LEHMANN RENOVATION CLOSE TO HOME
By DEREK RICE
SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — PGA Tour golfer Tom Lehman’s latest project as an architect hits close to home. Lehman’s firm, John Fought-Tom Lehman Golf Course Architecture, is renovating DC Ranch, where Lehman lives off the 10th green.

While Lehman admitted that the firm’s hiring probably had much to do with his familiarity with the course played a big part in the decision. "I've played the course so many times, I have a really good idea of what its strengths and weaknesses are," Lehman said. "The owner would like the course to be a little stronger, and it's really fun for me to be a part of making it that way.

The renovation at the course, which opened in 1997, is being performed by John Fought and Tom Lehman at DC Ranch.

LANDSCAPES UNLIMITED
It centers on the course's greens and bunkers. Lehman said the greens "really were not functioning well" and were in poor condition most of the time. The bunkers, he said, were nearly invisible because the tall, wispy prairie grass that had been planted to mark them had to be removed.

"It's both good and bad," Lehman said. "I'm tied in the fact that the course is so new and it's a shame to have to redo them so quickly, but it's also an exciting time. I think there were some things that weren't working and will be better in the future. "It had nothing to do with previous architecture," Lehman added. "It was strictly a function of the greens failing for whatever reason."

Continued on page 19

Pellucid hopes to challenge rounds numbers
By DEREK RICE
BUFFALO GROVE, Ill. — The traditional way of looking at golf rounds numbers, which are put out by the National Golf Foundation, Golf Datatech and others, doesn't tell the real story, according to Jim Koppenhaver, Pellucid Corp., because grouping metropolitan areas by geography ignores many important factors.

The result, he said, is that no one knows for certain how many rounds of golf are played in the United States.

"It fascinates me that no one in the golf industry where no one can tell you how many rounds were played last year. That's bizarre, and we're going to try to fix that," Koppenhaver said.

Koppenhaver said the major fallacy is to group metropolitan areas like San Antonio, Texas, the proposed home of a PGA Village that has caused controversy in that city (see page 1), by geography, rather than economic factors.

"If you use the Texas numbers for San Antonio, you get this humongous rounds potential number," he said. "But what we know about San Antonio doesn't seem to suggest that it should be a raging market for golf courses."

Another issue Koppenhaver has with the NGF's numbers is that they are based on consumer survey responses, which he said he has shown to be traditionally 15 percent to 20 percent too high.

What Pellucid does is group cities into metropolitan statistical areas (MSAs), which are based not on geography but on rounds per household.

"What we found is that there are MSAs where...

Continued on page 20

LONG-DELAYED COURSE SET TO OPEN
By DOUG SAUNDERS
FOLSOM, Calif. — Empire Ranch Golf Club, the most recent entry into the public golf market in California opened in May after seven years of fits and starts to bring a public venue to one of the last underserved regions of the state. Surprisingly, the course will be very different from its original plans.

Those plans for the 1,800-acre Empire Ranch called for an upscale master-planned community with two golf courses surrounded by 3,500 home sites. The original developers commissioned Ron Fream of Golf Plan to design and build the courses. But as the plan went through...

Continued on page 17

STONE RIDGE RE-OPENS REVAMPED NINE
BLANCHARD, Idaho — In early May, semi-private StoneRidge Country Club reopened nine of the 18 holes it had under renovation as part of a $3 million project.

The course had been closed for 13 months, after the new holes have been constructed and the major renovation of its tees, greens, bunkers and irrigation systems. Three new holes have been constructed and the course has been lengthened slightly. At press time, the club expected the remaining nine holes to reopen by Memorial Day.

CROWN TO RENOVATE NORTHDALE
TAMPA, Fla. — The Northdale Golf Club closed in early May for renovation, which includes the rebuilding of all 18 greens, numerous bunkers and the repaving of cart paths. Weather permitting, Crown Golf Properties, which manages the club, hopes to reopen the course by Oct. 1. The total cost of the improvements should be in the neighborhood of $750,000. While the course is shut down, members will be able to play for a discount at one of two local clubs, and Crown has suspended monthly dues and extended prepaid memberships.

DYE BREAKS GROUND ON PRESERVE
JUPITER, Fla. — In early May, architect Pete Dye broke ground on The Preserve, which he called the "chance of a lifetime." In less than seven months, the Cypress Links course, which Dye designed in 1988, will be transformed within its existing routing plan. The 175-acre Dye Preserve will reside in a park-like setting 30 minutes from Palm Beach.

STONE RIDGE RENOVATION CLOSE TO HOME
By DEREK RICE
SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — PGA Tour golfer Tom Lehman’s latest project as an architect hits close to home. Lehman’s firm, John Fought-Tom Lehman Golf Course Architecture, is renovating DC Ranch, where Lehman lives off the 10th green.

While Lehman admitted that the firm’s hiring probably had much to do with his familiarity with the course played a big part in the decision. "I've played the course so many times, I have a really good idea of what its strengths and weaknesses are," Lehman said. "The owner would like the course to be a little stronger, and it's really fun for me to be a part of making it that way.

The renovation at the course, which opened in 1997, is being performed by...

Continued on next page

ACE BRINGS CORPORATE GOLF TO PHILLY
By DEREK RICE
LAFAYETTE HILL, Pa. — As more and more corporations look for ways to set themselves apart from their competitors and market themselves uniquely, many are turning to corporate-oriented golf courses as a means to accomplish those goals.

One of those corporations is ACE INA Holdings Inc., a Philadelphia-based insurer, which is currently developing The ACE Club, a Gary Player-designed course 25 minutes from downtown Philadelphia. Slated for a mid-2003 opening, the club will serve a valuable purpose in the company’s marketing initiatives, said Dominic Frederico, chairman and CEO of ACE INA.

"Golf has proven to be a critical and effective component of our marketing initiatives," Frederico said. "In the insurance business, like most others, customer relationships are key factors in business success. We believe the ACE Club will serve as a tool for members to use in strengthening those relationships."

While this will be the company's first golf course ownership venture, it's not ACE's first foray into the golf business. For the last five years, the company has sponsored the ACE Group Classic, a Senior PGA Tour event held in Naples, Fla.

Player, who collaborated on the work with senior design associate Warren Henderson, said because of the course’s setting, the ACE Club will be a "testament to strategic design" that "will consistently capture every golfer's interest.

Playing surfaces will include bentgrass tees, fairways and greens, with bluegrass turf.

Continued on next page
Empire Ranch

Continued from page 14

the approval process, wetland mitigations and environmental challenges forced the developers to reconsider and work out a land transfer to the city of Folsom, effectively giving the city a 185-acre site for a public course while the developer retained the housing sites.

"We first looked at the site five years ago when of one the new developers, BGP Group of Texas, brought it to our attention. The concept of doing a golf project within a housing development was very different from the course developments we have done so we were apprehensive. We also like to have control of the courses that we build and then lease out their operation," said Jim Zurbuchin, partner at B and Z Property, which developed the site. "We were contacted again and given the opportunity to purchase the site, which would give us more control. We took over ownership and built the course in less than two years."

The city searched for someone to take on the construction of a public course, but suitors were few because of the challenges to building and the lease structure proposed. After two years of trying to build the course itself, the city decided it didn't want to be in the golf course building business. By this time, the property had seen four different owners. The city returned the land to the developers with the stipulation that a public course be built.

"We changed our approach here at Empire with an eye to having to service a large community. We have constructed a very large clubhouse that can double as a meeting place for community activities as well as service the golf operations. Now that the course is ready to open I am very happy with how it has turned out after all of this time," Zurbuchin said.

The course will be the fourth B and Z course to be managed by ClubCorp. General Manager Kevin Williams said he plans to do 60,000 rounds a year once the facility is in full operation.

ACE Club

Continued from page 14

Members of the club will be able to walk the course with a caddie or take a golf car equipped with a global positioning system.

The 35,000-square-foot clubhouse, designed by Hillier with interiors by Dick Diedrich, will house a corporate boardroom with a view of the 18th green, as well as a private dining room that can double as a second, smaller meeting space. An additional 18,000 square feet of meeting space and 120 overnight accommodations will be available on-site at ACE Center, a conference facility for business meetings, executive retreats, training and management development programs.

Frederico said the facility will serve a growing need in the Philadelphia area.

"We see an unmet demand for a corporate-oriented facility in this marketplace," he said. "Many of the private-equity clubs in greater Philadelphia are traditionally family-focused, and the most prestigious have waiting lists for membership."