ATLANTA — You’d think Ralph Kepple would be nervous. After all, he’s got 30 of the world’s best golfers coming here to East Lake Golf Club on October 30 for the PGA Tour Championship. But Kepple is taking it in stride. His club hosted the same event in 1998, and the superintendent knows exactly what to expect.

“Starting in mid-September, one company comes in to build scaffolding, and one starts building tent structures for corporate hospitality,” he said. “They will be building that stuff right up till the first day of the tournament. And the television companies will come in a couple of weeks prior to the event and start building their towers. It’s real hectic for a while, but I’m looking forward to it. Right now, we’re doing a lot of extra fertilizing in the roughs, leveling heads and just trying to get everything as smooth as we can.”

Kepple has been here for eight years, following a stint at Settindown Creek Golf Club in Roswell, Ga. The private East Lake course opened in 1906, and underwent a Donald Ross redesign in 1913. “We had a major renovation here in 1994, with Rees Jones, bringing it back to the Ross design, and that generated a lot of publicity,” Kepple said. “The PGA Tour Championship brings in the year’s top 30 money winners. "It’s not considered a major,” Kepple said, “but it’s definitely major money, and the field is great.”
