etetime.com names Raney new president

Internet tee time provider tops 160 courses with Walters Golf Management additions

By PETER BLAIS

LA QUINTA, Calif. — William Raney has been named president of etetime.com, a growing Internet-based tee-time service provider that recently targeted the 160-course client mark with the addition of five Walters Golf Management facilities located in Las Vegas.

Raney will direct etetime.com's worldwide sales, marketing, administration, technology, financial management and customer service initiatives.

Raney has considerable experience in the Internet industry and had been a consultant to etetime.com since February 1999. Previously, Raney held an associate position with Rader Reinfrank & Co., a Los Angeles-based Internet and telecommunications private equity fund. While at Rader Reinfrank & Co., Raney focused primarily on the firm's Internet-related transactions. He also worked at Whittier Trust Co., an asset management and private equity company based in Los Angeles.

Through www.etetime.com, golfers secure real-time, tee-time reservations over the Internet 24 hours a day. Courses also use etetime.com's proprietary tee-sheet software as a tee sheet management tool, as well as to sell a number of otherwise unfilled golf rounds with www.etetime.com as their booking agent.

It is one of only a handful of golf tee-time reservation software programs written in JavaScript, one of the codes easiest read by computers.

Among the 160 courses in the etetime network are facilities in the United States, Mexico, Canada, Argentina and Puerto Rico. They include:

• Walters' Stallion Mountain Country Club, Desert Pines Golf Club and Royal Links Golf Club in Las Vegas.
• More than 50 courses in California, Nevada and Arizona ranging from Johnny Miller-designed Badlands Golf Club (Las Vegas) and the Arnold Palmer-designed Tahquitz Creek Resort (Palm Springs, Calif.) to the value-oriented Kolokol Golf Course (Gilbert, Ariz.) and Eastlake Country Club (Chula Vista, Calif.).
• Garland Resort's four, 18-hole courses.

According to Executive Vice President Michael Stone, etetime.com started three years ago with the idea that selling tee times on the Internet was fine, but if courses and golfers hadn't ended up on an electronic tee sheet that was at least as good as paper and pencil, then the system wouldn't work. After considerable research, the company launched its site in January 1999.

Stone claims his firm's site is the easiest electronic tee sheet for golfers to use. "We want to make this as easy as possible for the course and the golfer," he said.

A course must list at least two tee times a day with www.etetime.com. It may make available its entire tee sheet or any number in between. In addition to public facilities, some private clubs make a limited number of rounds available. Northern California's private Granite Bay, for instance, sells some Monday rounds to the public.

Stone said etetime.com will take reservations as far as 90 days in advance. Typical golfers reserve tee times three weeks ahead of time. The company pays the course a week before the golfer shows up to play.

The firm makes its money by charging the golfer an additional fee per round (usually roughly 10 percent over the going rate) or the course may pay etetime.com a commission ranging from 15 to 20 percent of the pre-sold green fee rate.

Stone said the company may go public at some point, although raising capital has not been a problem because of the firm's state-of-the-art technology and management. In addition to Raney, Chief Executive Officer John Hoffmaster is a former top executive with Info USA of Omaha and several other successful Internet ventures.

The company plans to have 8,000 courses signed on within five years, Stone said.

and manufacturing center for economically vibrant southwestern Ontario,” said Bruce Simmonds, president and chief executive officer of ClubLink. “By way of its proximity to the western edge of the Greater Toronto Area, London represents a natural extension of ClubLink’s clustering concept.”

London is less than one hour from ClubLink’s Heron Point Golf Links, on the western perimeter of the Greater Toronto Area where the majority of ClubLink’s other golf course are located.

As part of the agreement, Sonar Corporation will provide marketing and consulting services to ClubLink. The principals of Sonar are Don Simpson and his sons David and Craig. David was president of Greenhills and Craig was a standout with the NHL’s Edmonton Oilers.

Sonar will continue to own and operate 18-hole daily-fee Bear Creek Golf & Country Club in nearby Strathroy. The transaction provides access for ClubLink Members to Bear Creek, The Greenhills Golf Dome, tennis and swimming facilities.

ClubLink has completed three debt financings totaling $115 million. The transactions provide it with short- and long-term debt lines and cash reserves.

Textron Financial Canada has provided a $87-million, five-year floating rate revolving line of credit. Security for the line is a portfolio of ClubLink’s Toronto-area golf properties.

The company said it has drawn down $50 million of this facility and the $25 million balance is available for subsequent draw.

ClubLink said it has also received from Pacific Life Insurance Co. of California a $25-million, fixed-rate first mortgage on its Glen Abbey golf course property.

The company said Toronto Dominion Bank has become its lead corporate banker and has provided a $15-million operating line of credit. The company said these transactions have reduced its bank debt to zero, increased its cash position to about $16 million and boosted its reserves for additional funding.
