Total Golf adds three courses in Michigan

By JAY FINEGAN

MILFORD, Mich. — Total Golf Inc. has boosted its portfolio to 11 courses with the addition of three new management contracts. All of the company’s courses are in Michigan. Total Golf has assumed day-to-day management of Boulder Lakes Golf Club, in Chesterfield Township, along with Sleeping Bear GC and Kings Challenge GC.

Sleeping Bear and Kings Challenge both are in Cedar and are part of the Sugar Loaf Resort in northern Michigan, representing Total Golf’s first foray into the Upper Peninsula. Specifically, both clubs are on the Leelanau Peninsula.

Boulder Lakes is a private country club, with a clubhouse large enough to handle more than 200 guests for weddings, retirement parties, family reunions and the like. The other two facilities are daily-fee.

The new clubs are in for sweeping changes in their top ranks, according to Jim Dewling, Total Golf’s founder and president. “We usually clean house when we take over a course,” he said. “We start with a whole new management team, unless there is someone who’s sacred or who knows the physical plant. The superintendents are the ones I’d usually qualify as sacred, because they bring a lot of local knowledge.”

MICHIGAN GRAND GOLF TRAIL

Total Golf markets its courses under the Michigan Grand Golf Trail moniker, which rewards frequent play. Participants win prizes and awards for completing the entire “trail” in one year. “Our winners from last year are going on a vacation to Myrtle Beach,” said Dewling.

The trail is getting longer now as Total Golf grows. “This year we’ll have 10 courses on the trail,” Dewling said. “Boulder Lakes will remain a private club and won’t be part of that. We’ll seek to expand its roster of selective membership during the coming months.”

Founded in 1986, Boulder Lakes offers 18 holes of championship golf, a PGA professional staff, a first-rate pro shop, a teaching facility and a large clubhouse. The club will offer a special “senior” (over 65) and senior family membership program this year.

RBI to manage Redlands Mesa

LITTLETON, Colo. — RBI Golf Management has been awarded the management contract for The Golf Club at Redlands Mesa, a new Jim Engh design in Grand Junction, Colo. “We’re excited to be involved in a project of this magnitude,” said Bill Winfield, RBI’s director of golf. “Everyone on the Western Slope has been talking about Redlands Mesa.”

The course, scheduled to open this summer, is set in a canyon and backs to the spectacular Colorado National Monument. Golfers will find themselves winding up and down the canyon as they progress through a round. Each hole is more challenging than the last, with rugged terrain and a 200-foot drop to the midway from the 17th tee.

RBI constructed the course and the infrastructure of the adjacent residential community. "It’s wonderful being able to deal with one company for course construction, grow-in and management," said James Eller, principal owner of Redlands Mesa Development LLC. "We didn’t have to take the time to reeducate a new contractor, or worry about being on the same page. It was clear that we were all working towards a common goal.”

RBI, based here in Littleton, will be in charge of day-to-day operations of the course, including the grand opening ceremonies, staff selection and supervision, marketing, financial management and maintenance.

"Redlands Mesa will be an upscale, daily-fee course that will be a great addition to the Grand Junction area," Winfield said. "Golfers at all levels will find a challenge, and the scenery will make up for any bad games that might occur.”

The Redlands Mesa contract brings RBI’s full-service management portfolio to two. It also manages Coyote Creek Golf Course in Ft. Lupton, Colo. RBI is known for such award-winning courses as Red Hawk Ridge, in Castle Rock, Colo. — another Engh design — and Dove Valley Ranch Golf Course, a Robert Trent Jones Jr. design in Phoenix. It also built The Golf Course at Wente Vineyards, a Greg Norman design in Livermore, Calif.

Palmer Golf refocuses efforts on core strengths

By ANDREW OVERBECK

ORLANDO, Fla. — On the heels of its decision to pull out of its contract with San Francisco’s Harding Park Golf Course, Arnold Palmer Golf Management has announced a renewed focus on its core strengths.

Palmer Golf, which grew 10 percent in 2000 as other companies’ profits declined, considers itself fortunate in an industry that is in flux. As a result, the company plans to remain conservative.

“With declining rounds at daily-fee courses, increased competition from new courses, and companies like Golf Trust of America and American Golf selling off golf courses, it is an interesting environment,” said president and CEO Tim Tierney. “The aggressive approach of buy, buy, buy has hurt some folks and we have to stay disciplined.”

CORE BUSINESS

Tierney plans to focus on Palmer Golf’s successful strategy of turning around distressed properties.

“We have had our most success taking dated assets that have gone many years without maintaining quality conditions and going in and repositioning the property,” he said. “These opportunities are becoming harder to find, but they are still out there.” According to Tierney, the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic regions represent the biggest markets for repositioning clubs.

In addition to these plans, Palmer Golf...