifically on his Chisholm Trail Golf Course, which opened for public play here April 1 to far less fanfare than his famous neighbors.

Chisholm Trail was “laid gently on the land,” Thayer said, “a rolling piece of

KEMPER TO REVAMP NAVAL BASE

Northbrook, Ill. — The Village of Glenview selected Kemper Sports Management to build and operate a daily-fee facility on the former Glenview Naval Air Station, a 1,121-acre former military base being converted to a mixed-use development. Glenview trustees approved the sale of 180 acres of land at the air base to Kemper Sports for use in building a course and clubhouse that will include a golf museum, restaurant and banquet facilities. Kemper Sports’ vision for the planned $20 million project is to create a world-class course and practice facility. As part of its bid, Kemper formed an alliance with the Illinois Section of the PGA (IPGA) enabling the IPGA to move its headquarters to the Glenview site. Upon opening, the new facility will also house the Illinois Golf Hall of Fame, an interactive museum celebrating the history of golf in Illinois and those who have made contributions to the game.

Thayer, a semi-retired optometrist and unbroken sod with wild grasses as tall as a horse. The golf and the terrain are perfect."

"I always had the ambition to have my own golf course," said the 75-year-old Thayer, a semi-retired optometrist and 10-handicapper who has played the game since he was 23. "When I found this perfect piece of ground, that did it."

Occupying 140 of the property's 320 acres, the 18 golf holes simply "were there," said Bruce Dixon, a course designer with Grant Golf in Winnipeg, Manitoba, who was a graduate student in landscape architecture specializing in course design at Kansas State University when planning began in spring 1997. "We didn't have to move too much earth.

"It had some topographic changes," Dixon added. "We found good green sites, then worked backwards to the tees, came up with a dozen layouts and went from there."

The layout includes four double tees: for holes 2 and 11; 1 and 10; 13 and 15; and 7 and 9.

Dixon said he and Thayer, a design aficionado who tinkered with most all the holes once Dixon had taken the job in Canada, "tried to aspire to Sand Hills and Prairie Dunes. The course has the same strengths as Sand Hills. And with 320 acres we had to ability to choose where to put the features."

Prairie Dunes, Thayer said, "was an inspiration. I knew we had land like that around here if I could ever find the right piece. I moved here in 1991 and started looking, and found this property three years ago."

The property has good soils as well as natural drainage and surface runoff, he said.

Indeed, the "soils" are 70-percent sand, a major reason Chisholm Trail could be built for less than $1 million — despite a double-row irrigation system — and fulfill another of Thayer's dreams: "I wanted to build an affordable course for the people of Dickinson County."

Affordable? How does $13 weekday and $15 weekend green fees sound? Annual membership is $400, plus $100 for each additional family member.

And while Chisholm Trail plays from 4,746 to 6,568 yards, "Don't let the yardage mislead you," Thayer said. "You'd better bring your 'straight' game."

The greens were seeded with L-93 bentgrass and the fairways with an 80-20 bluegrass-ryegrass mix. The first rough is fine-leaf fescue and the second native bluestem grass that grows 6 feet high.

Thayer hired the husband-wife superintendent team of John and Mary Haun, who had been operating Palo Duro Creek in Canyon City, Texas, and the municipal course in Hereford, Texas, respectively. But the Hauns wanted to return to their native Kansas.

Mary Haun, who grew up 3 miles from where Chisholm Trail now sits, said: "I thought, growing up, that we needed an 18-hole golf course."

Little did she know that later in life she would be working on one.

LaFoy elected

As ASGCA president, LaFoy will focus on informing golf course developers, golfers and the public about golf course architecture. He will work to highlight the professionalism, talent and code of ethics that distinguish the members of the society. He also will promote the continued development of affordable and accessible golf facilities.

Raised in Greenville, LaFoy received a bachelor's degree in architecture from Clemson University in 1968 and began to work for Cobb. After a three-year stint in the U.S. Marine Corps, he became a full partner in the business. LaFoy assumed much of the design responsibilities when illness slowed Cobb in the early 1980s and he took over the design business after Cobb's death in 1986.

LaFoy is joined on the ASGCA Executive Committee by Vice President Brian Ault of Kensington, Md., Treasurer Damian Pascuzzo of Walnut Creek, Calif., and Secretary Jay Morrish of Flower Mound, Texas, Bob Lohmann of Marengo, Ill., is immediate past president.
