Above is the recently completed clubhouse of the Tishomingo (Okla.) CC. This building is of native stone, the labor being done by local men under supervision of the WPA. The building consists of a main room 24' x 30', two locker rooms and kitchenette. A stone fireplace is located in the main room.

This clubhouse was made possible by donations of the club members and their friends, and with the assistance of the Oklahoma unit of WPA. It is located on land owned by the State Game and Fish Commission.

on the subject of meat cutting and will consist of a demonstration of the different cuts of meat and their proper use, together with authoritative pointers on the proper handling of meat. The expert for this conference will be Wm. Bauer, Wm. Bauer Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

Big Party on Wednesday

Traditionally, the conventions of the Club Managers Association include one elaborate and long-remembered get-together. This year’s affair is a “Monte Carlo” party scheduled for Wednesday evening at the Club Greyhound, Louisville’s famous supper club. A business meeting is planned for Thursday afternoon, at which time all business of the convention will be wound up, including reports of the convention committees, installation of new officers and consideration of invitations for the 1938 convention. The eleventh annual banquet and reception will be held in the Crystal ballroom of the Brown hotel that evening.

Registration fee for the convention, $15 for men and $10 for women, includes all items set forth in the program other than hotel bill and incidentals. Registration is not limited to members of the Club Managers association. Club executives and all other persons interested in the management of clubs are invited to attend and will be welcomed at all sessions of the convention except the strictly business ones.

For additional information and for reservations write J. Fred Smith, 40 S. 3rd St., Columbus, Ohio.

True, too True—Curious, isn’t it, that when new green-committees are appointed they immediately look around to see where they can start excavating fresh bunkers. A mania seizes most new committee men to alter the course somewhere, in order to justify themselves. On the majority of golf courses I visit the question which the green-committee would do well to consider is, “What bunkers can we fill in?”—Golf Monthly.

Aussie Amateurs Are Hot—Gene Sarazen, after playing with numerous Australian amateurs on his latest trip to the Antipodes, believes Australia could present an amateur team that would give the American Walker Cup team stiffer competition than the British Walker Cup teams have furnished.

GREENKEEPERS’ CONVENTION

As GOLFDOM comes from the presses, the 1937 annual convention of the National Association of Greenkeepers of America is assembling in Washington, D.C.

March GOLFDOM will carry the full story of the convention, plus some of the outstanding papers read during the NAGA’S educational conferences.
