GMACCM enters golf lending sector with a bang

By DEREK RICE

RED BANK, N.J.—GMAC Commercial Mortgage (GMACCM) recently entered the golf lending market with a splash—by providing $650 million in financing to 253 golf courses, the majority of which are located in the United States. While this was one of the largest standalone, single-transaction financing deals in the history of the golf industry, GMACCM isn't resting there, said GMACCM executive vice president Jerry Earnest, who heads the company's specialty lending and hospitality and golf finance groups.

“We'd like to talk to good players. We're looking to do portfolio transactions if we can but also if it makes sense to do individual transactions as well. We have an appetite for both,” he said. “We're active, we're here to stay and it's still a relatively competitive market from our perspective.”

While the company is affiliated with former golf lender GMAC, Earnest said because the two are separate entities, this is more of an entry into the market than a return.

“It's really a first foray. There was a mortgage banker who worked for the company four or five years ago. This is more of an entry into the market but it’s a smaller entry,” he said.

Pumpkin Ridge Golf Club in North Plains, Ore., was one of the 253 courses involved in the NGP transaction.

Editorial Focus: Speed of Play

Forecaddies keep the pace at Bear's Best

By DEREK RICE

DALLAS — Slow play on golf courses is not only an inconvenience for golfers, but can also be a revenue buster for golf courses. If players aren't moving around the course in a timely fashion, it affects the number of groups a course can move through on a given day.

Slow play affects players' perception of the course, and may be a leading factor in their decision not to return on another occasion. At a resort course, like Dallas-based ClubCorp's Bear's Best clubs in Atlanta and Las Vegas, where there are few regulars who know the course well, one would expect slow play to be a part of the package. However, ClubCorp has found that an antiquated service operated at the clubs has helped address this age-old problem. Through forecaddie programs, the courses have been able to maintain average round times that are more than a half-hour shorter than at other area clubs.

GolfGM adds equipment financing division

By DEREK RICE

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — In an effort to give key decision-makers and members of the buying team more flexibility in purchases, golf business solutions provider GolfGM debuted GolfGM Finance in March.

According to GolfGM's president and CEO Elliot Lewis, industry need drove the creation of the program.

"The golf industry has sorely needed a program like GolfGM Finance," he said. "The industry's leading vendors and hundreds of PGA professionals and purchasing managers facilitated the creation of GolfGM Finance. These industry leaders envisioned a financing program that enabled vendors and courses to do more business in a more efficient manner."

Through the GolfGM Finance program, facilities will be able to finance up to $50,000 in purchases from GolfGM's participating vendors, which represent more than 40 companies.

In addition, facilities will be able to extend payment terms to up to 150 days.

Lewis said the program will help courses and other facilities from having to make difficult cuts, which are prevalent in this lagging economy.

Continued on page 22

GUEST COMMENTARY

Slow play: you don't need to suffer anymore

By BILL YATES

Course managers fight it day after day, and players hate it. Can anything really be done about slow play? The answer is yes. Working with private clubs, high-end public courses, resorts, municipal courses and even the R&A Championship Committee on the 2002 Open Championship at Muirfield, I have proven that golf course management teams can consistently improve the pace and flow of play, resulting in increased revenue, more valuable starting times throughout the day, more satisfied customers, and higher volume opportunities in their other profit centers. Now players can find the golfing experience they have been looking for, one that is relaxed and free of delays.

The good news is that every course can solve the problem of slow play. All it takes is a strong management commitment, and the ongoing cooperation of the players. The solution sounds simple, but it is buried within two age-old myths: that every round of golf should take four hours, and that players are the primary cause of slow play. Add
NGF report details decline in rounds, flattening revenues in 2002

Continued from page 1

Hughes said facilities cited a number of factors as having contributed to the changes in rounds played in 2002.

“Operators who had fewer rounds in 2002 than in 2001 cited the weather, economy and competition as the top reasons for the decline,” Hughes said. “Meanwhile those who had more rounds in 2002 cited weather, improved course conditions, improved or increased advertising and marketing and improved management as the main reasons for the increase.”

On a regional basis, only central/south Florida and the Gulf Coast posted moderate gains in rounds of 0.2 percent and 1.4 percent, respectively. Hardest hit regions were the Lower Midwest (down 5.5 percent), the Southeast (down 5.3 percent) and the Northeast (down 5.0 percent). For a complete list of rounds played numbers for each of the 11 regions the NGF defined for the study, see the chart at left.

The NGF’s rounds played numbers largely agree with those published each month in the Databank section of Golf Course News. Those numbers, provided monthly by golf research company Golf Datatech, showed a 2.9 percent decrease in rounds played from 2001 to 2002.

From fairways to a shopping mall

Continued from page 3

nice thing, it got kids playing golf.”

When the Lowell family originally considered selling the property, they had hopes of keeping some of the golf course intact and preserving open space. However, the group of developers that were planning an outdoor health facility on the property couldn’t get the funding together to make the project work.

However, as the once-rural area began to grow as a bedroom community for Hartford, the change was inevitable. “It is very busy now,” said Garvin. “It’s turned into a pretty affluent area.”

While Garvin plans to stay in the golf business, she will spend this spring shutting down the golf course, helping her parents move off the property and auctioning off two barns full of antiques. After that, she said, she plans to “take the summer off for the first time in a long time.”

Did You Get A Bid From Hunter?

Now you can update your irrigation system with affordable, top-of-the-line products from Hunter Industries.

Featuring Golf Rotors with Total Top Servicing • Heavy-Duty Valves • Flexible Central Control Systems.

Call today for your copy of Hunter’s Golf Irrigation Update Kit:

800-733-2823 www.HunterGolf.com

Fast Grow-in
Save $15,000-$40,000 annually
Lease for as little as $195 a month
Manage Color & growth
Reduce Labor
Improve Turf quality
Six models, ten capacities

(800) 728-4504
WWW.TURFFEEDING.COM

Your Water; as Nature Intended It...