Scott Directing | Pros’ Co-op. Sales Group

CHICAGO, ILL.—Professional Golfers’ Supply Co., with headquarters at 37 South Wabash avenue, has taken over professional golfer sales of the Wilson-Western Sporting Goods Co. in 22 states, comprising the territory from Canada to the gulf and from Pennsylvania to Colorado.

Forty-six professionals are actively and financially interested in the new organization, according to Capt. J. A. Scott who is manager. The executive committee of the Professional Golfers’ Supply Co. consists of Phil Gaudin, Skokie Country club; Tom Kennett, Bryn Mawr Country club and James Wilson, Ravisloe Country club. Harry J. Collis is treasurer.

The organization is confining itself entirely to financing of sales work among professionals and upon this operation, rather than on production activities, the basic plan of the new company is founded. It is the idea of the Professional Golfers’ Supply Co. to handle models having sales outlets exclusively in the pro field.

Mower Men Save With Bags for Clippings

ORDINARY burlap bags solve successfully the problem of removing the grass clippings cut on the greens by the mowers. It is common practice to dump the contents of the mower hoppers into piles alongside the green to be picked up later by the service truck. If, instead of this, suggests J. M. Heald of the Greenfield (Mass.) Country club, the men who do the mowing are supplied with burlap bags into which the hopper contents can be emptied, time will be saved for the truck and the appearance of the greens will be improved. It is much easier for the truck man to toss a bag into the truck than for him to rake up and remove a loose pile of grass clippings.

Due to lack of space the details of the Beaumont (Tex.) Country club’s model survey of course water supply requirements, announced for appearance in the November GOLF-DOM, is omitted.
