RIP, NEW SPRINKLER, GOES AT LOW PRESSURE

Jacksonville, Fla.—R. I. P. Co., 837 Florida ave., is now offering through the golf course equipment and supply dealers their Rip sprinkler, a small unit that its makers state will throw a 50 ft. diameter circle at 50 lbs. pressure and will operate on pressures from 5 lbs. to 100 lbs. The device is simple, having one moving part, and is non-corrosive. The Rip sprinkler is stuck into the ground by its spike stake and may be operated singly or in series. Price is low.

tising, done by the originators of the patented tees, has gone to building up the pro shop as a retail outlet for golf goods.

With the transient makers of tees throwing overboard their stocks at cut prices the pro is liable to be stamped into a price-breaking action that will ring down the curtain on pro shop sales and profits in tees. Stocks of liquidating manufacturers' tees have been available as low as $3.75 a gross, and with the retail price of well-known tees established at $36 a gross, retailers of the unbranded and unknown goods have about a 1,000 per cent margin inviting them to cut into the pros' tee business. The pros had a sour taste of what this means when they had the 5-and-10-cent stores selling packages of a popular tee for a dime. The tees had been secured in quantity and package by the stores. The pros put up such a howl that the manufacture of the tee being featured went to the expense of securing an injunction against his product being sold at the cut price. After that experience with the tee business getting away it would seem like the pros would make some effort to sell tees at a price allowing everyone to make some money and assuring protection of their market.

The situation is one of the many complexities that the pros have to solve during the coming year, and from the way the line-up looks today they will not arrive at a solution by promoting the collapse of a price position that now lets them make a fair profit and gives the player the utility and convenience of a pro shop supply at a low price.
WOMEN'S GOLF INTEREST BRINGS SPECIAL "STROKE SAVERS"

Chicago, Ill. — With strong indications that women soon will predominate on the golf course, alert manufacturers are looking keenly to women's immediate and future needs in playing equipment. Stimulus has developed from a recent authoritative survey which shows that in 1931, 35% of the active players at the 18-hole golf clubs were women, with the fair sex representing between 27% and 31% of all players at the 9-hole course.

"It is fairly safe to predict that the time is not far distant when women players will outnumber men," said Gordon Beckley of the Beckley-Ralston Co. This prediction is further strengthened by the fact that fully 70% of pro-instruction is for women. We are anticipating this situation by bringing out a set of women's 'Stroke Savers,' which are a duplicate of the men's models, but slightly lighter in weight and smaller in grip size, with attractive blue grips to distinguish these clubs from the other models.

"Women are taking to the game much more seriously than at any time in the past," Mr. Beckley added, "and they are not going to be content to use men's clubs any longer. They will demand natural grip sizes, and the new clubs are made with this in view. Leading women golfers believe that the standard of general playing will be much improved when the proper playing clubs are available."

BOBBY JONES' COMMENT ON PRO LESSONS IS SHOP AD

A newspaper article on pro instruction written by Bob Jones and reproduced as a pro shop wall poster by A. G. Spalding & Bros., will be sent to any pro by his nearest Spalding branch.

It's a big sheet, 22 in. wide by 27¼ in. long and, under the heading “Bobby Jones Says,” advises the ambitious golfer not to depend on questionable “tips” but to go to the pro for basic instruction.

OFFER ETCHED PICTURES OF HOLES ON GOLF PRIZES

Philadelphia, Pa.—Stewart Co., 722 Chestnut St., has an interesting idea in golf trophies, sterling silver trays in 6, 8, 10 and 12 in. on which views of holes at the club's buying are etched. Prices range from $13.50 to $40.50 for the trays. There is an additional charge of $10 for making the first etching of each scene. Special discounts are given for quantity orders.

PLANS OF many clubs for 1932 permit cash payments instead of charge basis formerly almost general at ranking clubs.
