Baine heading up new Ironwood Golf

By JAY FINEGAN

AUSTIN, Texas — Burt Baine, a 25-year member of the PGA of America, has taken over as president of Ironwood Golf LP, a new course development and management firm based here. Ironwood is a subsidiary of Masonwood Development Corp., which creates master-planned residential communities around the country.

"We consider ourselves to be more golf development than management," Baine said about Ironwood. "We very well might manage our own properties, but we might farm that out. Our primary function is development: planning, construction and creation of golf courses."

FIRST COURSE NEAR AUSTIN

In the past, Masonwood's developments have lacked golf courses, but the company now plans to add them as amenities. Ironwood was formed to handle that part of each project.

"We expect to do quite a number of courses," Baine said. "Ironwood will do market analysis with Masonwood. If we have a 500-acre site, I'll go in on the golf side and recommend we do a daily-fee or a private course, and jointly we'd develop the project."

Ironwood Golf's initial project is Behrens Ranch Golf Club. The private course will be part of 880-acre Behrens Ranch, a Masonwood planned community expected to have 900 houses priced up to $800,000. No architect has yet been named for the course, located near Round Rock, Texas; no builder has been named either, but Baine already has short lists for both.

TEXAS DEVELOPMENT GOING WILD

The 18-hole layout will be a "traditional Texas-style golf course," Baine said, with few homes planned to front the course proper. "There are homes on five or six holes," he said, "but only on one side, so the golf experience will be a throwback to the old style — fairways and trees. The terrain has some slight roll, being in the Austin hill country, and has some great oak trees."

Groundbreaking is expected by September.

Masonwood has built residential projects all over Texas, and Baine sees opportunities there and in the Southeast. "We like Georgia and the Carolinas, and also Tennessee," he said. "And the real estate market in Texas is incredibly strong. Dallas, Austin, Houston and San Antonio are just going crazy right now with housing developments."
T-Links, Teetimes.com form alliance

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — T-Links Inc. and Teetimes.com have reached an agreement for Teetimes.com to be the exclusive provider of tee time technology for T-Links's 150-plus member courses. Regional introduction of the system will begin immediately with the first installation planned for courses in Atlantic City, N.J.

The five-year partnership agreement will include installation of the Teetimes.com system into T-Links courses in Hilton Head, S.C.; the Sandhills/ Pinehurst region of North Carolina; Myrtle Beach, S.C.; Biloxi, Miss., and Charleston, S.C. The Teetimes.com suite includes a tee sheet and yield management system, integration with existing point of sale programs and real-time online hotel golf packaging services.

"Teetimes.com provides the mix of technology, reliability and customer service that we were looking for," said T-Links president Terry Sedalik. "We received very good recommendations from our other regions where their system is installed, including Ocean City, Williamsburg and Virginia Beach. We will begin the installation process on a region by region basis."

T-Links System Replaced

The new reservation system will replace the T-Links system, which was designed and developed in Myrtle Beach in 1992. The existing computer platform will be replaced by Teetimes.com's Oracle/Solaris network, allowing the regions to take full advantage of the Internet and other advances in technology to effectively and efficiently promote their business.

Teetimes.com CEO Danny Stoval said the T-Links agreement marks a turning point for the company. "Our biggest challenge is not technology. It's not attracting golfers to our site. It is signing up golf courses," he said.

"The T-Links group includes some of the most well-known and respected courses in the country. We are confident that this agreement will provide the catalyst for us to rapidly expand our Teetimes.com course network."

"This program strengthens our member benefits at each of our private clubs," Donahue said. "The reciprocity program provides us the opportunity to leverage our marketing within our markets by offering a unique benefit."

In addition to the reciprocal playing privileges at the private and semi-private clubs, members also have access to more than 20 of Palmer Golf's daily-fee facilities nationwide at a preferred rate.
